John Martin, the Portage coal operator, was in the city yesterday, and in speaking of the coal developments in this county he said that Cambria county was destined to become one of the richest bituminous coal fields in this country. The present output. according to the inelcations, will be doubled or trebled within a few years.

In his own immediate vicinity extensive operations have been in progress for some years, but much greater activity will be developed within the next twelve months. All the coal lands in the vicinity are being purchased by operators and speculators, new mines are being opened and others are in contemplation.

This same activity is found in every part of the county. ### The Institute Lecture Course. On next Monday evening Mr. Leven Ir.

ving Handy will lecture in the Court House on "Patrick Henry: Orator and States man." Here are a few testimonials:

I consider Mr. Handy's lecture on "Pat-rick Henry" the finest lecture in the sphere of historical biography I have ever heard. He has evidently made a loving study of Virginia's most gifted orator, and by his own eloquence on the platform is able to enlist the sympathies of the audience in his own admiration of Henry' character, genius and services. - Dr. J. D. Moffat, President Washington and Jefferson College The lecture was one of the most delight fully entertaining to which I have even listened, and it was full of information The manner of the lecture is both agreen-ble and forcible. I want to hear him again and would be glad to have every teacher in our state hear him. - Hon, D. J. Waller Jr., State Superintendent of Public In stuction, Harrisburg.

The lecture, delivered with all the force for which Mr. Handy is noted, abounded in happy descriptions, forcible illustrations and original views of the life and work of Patrick Henry .- Wilmington Every Evening.

It was indeed a fine lecture. Mr. Handy is an eloquent, brilliant speaker, with a sparkle of humor in his discourse that is most pleasant. He is a man who must be heard to be fully appreciated.
