> A gentleman just from Cape May Point is authority for the statement that Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt has not yet resigned, although he thinks it extremely probable that Mr. Harrison may ask him to do so very shortly. He says that Roosevelt went to Mr. Harrison and demanded in a dictatorial manner to know what action had been taken on the report he made recently recommending the dismissal of some twentyfive Federal officials in Baltimore, and upon being informed that the report had not been examined he flew into a rage and told Mr. Harrison that he wanted him to understand that if these men were not dismissed he (Roosevelt) would resign. That ended the interview and Roosevelt has gone out to his western ranch. This may or may not be true, but certain it is that Roosevelt has browbeat Mr. Harrison more than once, and his calling Mr. Wanamaker a liar is a matter of public record, but for some reason Mr. Harrison has lacked the nerve to demand his resignation. Pittsburg Letter.

[Special Correspondence.] Риттявива, Sep. 3, 1891. All day long hammers rang and saws coarsely growled preparing for the opening of the third season of the great Pittsburg Exposition. Twenty thousand visitors attested their interest in the popular institu-tion, and expressed their admiration in words of commendation and praise at the brilliant success which attended the opening of the third and finest Exposition of the series. The Exposition is a great place to study human nature, and it is not to be wondered at that exhibitors and managers alike, were gratified that their efforts to please were heartily appreciated by the throngs of people who completely filled the massive Exposition the value there is in it for levery visitor. The displays should be visited scriatum and in a methodical way. As an enthusiastic individual said last evening: " If it should happen to-night that the whole civilized world, with all its exploits and achievements should perish by some cosmic catastrophe, like that which engulfed Atlantis, and out of all the work done in the world nothing should remain but the Exposition buildings and their contents, it would be possible for future science to reconstruct the whole of our civilization. Out of that collection the antiquarian of the fiftieth of the nincteenth, as though he had the shoes we wore and the hats wherewith we were covered; the food we ate and the couches we slept in; the carpets upon which we trod and the kind of houses we built; the picread. He could rebuild the writing machine and the steam pump; the telephone and the cash register. These mammoth structures contain the best expression of what the American people are and what they an do. It is an open book and very visitor should read it from cover to cover." . The gentleman stated the facts correctly and we cordiafly agree with him.

Every department of the Exposition is full to overflowing with costly and attractive displays. It is difficult to suggest how the exhibits could be improved, either as to their character or arrangement, and we do not wonder that the public was more than satisfied and delighted at what it saw and heard last night.

The magnificent band of the famous New York Seventh Regiment seemed to play as players never played They could not help but do so, for certainly the music was enchanting, -A heavy rain storm flooded the streets and encore after encore showed how highly it was appreciated by the vast meet the wishes of all.

Then the fine Art Department loan collection. Words are powerless to describe its wondrous beauty. Nothing like it has ever been seen in Western Pennsylvania; it is indeed a rare collection of gems, carefully selected by men of taste and culture for the embelishment of their homes. Its value is represented by hundreds of thousands of dollars; the rooms are handsomely draped and every thing which good taste could suggest has been done to properly display the magnificent canvases. We have not space nor time in this letter to go into details, but will reserve that for a future time. We urge our readers to personally visit the supurb galleries and see for themselves what has been prepared for them. We are informed that the railroads centering in Pittsburg have made liberal corcessions so as to enable our readers to take in the Exposition, and we feel sure that they will improve the opportunity to do so.

ger for months at a time, you don't want to put in your wheat this fall without an ample quantity of food-enough to grow a full crop of wheat and succeding grass.

To supply this plant-food in the proper shape is our business We say proper shape because most anybody can mix a little South Carolina Rock and Paint together and call it fertilizer; but twonty-three years' experience at the business, with our complete facilities has enabled us to make fertifizers that will produce the des sired results. There isn't any question about it. You will say so too, if you have used our goods, and if you haven't, you can get them and all desired information from our agents. The Thomas Phosphates are standard and thoroughly guaranteed.
