STORY OF A DIAMOND.

It Was Obtained by a Surgeon from Brazilian by Sharp Practice.

A rare diamond, weighing nearly four carats, now in New York, has a remarkable history. It was found, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch, in the gold F.J. BURGOON, Train Master, district of Brazil by a native who did not know its value, but kept it as a "luck" stone. One day while journey ing to a camp of traders with his gold the second wound and continued on his journey. While stooping to drink from a brook the fangs of a snake were fastened in the bag which contained the stone. On reaching the camp he was found to be succombing rapidly to the effects of the venom, and when questioned by the camp surgeon told how the snake had seized the bag at his throat.

The surgeon was permitted to see the stone, and, suspecting its real character, he told the native that it was extremely dangerous to have it about him. as it attracted venomous reptiles, and advised him to sink it in the neighboring brook. The superstitious finder of the diamond acted upon the suggestion, and the covetous surgeon, having watched the proceeding, availed himself of the first opportunity to fish the gem from its hiding place. The diamond was purchased recently from the cutter in Europe by Edwin A. Thrall, of New York.

BRAZIL'S DOMESTIC PET.

A Bon Which Is Used in South American Houses to Kill Rats.

Rats have multiplied to such a de-gree in Brazil that the inhabitants rear a certain kind of snake for destroying them. The Brazilian domestic servant is the giboia, a small speeles of the boa about twelve feet in length and of the diameter of a man's arm. It is sold at from one dollar to one dollar and fifty cents in the markets of Rio Janeiro, Pernambuco, Bahia, etc. This snake, which is entirely barmless and sluggish in its movements, passes the entire day asleep at the foot of the staircase of the house, scarcely deigning to raise its head at the approach of a visitor or when a strange noise is heard in the vestibule

At nightfall the giboia begins to hunt, crawling along here and there, and even penetrating the space above the ceiling and beneath the flooring. Springing swiftly forward it seizes the rat by the nape and crushes its cervical vertebrae. As serpents rarely eat, even when at liberty, the giboia kills only for the pleasure of killing. It becomes so accustomed to its master's house that if carried to a distance it escapes and finds its way back home. Every house in the warmest provinces where rats abound owns its giboia, a fixture by destination, and the owner of which praises its qualities when he wishes to sell or let his house. -Chicago

Dis. No. 1. No. 2. No. 3. P M 3 35 3 44 3 56 3 55 4 00 Asunder Perhaps Forever A prominent young doctor living in the West End, in a very fashionable portion of St. Louis, is the possessor of a bright mind, which is above a conspienously long neck, says the St. Louis Star-Sayings. Now, this elongated pe-culiarity of the doctor is a particularly touchy subject to allude to in the bright young M. D.'s presence. The doctor will arise to such an occasion and fire a man into space who criticises this physical peculiarity. Most young men either have or soon acquire what is known as a sweetheart. The doctor had one, and this lovely composite quantity unconsciously called her affiant's attention to his deformity in a very practical and heartrending way.

Not many months ago the young couple were in New York for the first time, and of course went about seeing the sights of that metropolis. In time the couple found themselves at the Zoological gardens, inspecting the animals. The relict of Mr. Crowley was there, the young lion cubs and the rest of the beasts for which the garden is famed. There is also a very beautiful pet giraffe that enjoys the liberty of the surroundings, and the very thing which caused the wide chasm between the young people's love. The lady became a little tired after a time, and, seeing the shadow of a long neck beside her, said: "Let's go home, Charley," and proceeded toward the exit. Realizing after a time that her stand what is meant by a breakfast in London. He will probably take breakfast in his lodgings, or, if he lives in the hotel, in the coffee room at a fixed charge. There are two distinct classes of breakfast, says the Chicago Herald, the light and the substantial, with prices to match. The first is one cup of coffee, one boiled egg and three slices of toast; the latter is one small chop, one egg, a penny loaf of bread, one buttered muffin and coffee. The principal

Dealer Gives a Recipe for Prolonging Their Usefulness. People who feel that their shoes wear out too quickly should heed the words of a dealer in Chicago, who tells the Mail: "Do you know there isn't one man in five hundred who knows how to wear shoes? The average man buys a pair of shoes, wears them until they are no longer presentable, and then throws them away and buys another pair. A man ought to have at least two pairs of shoes for everyday wear, and no pair should be worn two days in succession. At first thought this may strike you as a scheme to benefit the shoe dealer, but it is nothing of the kind. In fact, such a plan would injure the shoe business Two pairs of shoes worn alternately will last three times as long as a single pair. The saving, of course, is made in the wearing of the leather. A pair of shoes worn every day goes to pieces more than twice as fast as a pair worn every second day. No two pair fit your feet in exactly the same way. In one su22 witp-nr pair the strain and wear of the leather falls heaviest upon one particular part of the shoe and in another the greatest wear and tear falls upon another part altogether. I took a trip through Europe last summer and in several places I was surprised to find the shoes worn by peasants have no 'right' and 'left' distinctions, but are worn on either foot. I was told that such shoes were preferred to those which more closely conform to the shape of the foot, be cause they last longer, since the strain upon any part of the shoe to-day i changed to another part to-morrow."
