The executive committee of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society met in Harrisburg, last week, and signed the contracts for holding the state fair at Scranton, September 5th to 10th, inclusive.

An attempt was made on Monday to start the puddling furnace in Carnegie's Twenty-ninth street mill. Pittsburg.

The fire was fought in the hopes that the men would come to work, but, according to the Press Committee of the strikers, not a man reported for duty.

Bradstreet states that there are 80,000 iron and steel, timber, stone, quarry, paving and other employes on strike, or locked out, aside from the usual idleness at this season of nearly 50,000 glass-workers. In all about 350 iron and steel mills are idle, most of them west of the Alleghenies.

It costs the state $22,000 a day to keep the troops at Homestead for the purpose of protecting one of our infant industries. This is not exactly the kind of protection the American working man would expect under the McKinley bill, but it is the only kind they will ever get from the beneficiaries of the tariff.

The Philadelphia Ledger (Republican), says of the Democratic nominee for president:

Grover Cleveland, in words and deeds has shown himself to his countrymen as a man and statesman worthy their respect, confidence and affection. He has long tended for purity in politics, for integrity in administration, for lofty ideas of government, and with rare wisdom, simplicity and dignity, and shaped to good ends his life as a citizen and as a public servant. The consequence was such a universal demand for his candidacy by the most thoughtful, respectable masses of the Democracy that the most aggressive opposition of those who were unlike him in character and purposes was overcome, and his nomination achieved in accordance with the popular will and power.

The Ways and Means committee has agreed to recommend the adjournment of Congress on next Monday, July 25. The necessary work of the session is so far advanced that it is probable that the date fixed upon will be agreed to in the House and concurred in by the Senate. As long as Senate and House shall be at political cross-purposes there can be no legislation touching matters in regard to which the two great parties are in thorough disagreement. They can, however, agree to disagree, and go to the country on their records.

The House has not attempted a complete revision of the tariff because it would have been to indicate the line of reform and amendment which may be expected when the Democratic party shall have regained complete control of Congress.

SENATOR VOORHIES, in his recent speech in the Senate, discussing the Homestead affair, told the following truths: "Labor riots such as this were unknown while there was a tariff for revenue only. They had been made possible by protection. You (the Republicans) had made these poor people who had laid down their lives on the Monongahela believe you were protecting them. Never was there a greater lie. You (the Republican party) had said the Carnegies must be protected against foreign competition in order to enable them to pay higher wages to their laborers. Had they done it? The Republican party had given them 55 per cent. on iron; more than 70 per cent. on steel and instead of paying higher wages Mr Carnegie told his men he would have to insist on from 12 to 40 per cent. lower wages. We have two excellent protectionists in Indiana, and whenever Pinkerton men pour into our state to discharge the duties of peace officers and to make arrests, we have a call for every one of them. The same can be said of the great state of New York."

The chief protection organ, says the New York World, now says that a high tariff "is not at all intended to give one set of workers special advantages over another." Its benign purpose is to "increase the demand for all labor, and so increase the pay which labor as a whole can get."

When the McKinley bill was under discussion its advocates urged that higher duties were needed in order that the protected industries might pay the high wages required by the needs and the dignity of American workingmen.

When no increase in wages followed, McKinley told the voters of Rhode Island last spring that his tariff was not intended to increase but to "maintain" wages.

Now that wages have fallen and five hundred strikes have occurred in protected industries the organ of McKinleyism says that protection "is not at all intended to give one set of workers special advantages over others."

This will be interesting news to the workers in protected industries who have been told that high tariffs are adopted to guard them against competition with cheap labor abroad in the same line of production.

Is it not the climax of absurdity in this wonderful system that a duty of 45 per cent. on steel is necessary to enable the bricklayer or the carpenter to get high wages here, or that a duty of 100 per cent. on glass and 75 per cent. on woolens is required to enable the farmer and the longshore man to prosper?

Are not the favored manufacturers great philanthropists to yield their "fat" freely in campaign contributions solely to increase the general average of wages?

What will be the next excuse for the failure of the millionaire beneficiaries of the tariff to divide fairly with their workmen the bonities secured to them by the tariff?

The following circular has just been issued by Secretary Worman, of the Democratic societies of Pennsylvania:

"Democratic Societies, clubs of Pennsylvania:

"You are called upon now for thorough organization. You have important work to perform. The Chicago convention did its work well, and the Pennsylvania delegates are to be commended for their firm stand in favor of Grover Cleveland's nomination for the high office of president. He had been thoroughly tried and came up to the full standard of Jeffersonian Democracy. Both Cleveland and Stevenson are men of unquestioned integrity. The ticket is a strong one, and by active and energetic effort will be triumphantly elected in November next. It is therefore expected that members of these societies and clubs will do their duty earnestly and manfully. Important matters for the welfare of the nation are to be considered in the high future, and Grover Cleveland has the intellect, the wisdom and the courage to propose such measures as will result in the greatest good to the greatest number of the people. Among the important measures to be considered is the tariff. Tariff for revenue is just, but a high protective tariff is an unjust tax upon the people, and the benefits to be derived from it are not as great as the evils it brings to the people. It is the duty of the Democratic Society of Pennsylvania to have more than a nominal interest in the history of the republic. There is a period when a general recurrence to constitutional and therefore to Democratic principles was more necessary than at present. Reunite Democratic societies, consult the active members of the party, and organize at once. After the election of officers the secretary will forward to Major John D. Worman, general secretary, Harrisburg, Pa., the names and addresses of all officers.

Judge Cyrus L. Pershing, of Schuylkill county, was renominated for Judge by the convention of that county on Monday. Judge Pershing is a native of this county and is well known to many of our older citizens. We clip the following from the Philadelphia Times.

The Democratic convention of Schuylkill county has very properly placed Cyrus L. Pershing in nomination for a third term as president judge in that district. Nominated at first by the Republicans and supported by the best element of all parties, he has shown himself in the highest and best sense of the term a non-partisan judge and should have been accorded a unanimous re-election. Partisan considerations seem to have prevailed with the Schuylkill Republicans this year, however, and without waiting to see what action the Democrats would take on the matter they nominated District Attorney Koch for the position. Now that Pershing has been placed in nomination by the Democrats he is certain to receive the votes of a large class of business Republicans and to be elected by an overwhelming majority, a compliment that will be as creditable to the voters of Schuylkill county as it will be deserved by Judge Pershing.

On Monday, Secretary F. T. F. Lovejoy of the Carnegie Steel Company, Limited, appeared before Alderman McManister, in Pittsburg, and made information against seven of the Homestead strikers one of whom is Burgess McLuckie of Homestead. Burgess McLuckie when he heard of the warrants being out immediately went to Pittsburg and gave himself up and was locked up. He was afterwards released on $10,000 bail. The other parties for whom warrants were issued will give themselves up it is said.

A REPUBLICAN newspaper published at Mr. Stevenson's home, Bloomington, Ill., says: "Mr. Stevenson is a gentleman of unimpeachable character, and his political friends will have no reason to apologize for him in that particular, and of him they may tell the truth, without shame to themselves or scandal to their party."

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 15, 1892. Senator Bruce is finding it difficult to stick to his long-ago expressed determination to retire from the chairmanship of the Democratic National committee, owing to the wish of Mr. Cleveland, ex-Secretary Whitney, and other prominent leaders of the party that he should remain to take the duties of the present campaign. A gentleman who has just returned from a visit to Mr. Cleveland says that the middle into which Mr. Harrison has thrown the party has been the cause of the present situation. He says that all those who opposed his nomination have made a deep impression upon Mr. Cleveland and that he will show an opposite spirit when the Democratic committee meets to organize for the campaign by insisting that no such discrimination be made.

The free coinage of silver has been killed again, and this time it is really dead, for this session anyway. The fight in the House over the bill was entirely outside of party lines, as may be judged from the fact that Mr. Beckley, who was the acknowledged leader of the 151 members whose votes defeated the resolution reported from the committee on Rules for the consideration of the free coinage bill. Opinion differs as to what, if any, effect this disposition of the bill will have on the campaign. Representative Beckley, of Kentucky, says the defeat of the bill will result in the election of Mr. Cleveland and the retention of a number of Eastern congressional districts that would have been lost if the House had passed the bill. He says that the "reactionary" feeling that there is danger of losing a few seats in the House on account of the failure of the bill, but those that are lost will not be to Republicans but to Democrats, who are secretly with Democrats on the tariff and in opposition to the force bill. It will also cause a number of members who have usually been elected without effort to fight for their seats.

Every one who has had any experience with the present mixed-up pension laws will endorse the resolution reported from the House committee providing for the appointment of a select committee of five, three to be taken from that committee and two from the committee on Pensions, and authorizing it to sit during the coming recess, for the purpose of co-ordinating and arranging the pension laws now in force.

Republican filibustering prevented the joint resolution providing for the election of U. S. Senators by the people being adopted by the House this week. They objected to it because it lacked the support of the Senate, and the plan of electing Senators under Federal supervision.

Representative Bailey, of Texas, who believes it to be the duty of Congressmen to earn the pay they receive by being in Congress, is being urged by Democrats and whose consistent and persistent objections to the passage of any bill in the absence of a quorum, has brought him money and perhaps a pension, and believes in practicing what he preaches, and when he went to the sergeant-at-arms of the House to draw some money he requested that official to deduct one day's pay from the amount, as he was absent one day. Mr. Bailey contends that the deduction is in strict accordance with law, but the sergeant-at-arms will not do so without the accounting officers' consent.

It is said that the Knights of Labor are preparing to make a determined opposition in the House to the proposed World Fair appropriation bill. The organization alleges unfair treatment of its members by its charge of the work upon the grounds of the exposition at Chicago.

Contrary to expectation, the anti-opium bill failed to reach a vote in the Senate this week, although by a vote of 33 to 15 it was given the right of way, but it was crowded out by an appropriation bill necessary for the support of the government, and it will require a majority vote to get it up for consideration.

The Senate has adopted the amendment to the Sundry civil appropriation bill providing for the appropriation for the World's Fair of 10,000,000 southerners last dollars, to be expended for special designs, with amendments prohibiting the opening of the fair on Sundays and the sale of intoxicating liquors on the grounds.

Unless something entirely unexpected shall prevent it, Congress will adjourn within the next fifteen days. It is just possible that there may be a serious hitch over the numerous amendments which the Senate has added to the Sundry civil bill when that measure gets back to the House. Some delay may also be occasioned by the adoption of legislation necessary for the support of the government, which the House committee now engaged in investigating the connection of the Pinkertons with the Pennsylvania labor trouble, if that report can be made before adjournment.

No More Arrests Made.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 21. Constable Webber stated to-night that he had been unable to serve any more subpoenas at Homestead because Constable McBroon, yesterday, refused to give him any help to-day. McBroon claims a committee called on him last night and notified him that if he gave any more information to the officers, they would hang him. He said others in Homestead had received similar warnings. An unverified report was in circulation that a committee led Homestead this evening to meet the officers of the company and the strike. All efforts to find the committee or locate the conference was fruitless.

Condition of Crops.

The report of the Department of Agriculture of the Pennsylvania weather bureau for the last week shows that the western part of the state has fared pretty well with regard to rainfall, which has been normal. In the north west there has been a heavy rain, which has been beneficial. The crop of oats is well advanced and has good color. Tobacco and potatoes, while in good shape, need rain. Rye and barley, which are ready for harvest, promise a good yield, also, so near to the crop of wheat, which is generally light. In the southern counties harvesting is about over.

Boycott Against Carnegie.

SCOTTDALE, July 20.—The trainmen on the Southwest Pennsylvania railroad have already commenced to act under instructions received by them from the national organization, in refusing to haul any freight consigned to the Carnegie company.

Monday night, it is said, the men pulled the pins and left several cars of material consigned to Homestead and other mills of the Carnegie company at the Southwest junction.

A secret meeting of railroad men was held here Sunday.

The warden of the penitentiary at Zacatecas, Mexico, reports that last Friday three prisoners who were serving life sentences for robbery, were instantly killed by an electric discharge during the progress of a thunder storm, and ten more were made insensible by it, five of that number having since died from their injuries.

A Year of Great Crops.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, July 15.—Never since the settlement of Idaho have there been such enormous crops as during the present season. The prospects of grain and grain has been wonderful. This is the result of a change in the climate, produced by the multiplication of irrigating canals, which maintain a regular and constant water supply, and the extent of country and crops a humid atmosphere. It is believed by men of experience, who have lived on the arid belt for the last forty years, that the best time for planting crops is during the month of July, and the rainy season this year has been unusually prolonged. Colorado had the same experience.

If the grass crop has been large there is no use for it. For the last two winters have been very dry, and the stock raising and the number on hand is estimated at nearly double that of two years ago. A majority of stock men are not permitting their animals to run at large, but are feeding themselves all the winter months, as a few years ago, but are keeping them up and feeding them. Besides this they have much improved in quality.

Curious Surgical Work.

MARLBETTA, O., July 18.—A notable surgical operation has just been performed here by Dr. J. C. McGowan, Surgeon Jones, of this city, and Calender, of Parkersburg, W. Va. The patient is the $10,000 trotting stallion Reception. The operation is nearly new, this being the third time it has ever been performed in the United States.

Of late the breathing of the animal has been badly affected, and an external examination disclosed the left arytenoid lymph gland in the upper part of the windpipe, partially closing it, causing a miniature strangulation. The horse was thrown and chloroformed, when the windpipe was cut open, and the gland was being made just back of the throat strap. A hand was inserted and the offending member entirely removed. After this was accomplished a piece of rubber hose was inserted for a drainage tube, the incision was sewed up, and the animal is now all right.

Labor Costs.

The Iron Age is a thoroughly loyal servant of the protected interests of Pennsylvania.

In its last issue it presents a table of the cost of the wire rod in this country in order to show that the operatives receive very high pay.

In doing so it is forced to give the labor costs in a ton of rods. It is $1.35.

We rods are produced by a process of six-tenths of a cent a pound. This is $12 a ton, or more than six times as much as the whole cost of labor.

The duty is practically prohibitory. The importation of foreign rods in 1891 valued at $92,000 and of steel rods at $5,000.

On nearly every ton of wire rods produced in this country, therefore the American consumer pays a bounty of about $10 above the whole cost of labor.

A Train Crashes into a Buggy.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., July 18.—An accident that will probably prove fatal to Mrs. Blanche Phipps, forty-five years old, Mrs. Emma Phipps, thirty-five and Frank McConkey, fourteen, occurred this morning at McCulloch's crossing, three miles from the city, on the Ohio and Mississippi railway. The trio were driving in a buggy, and McCulloch, the horse became frightened at an approaching train, which struck the vehicle, killed the horse and threw the occupants of the buggy 30 feet.

When Mrs. Blanche Phipps was found her head lay under the lower rail of a fence, and five men were required to raise the rail before her head could be extricated.

Both women were divorced from Daniel Phipps a few years ago.

BAITZELLS

THE Handkerchief is of remote antiquity and has ever played an important role as a dress accessory. Always a favorite gift medium, and not so long ago expensive if beauty was desired, more and more attention has been given their manufacture, until now, when a 25-cent handkerchief is really a dainty and dressy affair and no possible comparison to those of equal as many years ago, while 50 and 75 cents supply really exquisite creations. There is no department in our store more deservedly admired or more irresistibly attractive than the Handkerchief Booth, as it contains the best, the cheapest and the most varied and beautiful that the markets of the world produce, and in prices to suit all conditions. At 2 cents a colored border handkerchief is shown, a very pretty one at 5 cents, and increase in beauty and fineness in many styles. In plain hemstitched, cotton 5 cents; linen 12, 25, 30 and 50c., and in fancy embroidery 25, 30, 35, 40, 50, 60, 75c. $1 and all prices up to $2.35 in finest linen. Many of the patterns are extremely beautiful and elaborate and the fabric very sheer and elegant.

Equitively hand embroidered French lawn of colored texture are exceedingly elegant and sell at prices ranging from 25c to $2.25 and $2.50. This work is done in convents and "perfection" is a word hardly good enough to apply to them. Our entire stock of these patterns are in stock that have run a little low in high prices, and now range from $1 to $1.50.

BAITZELLS' Altoona.

George W. Baitzells of Homestead, who died at the Pittsburg Hospital, Pittsburg, on Monday morning from the effects of the wound received.

Samuel E. Morris fell from a balcony near Indianapolis Saturday afternoon, to rescue a child who had lost its balance. He broke both arms, but saved the child. Morris is editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel.

A Glasgow paper states that an engineering student who had spent 10 years' experimentation and labor, devised an arrangement in an engine by which he returns all the steam back to the boiler after doing its work in the cylinder.

The two murderers of Jacob Marks, killed near Towson, Pa., last week, were arrested at Montreal on Monday. The murdered man's watch and other property were found on the prisoners. The murderers have been in jail for months over the States and Canada.

M. Spiridon, a wealthy Frenchman, has offered to end to the World's Fair, to be exhibited in the department of fine arts, the original model of St. Peter's in Rome. The model will come with an authenticated history, showing it to be the one designed by the architect, San Gallo, in 1540.

Major William Tulman, ex-cashier of the defunct Falls City Bank of Louisville, Ky., who went to Canada ten months ago, after misappropriating $90,000 of the funds of the bank and using a widow's trust fund of $15,000, has returned, the money which he took having been made good and the indictment against him dropped.

A female member of St. Paul's Cathedral congregation, Pittsburg, on Saturday confessed to pocketbooks from persons who led them on the reading while at confession.

The woman said she had stolen her sick husband and children, and her story on investigation proved to be true. She will not be prosecuted.

M. Etna, the great volcano which has erupted so many times in the past, upon the beautiful island of Sicily, is again active. The eruption threatens to be very serious, and the accompanying earthquakes have already done much damage to property. The eruption is the most serious of that of 1892—caused a loss of life estimated at from 50,000 to 100,000.

Wille McDowell, an eight-year-old son of Alexander McDowell, of Reading, Pa., on Sunday evening climbed up one of the big chimneys in front of the cotton factory on South Ninth street for the purpose of procuring a bird's nest. Just as he reached for the nest his hold slipped and he fell twenty-five feet to the ground, landing on the neck, sidewalk, and died shortly afterwards.

Captain Frank C. Calhoun, foreman of Devore's undertaking establishment in Pittsburg and an old soldier, was fatally stabbed in the abdomen on Monday morning by Ed Lester, a private in the Fourth regiment. Lester and a companion named Hook were intoxicated and tried to force their way into Devore's, when Calhoun, who was alone, drew his sword and Lester ran his bayonet into Calhoun's abdomen. Lester and Hook are in jail. Calhoun cannot recover.

Fire broke out at 2 o'clock Saturday morning in the big stables on South street, Pittsburg, owned by Stephen R. Foran and Richard Erickson. There were thirty-seven horses in the building, most of them being boarded, and only six were saved. The employees of the stables had been sleeping in the second story, and they lost all their possessions. Some of them had a narrow escape in getting out of the burning building. Foran saved a part of his carriages. A strong wind blew from the southwest, and the fire department was unable to save a cottage adjoining owned by Mrs. Conover. The total loss is about $15,000.

Mr. Christopher C. Ball, a farmer, living about six miles from Harrisburg, Pa., on Monday morning was the happy father of nine children—six boys and three girls. The boys are Thomas, with his brother George, aged eleven, went in swimming. George was the last to go in. When he began to wade out he saw his brothers were in trouble and he hesitated. He then saw his brothers drown, one after another, within twenty feet of him and he was powerless to assist them. The current was running very strong and the water very deep.

Every Democrat

Is interested in the national ticket. To arm himself against the sophistries of the Republican party, every Democrat should read "The Basis of the Democratic Party," the latest, the largest and most authentic campaign document ever issued. It shows the fallacy of protection, the weakness of reciprocity, the financial mismanagement and wasteful expenditures of the Republican party. The comparison of the Mills and McKinley is an eye-opener to farmers, mechanics and laborers. Complete biographies of Cleveland and Stevenson, a report of the convention, the party platform and an exposition of Democratic principles. Nearly 600 pages. Price only $1.50. Special terms to Democrats club. Big pay to working men. Canvassing book sent free for 10 cents. Address H. J. SMITH & CO., 35 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.
