Another Line. The corps of engineers in this place comnenced on Tuesday running a line and making a survey for the improvement of the branch railroad between Ebensburg and Bradley's. Instead of going along side of the present road through the farms of John R. Davis and Richard Owens, the line leaves the branch at Bradley's by curving northwest through the farm of Ira Bloom, passing a few feet north of his barn, then nearly due west through his entire farm, re ching the creek near the old saw-mill on land of Mr. Joseph Noel and thence down the creek and striking the line formerly run at the east end of town.

By adopting this route it is said a much better grade will be had and with the exception of a heavy cot near the baru of Frick George miller, Johnstown. Frick George miller, Johnstown. Frick George miller, Johnstown. is also anticipated that this route would much less liable to snowdrifts in winter, which, in view of the difficulty experienced in keeping the road open this winter, is quite an item in the eyes of the company.

What's a Farm Title.

The question, What does a man buy when he purchases the title to a farm? has often been asked, but not satisfactorily denot material once used, then taken down and laid aside, nor material purchased for a new fence, unless these are specifically mentioned. He also buys all adjuncts necessary to the farm, except the implenents and machinery. For instance, if there is a pile of bean poies cut and once farm; but if cut and never used, they are the seller's property unless specified as sold. Standing trees and trees which have fallen or been blown down go with the Daw on. ground, but If cut down and made into cord wood, they become personal property and to go with the land must be specified

Judge Barker and other leading Republicans control the developments there, and it is said they will employ nothing but colored labor. The contractor on the new Blackltck road will also be induced to employ colored men who will vote right. BALTZELLS'

WE are especially pleased with our pattern goods, for we know that the most exquisite gowns can be evolved from them, especially when we consider that there are the most beautiful gimps and galoons that match perfectly and elegant laces in all the latest designs. The chief charm of pattern goods is the fact that no two are alike. Where the figures are the same the colorings are entirely different. There are three patterns in changeable diagonals, tan, blue and mixed light shades, all different but all handsome Nearly all are in a variety of diagonals. There are two patterns in Russian green and mode shades that are very beautiful. There are three patterns in changeable silk and wool in shades of red and green that are perfectly magnificent. One pattern in diagonal, silks and wool in exquisite shades of steel and mode is a beauty and three patterns in a Persian weave in different shades that are exceedingly beautiful. Then there are two patterns in melon-shaped figures in shades of tan and blue and tan and mode that are extremely lovely and are pattern in silk diagonal in palest shades of pinks and blue that might take the lead for dainty attractions. Closely following it is a pattern in diagonal changeable blue and gold new shades that show off ch rmingly, and three patterns in fancy Whik Cords in changeable shades with fancy Russian green borders that will make up stylishly to a degree.
