The tinplate people may say that such a comarison will prove nothing because the ndustry is not yet established, but at the same time it must not be forgotten that the importations for the latter half of 1801, owing to the heavy receipts in anticipation of the tariff, were only one seventh of the receipts for the whole of the year. In figures, the receipts for ought to make such comparison gener-

31, 1892, we imported 230,373,360 pounds of tin plate. As a protection to the domestic "industry"—to prevent it being injured by foreign competitionwe paid upon every pound of this material a tariff of 2.2 cents, a total of $5. 068,213,92. The consumers paid all these millions not for fin plate, but in paid to "stimulate" the home industry, and give it a permanency in the land and a deathless grasp upon the pocket-
