Suspension of Johnston, Buck & Co.

It is seldom that Ebersburg has anything to write her staid and quiet movements, but the announcement on last Saturday morning about half-past ten o'clock that the banking firm of Johnston, Buck & Co., of this place, had suspended was calculated to quicken the business pulse of the community, and the news spread with almost as much rapidity as an alarm of fire. The bad news was, however, too true, as a card at the window of the banking house confirmed the report to all who wished to verify the fact by reading for themselves... The direct and sole cause for the suspension was the failure of the banking house of B. K. Jamison & Co., of Philadelphia, which occurred on Friday last. With this firm Messrs. Johnston, Buck & Co. did business and at the time of their failure had deposited about $40,000. This amount of ready cash, suddenly taken from them and left in the hands of the insolvent firm, was a certain to embarrass them, and fearing a run on their bank, Messrs. M. J. & A. W. Buck, the surviving members of the firm, decided after a hasty consultation to suspend...

The Nicelys Break Jail.

SOMERSET, Pa., November 30.—Joseph and David Nicely, who were under sentence of death for the murder of Herman Umberger, in this county, in February, 1889, broke jail at 7 o'clock Saturday evening and escaped, with two other prisoners. The escape was effected by sawing locks from the cell door and from a door leading from the attic, where a hole was made through the brick wall. The prisoners reached the ground by means of a rope taken from a hammock in their cell. They had been confined in their cell since the alarm was given. Searching parties were organized at once, and are now scouring the country. On account of the darkness the criminals may reach the mountains and escape. The escape is attributed to carelessness, as the jail is a new one, made of steel, and could not be broken if properly locked. An old man, named Queer, who was confined in the jail on a charge of arson, attempted to follow the Nicelys down the rope and fell fifty feet to the ground, which injured him in two places. His cries gave the alarm. The citizens assembled in the court house, and, in a few minutes, subscribed a large sum to defray an expense for search and rewards for the capture of the fugitives. No definite clue has yet developed. The Nicely-Umberger case is one of the most famous of recent years in Western Pennsylvania. Herman Umberger was an aged and well-to-do farmer, who in confidence in banks, and was known to have a large sum of money hidden in his house, on a lonely road near Ligonier. One night, nearly two years ago, two men called at the house where Umberger, his aged wife, a domestic and a hired girl were the only occupants. A demand was made for money, and when it was refused, Umberger was shot, the women and child were overpowered and $30,000 in cash carried away. The Nicely brothers, sons of the wealthy farmer in Somerset county, were arrested for the crime, and convicted on circumstantial evidence. The Supreme Court sustained the lower Court, and since then the fight for their lives has been before the Board of Pardons. The last appeal was made at the last meeting, and the Board decided not to interfere. Nearly a year ago the Nicelys broke jail, after almost killing the keeper, when they were recaptured and sent to Indiana county for safe-keeping until a new jail could be built in Somerset county. This was completed only a month ago, and they were confined in it but a short time. Two of the Nicelys' relatives were in the town yesterday, and it is supposed they had helped from outside. A reward of $300 for their recapture has been offered. SOMERSET, Pa., Dec. 1.—David Nicely, one of the four prisoners who escaped from the county jail on Saturday night, was recaptured this morning, and is again locked up. William Farnor, a young farmer, residing a mile from town, who was all of yesterday and last night aiding in the search for the escaped prisoners, returned home before daylight this morning and found David Nicely secured under some hay in Farnor's stable, with his leg and arm broken. Nicely surrendered without trouble. He was taken to the county jail, where he was confined in his cell, and suffering great pain from his injuries. While escaping he fell from the rope, breaking his leg and arm. His companions were also more or less injured while escaping, but they are now safe from their pursuers. SOMERSET, Pa., Dec. 2.—Joseph Nicely, one of the escaped murderers of Herman Umberger, gave himself up to a 17 year old boy in a farmers farm, not over half a mile from Somerset, to-day. The prisoner, who was dressed in a blue coat and trousers, and had a badly sprained ankle. The owner of the farm, J. J. Searley took him to his house, dressed his nearly frozen feet in cold water, and gave him a good dinner. He was taken back to the Somerset county jail.

Tea Nights in the Barroom.

Last night the Carl Brehm Company made their second appearance at the Central barroom, and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. R. W. Stewart, as Joe Morgan, the drunkard, showed the downward career of the poor imbricated, his delirious scene being especially fine. W. Forey Kaplan as Simon Slade, the Landlord from the beginning to the end, was to die in place of acting. Will C. Whitlock and May Lewis as Sample and Meatable kept the audience in roars of laughter. Master Ed Stielzel as May Morgan, has a bright future. He is a fine actor, and has many in the audience were moved to tears. We congratulate Manager Brehm on having surrounded himself with such a company of artists.—Scottish Independent.
