A Train Blown From a Track.

Denver, Col., November 20.-A passenger train on the South Park Railway was, last night, near Kenosha, blown from the track by heavy wind. The train was bound from Leadville for Denver and experienced no difficulty from the strong winds which had been blowing all day until a point midway between Kenosha and Jefferson station was reached. Here the strong gusts reached their climax and without warning the whole train was blown from the track and toppled over a slight embankment Eleven people were hurt, but strange to say none of them seriously hurt. D. M. Gates, the express messenger suffered the worst injury A wrecking train was sent to the scene, and the passengers were brought to Denver about midnight. The accident is accounted for by the gathering of the wind in a deep canyon, and its sudden expulsion just as the train was passing the mouth of the
