The extreme hot weather has had no effect on the coolness between Mr. Harrison and Mr. Quay.

The Reading Iron Company's two blast furnaces will go out of operation indefinitely. Nearly 150 men were employed.

The Republican National Chairman, Carter, has resigned the position of commissioner of the land office in order to devote his entire time to Mr. Harrison's campaign.

This will probably be the last week of the present Congress, unless there shall be a dead lock between the House and Senate on the World's Fair appropriation, and that is not regarded as probable.

The fast United States cruiser Columbia, designed to be a commerce destroyer, and in this respect claimed to be the most formidable war vessel in the world, was successfully launched on Tuesday, at Cramp's shipyard, Philadelphia.

An anti-Pinkerton law has been passed by the Massachusetts legislature and signed by Governor Russell. Non-residents cannot be called into the state by private individuals or corporations to assist in quelling disturbance or riots.

The selection of William F. Harry, of Philadelphia, as chairman of the Democratic national committee is a pointer that the campaign will be conducted with energy and vigor. Mr. Harry is the right man in the right place.

FIFTEEN MINERS met their death by an explosion in a coal mine near Pottsville last Saturday morning. There were sixteen men in the mine at the time, and only one was rescued alive. Every building in the vicinity was shaken by the explosion.

The steamship, City of Paris, arrived at New York on Wednesday from Liverpool, breaking the record for a western run by 53 minutes. The time was 5 days, 15 hours and 55 minutes. The best previous time was 5 days, 16 hours and 51 minutes, held by the Teutonic.

W. K. VANDERBILT'S splendid yacht, Alva, was run down and sunk by the steamer Dimock early Sunday morning. The millionaire and his guests narrowly escaped with their lives and were taken on board the steamer in their night clothes. The yacht was at anchor in a dense fog off Nantuxet shoals.

Every workman should do all he can for the election of Mr. Cleveland, because his election means popular government, the equality of men and an end to the false conditions which make Carnegie, possible and permit Pinkertonism to run riot. It means equal laws for equal men and an end of favors to the few.

JOHN W. RYAN, the leading member of the Schuylkill county bar, has officially announced himself as an independent candidate for president judge of the courts of that county. Under the new election law Mr. Ryan was compelled to get 100 signatures to his nomination petition. The novelty of the procedure is attracting considerable attention.

The lowest wages paid in this country for labor at all skilled are in industries having protection, and none of them pay more than the market rate for labor, while all strive to appropriate the entire tariff bounty to themselves and give workmen no share. All ultra protectionists harp continually upon the alleged high wages paid by American protected manufacturers to their foreign imported laborers, but an examination of the pay rolls shows that the claim consists chiefly of imaginary money and that in point of fact they are the poorest paid laborers in the United States, and the more highly protected the factories are the less wages.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 22nd, 1922. Mr. Harrison is still keeping up his war on the men who dared to oppose his nomination at the Massachusetts caucus last week, turned his attention to "Saint Matthew" Quay, as the junior Senator from Pennsylvania has been called since he made his scurrilous quotations in favor of closing the Erie Canal on Sunday, and by nominating George Stairs, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa., to the vacancy on the bench of the United States Supreme court he gave the saintly Matthew a knockout blow that may sadly disarrange his hair.

Mr. Stairs owes his good fortune to the fact that Quay had a candidate for the place and that he tried to make his friend's nomination the price of his cordial support of Harrison. It may be that it was because Mr. Harrison thought Quay's opposition more desirable than his support that he declined to nominate his man and sent for Representative Dulz, whose enmity to Quay everybody knows, and told him that he might try his hand at nominating Quay for the vacancy. It may have been from some other cause; at any rate that is what he did, and finding that Mr. Stairs, who is now in the hands of the Pennsylvania bar and that he was endorsed by some prominent people of his own and other states, Mr. Harrison nominated him, without being personally acquainted with him or having even met him. Quay is not saying anything against the nomination, but he will get revenge if he ever gets an opportunity, while his crony colleague, Cameron, is openly kicking.

Although the House by a vote of 122 to 110 refused to concur in the Senate amendment to the Sunday closing appropriation bill appropriate to the World's Fair, it is expected that it will in the end agree to the appropriation, although it may not be exactly in the shape of the Senate bill. The World's Fair officials now here, are doing much more real kicking about the amendment, which has been adopted by both House and Senate providing the opening of any part of the World's Fair on Sunday, than they are about the temporary defeat of the appropriation amendment, and they will make a strong fight before the House will strike out of the bill as they will to have the appropriation amendment put back, but the chance of success is hardly as good in the first as in the last.

Democrats are asking each other how it is that ex-Senator Malone, the notorious Republican lobbyist, has been able to control the votes of such Democratic Senators Vest, Butler and Blackburn whenever the question of purchasing a site for a new government printing office comes up. Malone owns a piece of ground which he is trying to get purchased for that purpose, and although he has not yet succeeded, he has, with the aid of the Senators named and others, succeeded in preventing the purchase of other and more eligible sites. Democratic Senators do not enhance their own reputations by helping such men as Malone in anything.

Representative O'Neill, of Missouri, succeeded in getting an amendment to the Sunday bill adopted by the House which, if it is not struck out in conference, will prohibit the employment of Pinkerton men at the closing of a R. R. encampment in this city, and at the World's Fair.

Civil cases investigation committee had several Pinkerton men before it yesterday, but their testimony concerning their presence at Homestead and the fight did not differ materially from what has already been published. The committee will present a report as far as it has gone in the investigation in a few days, and will continue its work during the recess.

Quite a number of Democratic Congressmen went over to New York to take part in the Cleveland and Stevenson notification Jubilee, Wednesday night and they agree to a man in saying that the money is already at work in the pocket, and determined to carry New York city by a larger majority than ever. They also agree in saying that the meeting at Madison square garden was the most immense affair of the kind ever held.

Mr. Harrison offended Senator Proctor when he nominated Col. Eugene A. Cull, several Pinkerton men before the general, the colonel when secretary of war having promised the next vacancy to another colonel. Promises do not count with Mr. Harrison when they conflict with his own policy. Representative O'Rourke, of Ohio, made an exposure on the floor of the House, this week, that may result very unpleasantly to Allen Butherford, a local claim agent, who has been sending letters to parties interested in the bill for the relief of the hospital service, demanding pay for having had the bill passed. Mr. O'Rourke says the colonel is liable to arrest for using the mails for fraudulent purposes as well as for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Released on Bail.
PITTSBURGH, July 25.—A large crowd was present this morning in the criminal court room to hear the decision of Judge Magee on the application of Hugh O'Donnell, the Homestead strike leader for his release on bail. O'Donnell was less nervous than during his hearing and seemed to be confident of his release.

O'Donnell, Ross, Fay and Allen were brought into court at 10 o'clock. Judge Magee said: "I have gone over the case carefully. The evidence shows the defendant was not an active participant in the killing. It shows he was in sympathy with the crowd and that, by his side standing by, is responsible for the acts. I do not think there is any doubt about the right of the prisoners to be heard, and will fix it at $10,000."

District Attorney Burleigh—Under your honor's ruling we are content that the other defendants be admitted in the same bail.

The court then proceeded to accept bail for the defendants.

Private Mass. who was tied up by the thumbs at Homestead for calling for "three cheers for the man who shot Frick," do doubt deserved to be punished but the manner of his punishment is a relic of barbarism and a disgrace to the state. The officers who ordered and approved of the method of punishment are filling positions far beyond their mental capacity. Killer is evidently a fool, but if the fool killer gets to work at Homestead there will be several vacancies for Governor Patton to fill among the commissioned officers.

Eighteen thousand persons attended Madison Square garden, in New York, on Wednesday night last week, to witness the ceremonies of notifying Governor Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson of their nomination for president and vice president by the Democratic party.

Highest of all Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

H. C. Frick, Shot.
Henry Clay Frick, the executive head of the Carnegie lines, lies at his home, twice shot and twice stabbed, by a Russian Hebrew, Nicholas Kozmin, and a German, Hermann, now a resident of New York.

The attack was made upon Mr. Frick at 1:45 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. The assassin secured admission under the guise of a New York employment agent. Just inside the entrance to the private office he fired two shots, one into the arm and the other into the back of the head. Then the man twice plunged a long dagger into the chairman's side.

Mr. Frick never lost his presence of mind. Vice Chairman Leishman rushed to his assistance. Though Mr. Frick had then been pierced by two pistol balls, he forgot his wounds in the danger of his partner, and rushing up he received in his own forehead a dagger point intended for his partner. And even when the assassin was thrown down he interposed and saved the life of his wounded associate.

The tragedy occurred in Mr. Frick's office, and many people saw the affair from the street. Berkman, the assassin, tried to get away, but Frick, who told the employes that he was the representative of an employment bureau. He entered the room, and pointing the revolver at Frick, pulled the trigger. Frick, who had been sitting at his desk, turned round and was again shot, the second bullet taking effect below the base of the brain. Vice Chairman Leishman, now dashed forward toward the murderer and seized his wrist.

Frick, wounded as he was, grasped the assassin and tried to force him to the floor. As soon as Mr. Frickmann released the assassin's right wrist, Berkman pulled a dirk knife and plunged it into Frick's back. At this point the Deputy Sheriff may have rushed into the room and placed a revolver against Berkman's head. Frick immediately cried, "don't do that. Don't kill him. Just get him away from here," and pushed aside the dirk-knife revolver. The assassin was then taken to prison, where he was examined when it was found he had a dynamite in his hands and one in his pocket. His intention evidently being to blow himself up. Berkman is a slender built fellow about 22 years of age, and is said to be a Russian Jew, and a nihilist. He refused to talk or give any explanation of his dastardly attempt on the life of Frick.

Dr. Hinchfield, Dr. Tindle and Dr. Joseph Dixon had been called in before 2 o'clock. They cut the bullet out of Mr. Frick's back and dressed his wounds. He did not become unconscious at any time. He refused to take any anesthetic, and ate a hearty meal, took a nap and fell into a deep sleep. This lasted until evening, when he awoke and assured his friends that he was feeling well. Mr. Frick was taken to his home at Homestead in the evening.

The doctors say that unless some unforeseen complication occurs, Mr. Frick is almost certain to recover.

Willing to Arbitrate.
PITTSBURGH, July 25.—Three car loads of non-union men, in all about 150, arrived from the east this morning and were taken at once to the Homestead plant. Secretary Lovely says there are now about 150 non-union men at the plant, and he is ready to accept the terms of the arbitration. The firm anticipates but comparatively little difficulty in operating the mill full blast in a shorter time than at first seemed probable. Although the work is being done by plants and no effort will be made to resume until Homestead is supplied with a full complement of men.

The Homestead workmen have taken the first steps to have their trouble settled by the methods suggested by the voluntary arbitration act of 1883. J. Brennan, the attorney for the workmen, says that a petition has been in circulation among the local workmen since last Friday. Mr. Brennan said: "It is necessary that the employees of the firm should sign the petition to have the county court appoint a tribunal of arbitration. Of course the assent of the Carnegie Steel company is necessary before the court can act in the matter, but we shall do our part."

Killed by a Spring Gun.
Jack Cooley, one of the notorious Cooley gang, was shot Thursday night while attempting to break into Thomas Collier's milk-house, near Fairchance, Fayette county, and died from the wounds he received Saturday morning in company with his brother Frank and Jack Ramsey, were trying to effect an entrance into the milk house when the accident occurred.

When Jack forced the door open, the gun which Collier had placed inside as a trap for thieves was discharged, and the load of buckshot struck Cooley in the abdomen. The wounded desperado was picked up by his comrades and carried to his father's home, three miles away.

When the gun was discharged the twelve thought they had fallen into the hands of the sheriff and his posse. Without waiting to return the fire shot they picked up the wounded man and gave him the best medical attention they could. The sheriff and a posse is hunting the other members of the Cooley gang.

When the news of the shooting of Mr. Frick reached Homestead on Saturday afternoon private lines shouted: "Three cheers for the man who shot Frick!" He was arrested, placed in the guard house, and a court martial soon found him guilty. He was strung up for two minutes, his body being swung to the ground, and then became unconscious, when he was cut down. On Sunday his hair on the right side of his head and face was shaven off, his uniform and arms were taken from him, and he was clad in a tattered suit of clothes he was drummed out of camp in regular military style. This punishment carried with it a dishonorable discharge from the guard, a prohibition from ever again enlisting in the United States army, and disfranchises him from voting in Pennsylvania.

The towns people naturally declare that the punishment was too severe but the effect of it has been to effectually suppress any similar expressions. Since the execution has subsided the people generally condemn the shooting of Mr. Frick as cowardly and liable to harm their cause.
