A Literary Sensation. Since the departure of Amelie Rives Chanler from this country almost immedlately after her marriage, we have had only brief newspaper paragraphs concerning her life and literary intentions. Not a little curiosity has been displayed as to the posof her complete withdrawal from the field of letters. It is now nearly three years since anything of importance has appeared from her pen, but no one has believed that the exceptionally brilliant author of "A Brother to Dragons" had finished her career as a writer. A recent paragraph is y papers announced the fact that Mrs. Rives-Chanler was hard at work upon a new novel destined to arouse the entire literary world by its artistic merit and bold originality. There have been many conjectures advanced as to the probable irce through which the new novel would be given to the public. Notwithstanding the high prices which Mrs. Chanler de-mands for her manuscripts, it was known that many publishers were in the fi competition for her latest work. While many rumors were affoat, the Cosmopoli-tan Maguzine had quietly secured it and placed in the hands of a famous Paris artist illustration. It is announced now that the first chapters will appear in the August number of the Cosmopolitan, and that, In the estimation of critics who are most con petent to judge, this last story will be the most finished, as well as interesting, product of this versatile Southern pen. The story the same to return the fish immediately to is likely to be the literary sensation of the car. Its publication in the Cosmopolitan s a guarantee that it will contain nothing of the kind that excited criticism in Amelic

Rives' earlier productions.

P. R. B. Route Book. The Pennnsylvania Railroad's Summer Excursion Route Book for the season of 1891, just from the press, is undoubtedly one of the most elaborate reference com pendiums issued by any railroad company in the world. The company this year has ised new Illustrations, printed on a very high grade of paper, while a decided departure from the old cover heretofore binding the work is seen in the new one, which is beautifully illuminated, and would do redit to a Rosi, so eleverly French is it in very detail. The new map embraces a erritory from Canada to the Carolinas, and from the British possession of New Brunswick to the great Inland Lakes. When comparison is made with this volume of 272 pages, 100 illustrations, and over 1,500 routes, a book which enters its car of manhood the first day of June, 1891, and the tiny pamphlet of 24 pages and 63 outes issued by the Peennsylvania Raitoad twenty-one years ago., and considered at that time a great departure in railroap advertising, the growth is hardly credible,

After the decoration was concluded, the veterans and citizens present marched to the spacious temperence hall, where a warm welcome was given to the soldiers and citizens by the patriotic pastor of the St. Augustine church, Rev. H. Mc-Evoy. The orator of the day, Dr. J. B. Noonan, came forward and in a brief speech, overflowing with patriotism, eulogized the soldiers of the republic for main-taining an asylum to which the oppressed of all lands and decreased of all lands and of all lands could come and enjoy the blessings of civil and religious liberty. This brought Rev. Father McEvoy before the audience again, who, with touching eloqueuence and touching pathos, pointed out the crowning fruits of the discovery of America by the Catholic navigator, Christopher Columbus.
