—A Pittsburgh paper says the largest plate glass plant in the world is soon to be located at Irwin, Pa. A syndicate has been formed of English and American capitalists with a reported paid in capital of $50,000,000. It has been definitely decided to locate it at Irwin, and it is now only a question of time when the plant will be in full operation. It is the purpose of the new company in control, if possible, to place the glass industry of this country. There are several plants located in this country at present, but the contemplated one is to eclipse them all in size. It is claimed that the enterprise is largely backed by English plate glass makers, who find they are unable to compete with Americans and consider their only way of holding their own is by investing their money and operating plants in this country.

—J. Wilkinson & Son, marble and granite dealers of Ebensburg, Pa., wish to inform the public that they are prepared to fill all orders for cemetery work, in either marble or granite, at figures that defy competition. The artistic excellence and superior workmanship of their designs are evidenced by the many specimens now on exhibition at their establishment and by the numberless designs which they have erected in the various cemeteries in this county and elsewhere. Every department of their business is in the hands of skilful and competent workmen, who are capable of executing any piece of work from the plainest to the most elaborate, which together with the personal supervision that every job receives is a guarantee that perfect satisfaction will be given to the most exacting of patrons. They ordered forty tons of marble which arrived in April, and now have as fine, if not the finest, stock of the best marble that ever came to Western Pennsylvania. Persons wishing anything in the line would do well to give them a call before leaving their order with any other manufacturer, as you can depend upon getting a good job at a fair price.

Another Murder. A horrible tragedy took place on the outskirts of Gallitzin early on Sunday morning. About half mile from town, on what is known as the Quarry road, took place one of the most revolting crimes known in the history of Cambria county. About eight o'clock in the morning as Mr. John Nagle and his son were walking out in the direction of the Quarry, they came upon Henry Marsh who in an excited manner asked where he could find an officer, as he had "killed Clara." He was taken to Gallitzin and handed over to Policeman Lewis Rhodes, and search made for the girl who had been carried to the home of her married sister who lives in Gallitzin not far from where the tragedy occurred.

Doctors Ferguson and McDonald were hastily summoned and gave her every attention known to medical science and skill, but after lingering in agony and suffering, the girl breathed her last on Tuesday about noon. The girl was unable to give any account of the crime and it is believed that she had been collected from what was seen by parties in Gallitzin and the statement of Marsh, after committing the crime.

Both Clara Jones and Marsh, were born in the same town in England and were probably acquainted there. When they came to this country, she followed her father and the girl's father had been working in Clearfield county for several years and was killed in the Sterling mine, near Houtzdale in 1884. Some time last February, she came to Gallitzin, where she lived with her family, and on Saturday evening, at the time of the tragedy was living at Gunning's Central Hotel. She was 19 years of age and of prepossessing appearance.

Marsh came to Gallitzin about three months ago from the Clearfield County region and secured work with Mitchell & Co., as a miner. Since his coming to Gallitzin, he had been paying court to Miss Jones, and it is said she gave him little encouragement and that his attentions to her were not favorably received. On Saturday evening, at about the time of the tragedy was living at Gunning's Central Hotel. She was 19 years of age and of prepossessing appearance.
