On Friday last, while Mr. William Tierney, of Cambria township, was in town attending to some business he left his team and sled standing on the street near Kirschner's tannery. The team got frightened at something and started to run. Up High street the team ran at a break-neck pace keeping the middle of the street until they reached the Central Hotel when they took the side walk on the South side and followed it for two squares to Center street where they turned the corner and ran to O'Hara, Brown & Lother's livery stable where they were captured. Notwithstanding there are several porches on that side of the street and numerous shade trees along the curb, and in many places the space between the porches and trees is so narrow that it could be a good device for engineering a team through on a walk, notwithstanding the porch or shed were scratched and the horses escaped unhurt. Several pedestrians on the street hustled to get out of the way, but all made their escape in time.
