A Fatal Accident. On Tuesday morning about nine o'clock Mr. John J. Davis, a well-known farmer and lumberman of Cambria township, reslding on a farm about four miles north of Ebensburg, on the old Carrolitown road was instantly killed by the falling of a tree. Mr. Davis, slong with his farm, operated a steam sawmill and cut a large amount of heavy lumber. In order to fill out a bill that he was cutting it was found necessary Victor E. Gill, Chest township and Laura to go to the woods and cut a tree, there being no logs in the yard from which to cut the lumber desired. David Davis, a son, and another young man started to the woods to cut the tree when Mr. Davis accompanied Thomas Branagan, Johnstown and Mary them against their protests, as they informed him that they could do the work themselves and there was no necessity for his going along. After cutting the tree until it was nearly ready to fall, they warned him to get out of the way which he did, going far enough to be clear of the falling tree. But in falling, the tree struck a dead beech which it broke off and threw in the direction of Mr. Davis, striking him on the top of his head, crushing his skull and killing him instantly. David, his son, made a parrow escape as he was within a few feet of his father at the time. A spring wagon was taken to the woods and the lifeless remains conveyed to the sorrowbefore.
