FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1909

All indications point to the election of Congressman Mills of Texas as United States Senator from that State.

Senator Hill started Sunday night on a trip south. He will address the Mississippi legislature and speak at Savannah, Ga. Several short speeches will also be made at other points on the way.

YOUNG JIM BEANE, whose wife was recently granted a divorce is now it is reported fixing his eyes on a rich California heiress whom he desires to marry for her cash. There is nothing like "coasting anchor to the windward."

WHITFIELD REID, now Minister to France, long editor-in-chief of the New York Tribune, and now its proprietor, is talked of as a Republican candidate for the nomination for Vice President with Harrison. He is a millionaire, having married "Bonanza" Mills' only daughter.

A Congress apportionment bill, which as nearly as possible divides the congressional districts of the state of New York between Democrats and Republicans, has been prepared, and it will specify pass both houses and be signed by the Governor. There are 34 congressional districts in the state. The bill makes 12 districts Democratic, 15 Republican and 7 doubtful.

The Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission has been unfortunate in its Chairman the first one of them, Hon. Charles S. Wolfe, having died immediately after his appointment, and the second, Mr. Whitman, having been forced to resign on account of ill-health. The vacancy, however, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. A. B. Farquhar of York, a gentleman whose various qualifications admirably adapt him to the position. Among the evidences that he is a level-headed man is the fact that he is a manufacturer who does not believe that his business is benefited by a monopoly tariff.

The Pennsylvania railroad is trying to get together for the purpose of comparing a number of locomotives of different types. The company has ordered from the Baldwin Locomotive works a ten-wheeled passenger engine compounded on the Vaucain system; from the Schenectady works a passenger engine compounded on the Pitkin system, and from the same works a simple engine with 19x21 cylinders and 61 feet drivers, weighing about 125,000 pounds. All of these engines are ordered simply for purposes of investigation and comparison. The Baldwin compound No. 82 has been running on the Pennsylvania line west of Pittsburg within the last few weeks and has shown extraordinary efficiency.

The Senate Finance Committee has directed a favorable report to be made on the House bill for a better control of and to promote the safety of the National banks. In substance the bill forbids banks to make loans to its officers or servants unless the loan is approved by a majority of the directors or the executive committee, and also forbids banks to allow their officers' accounts to be over-drawn. A new paragraph has been added as an amendment, authorizing banks to enlarge their circulation to the full par value of the United States bonds deposited, so that the bill must go back to the House after it passes the Senate. The committee ordered adverse reports to be made on four bills introduced by the Democratic Senators to remove the taxation of state bank circulation and to subject national bank notes and United States treasury notes to state taxation.

A SPECIAL from Johnstown to the Pittsburg Dispatch of Thursday says: "F. H. Barker, chairman of the Cambria County Republican Committee, and George R. Soull, of Somerset, were in conference here today (Wednesday) with a number of leading politicians regarding the Congressional nomination in this district. Editor George T. Swanik, F. H. Barker, ex-Assemblyman John M. Rose and Captain H. H. Kuhn, of this county, each think they would make good Congressional timber, but it is said that Congressman Soull has not yet decided to give up his claims to the place. Cambria county people, however, insist that he has had enough, and the conference to-day was for the purpose of effecting an amicable arrangement, so that the two counties could present a united front when the nominations take place." Strange that Captain Thomas Davis is not mentioned, as he was under the impression that he was a congressional candidate two years ago.

SPEAKER CRISP will, if his health permits, make the closing speech in the debate now being so ably maintained by the Democratic members of the House on the free wool bill. Mr. Springer will be unable to take any part whatever in the debate, as his physicians say that he must go away as soon as he is well enough to travel, for five or six weeks of absolute rest, before he can resume his duties in the House. The state of Mr. Mills' health is such that it is extremely doubtful whether he will be able to make any set speech, but there will be no lack of speeches, as nearly one-third of the Democratic members have notified Mr. McMillin, who is in charge of the bill, of their desire to speak. It is probable that some of them will have to wait until one of the other tariff bills is called up, as it is the present intention to vote on the free wool bill on the 21st inst., to get it out of the way of the free coinage bill, which comes up on the 22nd under the resolution adopted Monday of last week.

Mr. CLEVELAND's letter to General Bragg, says the Philadelphia Times, has the flavor of patriotic frankness that comes with every utterance from the ex-President, and one sentence in that letter should specially impress the American people's attention, when reads upon the Presidency are common among small politicians. Cleveland declares that "the Presidency is pre-eminently the people's office," and he adds: "I cannot bring myself to regard the candidacy for the place as something to be won by personal strife and active self-assertion."

It is true, as Mr. Cleveland says, that "the Presidency is pre-eminently the people's office," and it is high time that the people themselves should appropriate this important fact. It is the highest civil trust of the world, and the man who is called to the Presidency should be the choice of the considerate judgment of the American people selecting a public servant to discharge the most responsible duties under our free institutions. It is the one office in the Republic in which the President-elect should bring the highest dignity of character and the clearest record of manliness, and only men who can thus come to the highest honors of the Union should be regarded as within the list of possible Presidential candidates.

Unlike most Presidential aspirants, Mr. Cleveland always means precisely what he says. He has at times suffered much from his candor in expressing his views upon public questions, but time has always vindicated the soundness of his judgment and the integrity of his convictions. He is the one public man of the nation today who dares to be right, to speak for the right and to act for the right as he conscientiously understands it, and that is why he is today the choice of an overwhelming majority of the people of the nation, who desire a change in the political power of the national government. He fully fills the bill of a man who regards the Presidency as "pre-eminently the office of the people."

The bill in equity filed by the Attorney General with reference to the leases and agreements known as "the Reading deal," says the Pittsburg Dispatch, puts the legal issue in a clear form. There has been some dispute as to the course the administration would take in this matter, but the action of Mr. Hensel, who has already indicated the course he would take, is a true and a just one. The bill sets forth that the railroad contracts and controlled by the leases and contracts are parallel for certain portions; that the principal ones have been, prior to the agreement, competing for freight and passengers and that they are all competing in the transportation and sale of anthracite coal. It might be argued that the purpose of the leases and consolidation was the suppression of competition; but it meets the same end by pointing out that the securing of the control is in violation of the Constitution, against public policy, and void.

This bill will bring the question before the courts authorized to pass upon it. Unless the corporations are able to show a very different state of affairs than that disclosed by the Attorney General's bill, the decisions of the same courts in the South Penn case leave little doubt that the leases will be declared void. But, while securing such a decision will be decided a credit to Attorney General Hensel as the first case to be decided by the Supreme Court, it will not finish the work. Mr. Hensel should see that the Constitution is obeyed, so that the rulings are not nullified in actual practice, as was done in the South Penn case.

If Attorney General Hensel presses this issue to a complete victory the second term of Governor Pattison will fittingly complete the good work of his first term. Ex-Governor James E. Campbell, of Ohio, was in Chicago on Monday and in an interview as to the chances for Senator Hill nomination said: "I cannot see any hope for Senator Hill. The Southern trip will probably strengthen him," said he to-day, "but it is impossible for me to see where he can get enough votes to secure a nomination. I am for Cleveland, not because I believe in his nomination, but because I believe the Democratic party deserves his nomination. He is the best representative of Democratic principles we could select from the many men who have who would make good executive officers. He represents the reforms the Democrats are demanding, and for these reasons I think he is the man to nominate."

The Ohio State delegation, I believe, will be largely for Cleveland. Hill may have some of the districts but the majority will prefer Cleveland. It is not at all certain that either Cleveland or Hill will be nominated. In fact, it is quite probable that the nomination will be given to a western man. There are plenty of able and desirable men in the West, and perhaps it will prove a way to combine the factions in New York. It is likely that it will be a convention of surprises, and there is no telling who will be the successful man."

From all directions where workers of iron are employed, says the Philadelphia Record, come news of proposed or accomplished reductions in wages. This is not the first time that the working man was invited when he was imploried to vote for "Harrison and Protection" and against "Cleveland and Free Trade" in order to prevent wage reduction and assure himself of more butter for his bread. If he shall learn in this day of calamity that the ups and downs of tariffs do not control the ups and downs of wages the lesson will have been dearly learned, but it will be worth all it cost. It may be that there is no other way to fool the workman than of this vote in 1892 than it was in 1888.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

There is a saying that the real elixir of life will be found when every woman is contented with her cooking. When she is certain that they do not draw in the back no wrinkles in front that the seams are not "puffed" and the skirts have no scallops after wearing a short time it will be when they are made of first-class milled flour.

The popularity of black goods is still at its height, and every woman seems to have at least two in her wardrobe, one of a high class, as black silk, Honorable, always near, made, refined and costly for any occasion, and the other, a more practical, made of wool, for all and young alike. Of course, the latter is the more popular, and it is therefore to be expected that the demand for it will be very large. It is hardly necessary to add that we carry a large line of these beautiful fabrics in prices ranging from $2.50 to $10.00 a yard.

A handsome mourning dress can be made of the same material by the addition of a touch of black to the black, and a touch of mourning. But the elegant, stylish dress, made of black, is the one that is most popular. It is in black we have the most beautiful fabrics in the world. In fact, we have a large stock of these beautiful fabrics in prices ranging from $2.50 to $10.00 a yard.

Every woman applies to a milliner, and what wonder, so soft, so dainty and so graceful in its lines, its texture and its variety. In fact, we have a large stock of these beautiful fabrics in prices ranging from $2.50 to $10.00 a yard.

Two imported stallions, costing $7,000 each, and owned by David Pullman, of Leavenworth, Kan., broke down a fence between them on Sunday and engaged in a fight which resulted in the death of both. Mrs. Jane Young, the aged widow of a Mexican war veteran, while waiting for her horse near Elkton, Montgomery county, Sunday night, having starved to death.

Michael Langhain, aged 12 years, three times the victim of a moving locomotive passenger train at Park Place on Saturday and was instantly killed. What caused him to do the act is not known, but he is supposed to have been temporarily insane.

August Lindhof, of Pl. Dodge, Iowa, became a candidate for alderman against the protest of his wife. He worked all day at the polls and was elected. When he returned home he found that Mrs. Lindhof had gathered up her effects and vanished.

Hunters near California, Pa., are excited over a snow which has been several inches recently in the mountains. It is said to be a large buck with spreading antlers and as fast as the wind. A party hunters who saw the animal last night are said to have been hunting for it.

A woman residing near Scranton, whose maiden name was Kate Landis, in 1878, was married to Albert Babosch. Subsequently she has been married and divorced four times. Last week she again married Babosch, her first husband.

Thomas Agler, aged 70 years, a somewhat wealthy citizen of Akron, Ohio, was found in the arms of his son yesterday, suffering from brain and neglect on the part of his children, to whom he had turned over all his wealth. He had been kept in the barn for two years by his daughter-in-law.

Joseph Miller, who was stabbed by O. P. Smith, recently at a dance in Grange hall, Salem township, Westmoreland county, died of his wounds on Wednesday. On Thursday morning information was made against Smith and his two sons, John and Richard, charging them with murder.

Burgess Barrett, of Washington, Pa., issued a notice that Clark's female milt-steps should not perform in his town Saturday night, and his action was approved by the highly moral council. The manufacturer threatened to sue and the burgess renounced the notice, which proceedings caused the high-kickers to have a crowded house at the theatre.

It is reported in the City of Mexico that Jay Gould is negotiating with the Mexican government for the purchase of the famous Chapultepec Castle, it being rumored that he has offered $2,000,000 for it. It is believed Mr. Gould will make the castle his winter residence, as he is unable any longer to stand the rigors of a winter in New York.

Attorney Sherwood, who has just become interested in the case of Ed. McMillen, who is sentenced to be hanged at Williamsport on April 7, has discovered an omission in the indictment which is considered important and the matter will be taken before the supreme court for decision. This will defer the execution if the supreme court does not change the decree of the lower court and jury.

It is reported upon good authority that General Master Workman Powderly, of the K. L., contemplates resigning his position at an early day. He is said to be dissatisfied with the position, which has been heaped upon him in the last two weeks by labor leaders who have heretofore been his friends. These criticisms have their origin in Powderly's failure to be present at the hearing in the Reading Railroad deal at Harrisburg recently.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 12th, 1892. Speaker Crisp will, if his health permits, make the closing speech in the debate now being so ably maintained by the Democratic members of the House on the free wool bill. Mr. Springer will be unable to take any part whatever in the debate, as his physicians say that he must go away as soon as he is well enough to travel, for five or six weeks of absolute rest, before he can resume his duties in the House. The state of Mr. Mills' health is such that it is extremely doubtful whether he will be able to make any set speech, but there will be no lack of speeches, as nearly one-third of the Democratic members have notified Mr. McMillin, who is in charge of the bill, of their desire to speak. It is probable that some of them will have to wait until one of the other tariff bills is called up, as it is the present intention to vote on the free wool bill on the 21st inst., to get it out of the way of the free coinage bill, which comes up on the 22nd under the resolution adopted last Monday.

Mr. Harrison has been as precipitate in making public the correspondence with Lord Salisbury concerning the resolution of the tariff, as he was in sending that famous letter to the Senate. Mr. Harrison is in bad and has had nothing to do with this undue haste. Before the last communication to Lord Salisbury could possibly have been made and digested by the Senate, something unheard of in time of peace. It is not probable that the Senate will take any action on the arbitration treaty, which was sent to the Senate yesterday one day, until time has been given Lord Salisbury to reply to the last dispatch sent.

It is generally expected that Representative McCreaty of Kentucky will be chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign committee this year. The committee will be held for that purpose in a few days. Representative McCreaty ranks as one of the ablest of our countrymen, and his House this week is closed, the country will be fully convinced that the tariff is the paramount issue, and that silver is not such an important question as it is made to appear to be on the floor of the House when the vote was taken on the resolution settling aside three days, beginning March 22nd, for the consideration of the Bland free coinage bill, would seem at first glance to indicate.

The House Committee on Rivers and Harbors has closed its report, and hopes to have the bill reported to the House within a week or ten days. Chairman Blanchard says the pressure for appropriations was at least 25 per cent greater this year than he ever knew it to be before, and that facts concerning the development of commerce on the great waterways of the country were brought before the committee, that are simply astounding to those who have not made a study of the subject. It is not probable that the committee will be able to get the total appropriations carried by the bill below $20,000,000, without injuring the business interests necessarily involved in the improvement of rivers.

A car carrying the remains of the late Representative Kendall, of Kentucky, who died here of apoplexy this week and was buried in the city, was taken to the cemetery by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The car was taken to the cemetery by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The car was taken to the cemetery by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Commissioner of Patents is sending out a circular to the effect that printed copies of patents that Congress will be likely to hear from soon. It notifies the applicant that, owing to lack of funds, the Commissioner is unable to print copies of patents, and that orders cannot be filled until additional funds shall be provided by the proper authorities. Congress is the proper authority, and the thousands of manufacturers, inventors and owners of patents, who will be seriously inconvenienced by not being able to get copies of their patents, will be asking Congress very soon part of the $4,000,000, earned by the Patent Office, and now lying idle in the Treasury vaults, not to tax for it.

The Treasury will be asked to properly transfer its very important business to the Treasury, and to answer that Congress will be asked to pass a bill authorizing the spending of so much of this money as may be necessary to provide the room needed. Arguments will be heard by the House on the bill proposing an appropriation for the exposition.

Ex-Representative Clements, of Georgia, has been nominated to be Interior Commissioner. The nomination was made by William Landis, of Kentucky, who declined the place. The appointment is a popular one in Washington, where Mr. Clements has many friends.

A Girl Lynched. RAYVILLE, La., March 13.—The lifeless form of a colored girl was found dangling from a tree on the road leading to this place Saturday morning. She was identified as that of a 15-year-old servant of W. B. Helminger, who resides on the Greenwell place, 20 miles from here. The girl became offended at the action of a colored man also employed in the house, and in seeking some mode of revenge she decided to put rough on rats into his coffee. She put the poison into the coffee intended for the family meal. About nine persons drank the concoction, and all came very near to death. The girl acknowledged that she intended to kill the man and she did not care particularly who else suffered.

On Friday night some parties started out to bring the girl to the jail at Rayville, but they had not proceeded far before a masked party overtook them and strung the girl up to a tree at the first crossing. All the parties poisoned will recover.

An Escaped Murderer Caught. JAMES F. MILLS, charged with the murder of Peter Dugan, was taken back to jail at Butler Saturday from Marietta, where he was recaptured, after a series of exciting incidents. An immense crowd awaited the train on which Mills arrived, and he had to be taken to prison in a closed carriage. Mills will be tried this week. Peter Dugan was married December 23, 1891. He and Mills were confined in the Marietta jail for over a hundred-foot of land. On the previous night the two men were at a dance at Benfrew, and while under the influence of liquor they quarreled. The fight resulted in the murder.

Field Declared Insane. NEW YORK, March 16.—Judge Van Blunt has decided Edward M. Field is insane. The Judge said: "I have arrived of the conclusion that 'E. M. Field' is confined in an insane asylum under State Supervision until such time as it can be definitely determined whether the symptoms which he exhibits of insanity are real or feigned."

NEWS AND OTHER NOTINGS.

Ten men can be arranged to march in single file 3,628,000 yards. —It is said that Blaine will shortly take a trip south for the benefit of his health. He has made "We have been arguing ex-President Cleveland to make public an avowal in connection with the approaching Democratic presidential convention. Under date of March 5 he wrote a letter to Mr. Cleveland from Fort Du Lac, containing the following paragraph: "The danger to public interest which a failure of the Democratic party would involve seems to me to require the avowal of your willingness to submit to any service to which your party may assign you. Many entertain the belief that you may decline to do so, and that you will not, but you can effectively remove, and your voice will everywhere be heard with benefit and effect. I believe your usefulness to the nation would be greater than ever in the past to carry to victory the cause of tariff reform and to restore the blessings of good government to our people. This is your fellow Democrat, and fellow citizen, and in your opinion, the president and that you will accept that nomination if the convention shall make it and again undertake the duties of the office, and I will cheerfully support you, if you will, for that office."

In reply, the ex-president writes as follows: "LAKESIDE, N. J., March 9. "Hon. Edward S. Bragg. "DEAR SIR:—Your letter of the 5th inst. is received. I have thought much about it, and I am glad to hear of your position as my fellow Democrat and fellow citizen, and in your opinion, the president and that you will accept that nomination if the convention shall make it and again undertake the duties of the office, and I will cheerfully support you, if you will, for that office."
