

Cambria Freeman.

EBENSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1890.

Democratic County Ticket. For Governor, ROBERT E. PATTISON. Subject to the decision of Democratic State Convention.

Democratic State Convention. The Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania will assemble at the Academy of Music in the city of Scranton at 10 o'clock A. M., on Wednesday, July 2, 1890, to nominate candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs.

FREE COINAGE OF SILVER appears to be doomed. Four and a half millions per month will probably be its limit unless present indications are illusive.

On Tuesday last Allegheny county elected her delegates to the Democratic State Convention and in five of the eight conventions held, instructed the delegates to vote for Pattison for Governor.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND told a Boston Globe reporter on Saturday that the McKinley bill was to be expected after the last national campaign.

The Republican State Convention that met at Harrisburg on Wednesday ratified the selection made by Senator Quay as was prophesied last week.

The situation at the Dunbar mine disaster, an account of which was given in last week's Freeman is still the same. Ever since the explosion which occurred on Monday last, rescuing parties have been working hard hoping that some of the miners would be reached alive.

In the Philadelphia Times of Tuesday last we read the following: Ex-United States Senator Wallace, who is at the Continental Hotel, was spoken to last night in reference to the figures given out from the Pattison headquarters.

Commenting on the figures given out by Mr. Harris Mr. Wallace said that Mr. Pattison will not get ten votes in Berks, the almost he could reach there was three; that he will not get four votes in Bradford, probably none. Instead of five in Cambria he will get none, none in Centre, none in Columbia, but two, if so many, in Crawford; none in Dauphin, but three instead of six in Fayette and none in Fulton, the delegate being instructed for Wallace; only three instead of seven in Lackawanna; in Lebanon doubtful of any, none in Luzerne, instead of seven; but one in Mouton, none in Northampton, not over thirty in Philadelphia, if so many, but one, if so many, in Schuylkill, instead of six, none in Union and Wayne extending doubtful.

The above, so far as Cambria county is concerned, is certainly strange, coming from ex Senator Wallace who lives in the adjoining county of Clearfield and who must know better. However correct he may be in his figures as to the other counties mentioned, his opinion as to Cambria must undergo a change.

Does ex-Senator Wallace expect these delegates to accept the trust imposed in them by the Democracy of Cambria county to betray it? Would he ask these delegates to face five none representatives of the Democracy of Pennsylvania assembled in the Scranton convention with their trust betrayed, that ex-Governor Pattison instead of five from Cambria would get none? We are aware that men in their anxiety for political preferment hardly know when to stop drawing on the affections of their friends, but this would be asking too much.

Cambridge county sends her delegates to the Scranton convention honestly wedded to the candidacy of Robert E. Pattison for Governor; she feels every assurance in their virtue and integrity; no Chicago divorce, "procured without publicity" by methods learned from Quay will be ratified by her people.

We firmly believe, says the Erie Herald, that ex-Governor Pattison will be nominated if the delegates elected in his interest stand by him, but if he cannot be nominated we have no hesitation in saying that the choice ought to fall upon Mr. Wallace, in order that the long cherished ambition of the ex-Senator and his friends may be gratified.

A NUMBER of people took advantage of the chance for a free ride to Harrisburg on Tuesday. The Republican delegates to the State Convention were anxious to show to the world that the Cambria county Republicans were enthusiastic for Delamater, and were marching on to Harrisburg in a body to demand his nomination. For this purpose free passes were offered to all who would go, and about twenty people availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the State Capital at the expense of the Standard Oil Company's candidates for Governor and escort the delegates to Quay's Convention. They were undoubtedly enthusiastic for Delamater.

ONE hundred deaths from cholera in Spain are reported. Will the scourge reach this country? The wings of commerce fly all over the habitable world, and disease is carried on the ocean's breeze wherever the ship or steamer floats. But there is no cause for alarm in this country yet. Still it is but the part of wisdom to cast an anchor ahead, and be prepared at all maritane points to meet the approach of the insidious disease if it should make its appearance.

Mr. Blaine's Attack on McKinley's Bill. The communication of Secretary Blaine transmitted by the President, expressed the views of the American International Congress regarding reciprocal trade in American products. It made so far as relates to American countries a distinction between the policy developed by international conference and the Chinese-wall plan of the McKinley bill. There remained, however, room for doubt as to the personal opinions of the Secretary of State on the general tariff question.

The above, so far as Cambria county is concerned, is certainly strange, coming from ex Senator Wallace who lives in the adjoining county of Clearfield and who must know better. However correct he may be in his figures as to the other counties mentioned, his opinion as to Cambria must undergo a change.

While the report of a private conference with the Senate Committee on Appropriations was being made, the question as to the accuracy of details, there is no doubt that Mr. Blaine's general position is one of extreme hostility to the McKinley tariff. If public matters should hold their coming week and their declarations are directed straight against the policy of increasing taxes, the elements of opposition to the McKinley bill will be so strengthened as to render highly probable the breakdown of the entire tariff-making project.

By drumming up recruits by telegraph and other means, a more vigorous application of the party lash, and the aid of a few votes from Eastern Democrats, the Senate free silver bill on Saturday was referred to the committee on coinage, which is hostile to the measure, and will report some sort of a compromise to the House. It will be forced through that body, and a direct vote on silver will be taken.

The question of compulsory English education has become an absorbing issue in the Western States, where there is a very large foreign population. Wisconsin is likely to be revolutionized politically by the unwise compulsory act that forbids the teaching of any other than the English language even in parochial or other special schools, and the subject has caused the Lutheran Synod of Iowa to make a deliverance which very clearly defines the attitude of that church.

The position assumed by the Dubuque Lutheran Synod is simply unanswerable. It declares public schools a public trust and that every citizen, whether in parochial or other special schools, and the subject has caused the Lutheran Synod of Iowa to make a deliverance which very clearly defines the attitude of that church.

The Lutheran declaration on public schools and compulsory attendance is simply the honest demand of fair-minded citizens and it should be accepted by people of very political and religious faith. Public schools have become an integral part of our free institutions.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The steam tug Alice E. Crew, lying at the pier at foot of Van Brunt street, South Brooklyn, was blown to pieces this morning by the explosion of the boiler. At about three o'clock in the afternoon the deck hand, reported for duty and found the crew asleep. He prepared the fire and threw himself into one of the water-casks to avoid the effects of the explosion.

Rivals in Unpopularity. If President Harrison really wants a second term as a short time ago, was understood by every one, he ought to give very serious attention to the present condition of affairs administratively and politically. Nothing can be clearer than that the course of Congress and that of the Department of the Interior in census management are making the Administration the most unpopular the Union has ever had.

Misguided partisans may assure the President that the country has grown complaisant about expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars, but it is not true. The absence of denunciation of the outrageous extravagance of the Federal Government arises merely from a feeling that appeal to the party now in power is hopeless, and that the people's remedy is at the polls. Nor is there indifference to the policy of imperialism that makes no account of local right or State lines. The country has made up its mind that the float-or Fund Machine wants to revolutionize the Government, and that the people have grimly determined that the crime shall not be committed, so long as an overwhelming majority at the Congressional voting in November can prevent it.

The President can take one comfort to himself. If he is unpopular, his rivals are equally so. The nomination of Harrison would raise the party every freedom-loving American. The Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee has just written himself as equally hostile to the interests of the consumers of the land with McKinley, who holds a similar place in the House. Allison, who has the reputation of being a free trader, is now massing his support to hold out against their oppressors, and there is no one in sight to whom, as a President nominee, there could not be raised the same objection as against General Harrison.

The Public School Question. The question of compulsory English education has become an absorbing issue in the Western States, where there is a very large foreign population. Wisconsin is likely to be revolutionized politically by the unwise compulsory act that forbids the teaching of any other than the English language even in parochial or other special schools, and the subject has caused the Lutheran Synod of Iowa to make a deliverance which very clearly defines the attitude of that church.

The Lutheran declaration on public schools and compulsory attendance is simply the honest demand of fair-minded citizens and it should be accepted by people of very political and religious faith. Public schools have become an integral part of our free institutions.

Two locomotives collided on the railroad bridge at Cincinnati, Friday night, and both plunged thirty feet into the river below. No one was injured. Geologists assert that if the continents and the bottom of the ocean were graded down to a uniform level the whole world would be covered with water a mile deep.

Permit has been granted in Chicago to build a hotel, it being the intention of the builders that it shall be the finest in the world—fourteen stories high and upward, and to cost as many millions as there is any occasion for.

A fire company at Winnet, Conn., being unable to get any but a small bucket from the hose, made an examination and found about eight inches of water sticking out of the nozzle of the hose pipe. The pipe was unscrewed from the hose, and the astonished firemen fished a live eel out of the pipe that weighed nearly three pounds.

Last week, during the heavy rain, a bolt of lightning struck one of the shade trees in A. Harmon's yard at Lincoln, Ia. He had a wire clothes line fastened to the tree and extending to his dairy house. The bolt passed down the wire and into the dairy, burning it up.

A tornado passed west over Carmel, Ill., on Friday afternoon in a path eight rods wide and about four miles in length. Everything in its path was either totally wrecked or badly damaged. The most extensive wreck was at the place of W. D. Connor. His house, barn and other buildings were demolished and Connor and his wife received fatal injuries. The school building at a short distance was blown to pieces, no timber was left standing. Fortunately school was not in session at the time. A son of Mr. Morrison was badly hurt by flying debris. C. Leonard's house and outbuilding were badly damaged and one of his boys possibly fatally injured and three others slightly hurt.

WHY DOES MARCH, THE CLOTHIER?

Next Door to the Postoffice, Sell So Much Cheaper Than Other Altoona Clothiers?

An answer will be given to the oft-repeated question: "Why does March, the Clothier, sell so much cheaper than any of the Altoona clothing merchants?" 1. He keeps thoroughly posted in regard to the clothing industry. 2. He buys directly from the manufacturers. 3. He buys in large quantities. 4. He pays the spot cash and avails himself of the liberal discounts granted on large purchases. 5. It not infrequently happens that, pressed for money, a manufacturer sells at prices absolutely less than the cost of the material and its making up. Such opportunities are taken advantage of every occasion presenting themselves.

A Steam Tug Goes Up.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The steam tug Alice E. Crew, lying at the pier at foot of Van Brunt street, South Brooklyn, was blown to pieces this morning by the explosion of the boiler. At about three o'clock in the afternoon the deck hand, reported for duty and found the crew asleep. He prepared the fire and threw himself into one of the water-casks to avoid the effects of the explosion.

The force of the explosion was so great that it stove a hole in a barge which was being docked alongside of it. The barge went to the bottom. The victims of the explosion were: Squires, two firemen and George Rodgers, steward. The firemen went down with the wrecked hull of the tug.

Senator Edmunds of Vermont promises upon his age and long service to indulge in misrepresentation of facts. But Mr. Vest of Missouri called him to book the other day and exhibited him before the Senate and country as a careless prevaricator. If not a willful liar, the Senator from Vermont is a careless liar.

Mr. Edmunds has come to be anything but an attractive figure. Garrulous when he is sober and disreputable all the time, he has recently developed a recklessness of speech that justifies the accusation that he is an habitual liar.
