

The Senate and House at Harrisburg have concurred in a resolution fixing Thursday, June 1st, as the day of final adjournment.

There were over 500,000 persons at the opening of the World's fair in Chicago, 692,000 having paid admission. The receipts of the gate were nearly 200,000. This beats the record, the largest attendance for one day at any previous fair being 400,000 in Paris in 1889.

The defeat of the Brown road bill in the Senate last week by a decisive vote after the rejection of a substitute for its provisions may be accepted as an indication that there will be no road legislation this year. This is unfortunate as the roads of this state are in anything but a good condition, and under existing laws are not likely to improve. But it seems impossible to frame a bill at this time satisfactory to the majority of the members of either House.

The boiler of the steambait Ohio exploded on Sunday morning, scalding a number of the deck passengers and deck hands in a frightful manner. Six had died, and it is thought that at least ten more will die. The suffering of the victims was dreadful. The second mate, in his agony, sprang into the river and was drowned. None of the cabin passengers were injured. Accidents of this kind were frequent on the western rivers many years ago, but are now rare occurrences. This one was near Wolf Island, in the Mississippi, twenty-four miles below Cairo.

Is the state suits against the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad; Johnsonburg and Bradford Railroad companies; Bristol Water company and Mill Creek Railroad company, which were argued a short time ago, Judge Simonton at Harrisburg, on Monday handed down opinions in which he directs judgment to be entered against all the defendants. The question of constitutionality of the Boyer revenue act was raised in these suits, and the court decides that the taxation of the capital stock of these corporations at a different rate from the taxation of the personal property of individuals does not result in a want of uniformity forbidden by the constitution.

Twenty years ago General Garfield asserted in a speech in the House of Representatives: "I am the last man to say a word against voting pensions to all persons who deserve them. But I wish to say to the House that more frauds are being perpetrated on the government by claim agents in different portions of the country than from almost any other single source." These assertions were made at a time when the total annual pension expenditures were less than $30,000,000. The official demands for the next fiscal year are $165,000,000. Were he living to-day, how would General Garfield describe these demands?

"Consternation has seized them," is a mild way for putting it in describing the feelings of several Republicans who, until a few days ago, were under the impression that they were candidates for the Republican nomination for treasurer in this county. Like the half dozen Republicans in Ebensburg, who four years ago were after the postoffice and were getting along admirably until Postmaster Barker informed them he wanted the job himself and for them to suit—and they suited, the Republican candidates for county treasurer are now considering the advisability of seeking. Postmaster Barker has informed them that the principal mission of the Republican party in this county is to give the offices to the Barkers and if there is any chance for an election for that office, he intends to take the nomination himself.

Last Friday was a day of great excitement in the New York Exchange, and with the aid of numerous rumors affecting national banks and a general feeling of mistrust concerning the trust company stocks the "Bears" succeeded in breaking prices to an extent that has seldom been equaled in late years. The one bright spot on the financial horizon, however, was the advice from London that the foreigners were picking up all the cheap American securities they could lay their hands on. No bank appears to have been affected by the excitement. Stocks chiefly of the kind loaded down with water, were tossed about by the Bulls and the Bears and speculators. The financial flurry appears to have subsided, though Deacon White and other brokers, pass is usually the case, were caught and heavily squeezed in the stock market.

In the votes on the Home Rule bill in Committee of the Whole Gladstone still maintains his majority intact. There is no longer any reasonable doubt that the bill will pass the House of Commons with few changes from the form in which it was introduced. Whether the House of Lords will make the strenuous opposition to the measure which has been predicted remains to be seen. The action of the House of Commons will have a very discouraging effect upon the peers, who may find it prudent to submit to the inevitable without further struggle. But should the House of Lords throw out the bill, the Home Rule question would come before the people of Great Britain and Ireland for final decision. Their answer to the question of Home Rule would be joined with the question whether the time had not arrived to dissolve a hereditary legislative body which had become an obstruction to free government.

A DISPATCH from Washington on Wednesday says: The pension department believes it has unearthed stupendous pension frauds. An attorney of Norfolk, Va., W. R. Drewry, is under arrest, charged with securing fraudulent pension claims by the wholesale using his instruments in many cases colored men and women who could not read or write. About 12 months ago Secretary Noble ordered three cases dropped from the pension rolls that Drewry had secured, and later on he was debarred from practicing when the cases that Drewry had secured, and when it was concluded a few days since it was discovered that 98 per cent of the cases he had handled under the act of June 27, 1890, were secured through the filing of false declarations.

The extent of the frauds can be understood when it is stated that 166 cases were granted and that everyone of them carried arrears. Drewry used the seal of a notary, R. A. Richardson, whose office he shared. Richardson is said to have been ignorant of the use to which his seal had been put, and Drewry has already been convicted of forging the notary's name and seal.

The Geary Chinese Exclusion act went into effect May 5, or at least, was supposed to go into effect, as there is just a chance that the act may be quashed. The law requires that the Chinaman shall register his name, occupation, residence, etc., with the collector of the internal revenue, of his district, and in default the penalties are severe, including deportation to China. It is claimed that the law is unconstitutional, and a strong effort will be made in the test case to oppose it. These are the facts now for some views of the case.

In the first place the process of registration is rather a large undertaking, even for such an institution as Uncle Sam's Internal Revenue Department, seeing that there about 123,000 Chinese owners within the limits of the country. To register all of them, or even get them to register, is a big job. To ferret out, catch and ship off those who don't register is a still bigger job, which looks well in theory, but is exceedingly difficult in practice. The Chinaman is just as shrewd as his American pursuer when it comes to a question of skulking out of sight of the authorities, and should the law stand there will undoubtedly be plenty of unregistered An Sins and Wan Lungs, who will be laughing in their sleep at the fun of eluding the law.

Nothing funnier, says the New York World, has appeared since the election of last November than President Harrison's remark that "protection has failed because the wage-earner has refused to share his shelter with the manufacturer; he would not even walk under the same umbrella." Considering that the operatives in the protected industries do not constitute more than one twentieth of the working population, the assumption that their action decided the election is quite amusing in itself. But when the mind pictures the strikers at Homestead, nineteenth of whom were paid less than two dollars a day, "refusing to share their shelter" with Andrew Carnegie, who had pulled out more than $1,000,000 a year in profits, the comicality suggests its own cartoon.

Mr. Harrison perhaps failed to notice the fact that $1,250,000 was contributed to his campaign fund by the protected millionaires of Pennsylvania alone to purchase the tariff which they have paid for and made. Does the ex-president really think this payment was pure philanthropy to enable the paternal plutocrats to hold an umbrella over the wage-earners?

The Democratic County Committee met at the Opera House on Monday with a good attendance, there being forty-three members present. After the roll was called the members were called upon to give expression to their views in regard to the advisability of making a change in the system of making nominations as also the views of their constituents in the different districts which they represented and with one exception all were in favor of making a change. After some discussion a committee was appointed consisting of James P. Greene and John Hanna, of Johnstown, P. J. Detrich of Carrolltown, P. F. Lewis of Summerhill, and H. A. Englehart, of Ebensburg, who recommended the increased delegate system based upon the gubernatorial vote of the preceding year the ratio of representation to be as follows: One delegate for each district with an additional delegate for each 75 Democratic votes and also recommended the adoption of the same rules in use in Clearfield county. On motion the report of the committee was adopted. In another column we print the rules with the representation of the different districts.

A STATEMENT prepared from the records of the postoffice department shows that during the first two months of the present administration the total number of fourth class postmasters appointed was 3,894, against 5,104 made during the first two months of Mr. Harrison's administration. The number of appointments made during the last two months to fill vacancies caused by resignations and death was 2,685 as against 1,609 made during the corresponding period of the last administration. The number of removals made during the last two months is shown to have been only 1,209 while the number of removals made during the first two months of Harrison's administration reached 3,496.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 6, 1893. President Cleveland and every member of his Cabinet are again at their desks, all feeling better of their "rest off," although in some of them got a very rest. Still it was a change, and every body needs an occasional change. They were one and all pleased to find the government in such a satisfactory condition, and with prospects of continued improvements. The free gold now amounts to about $3,000,000 and there is a very marked decrease in the demand for gold for shipment to Europe, while offers of gold continue to be made to the Treasury. It is now also known that the close of this fiscal year will find the Treasury with a surplus of over $30,000,000 available cash, instead of the deficit which was a short time ago feared.

There have been so many erroneous statements printed about the amount of gold in the United States that the official figure for the latest statement, issued this week, are herewith presented. The total amount of gold coin known to be in this country is $632,533,106, and of gold bullion, the most of which is in the hands of private individuals, is $190,751,183, making a grand total of $823,284,289. Of this gold National banks hold $190,751,183, and private firms $632,533,106, according to the last report of the Director of the U. S. Mint.

Senator McPherson, who is a member of the Senate Finance committee, has been watching the situation very closely, and he says it is his firm belief there is anything in the money situation that will necessitate the calling of an extra session of Congress earlier than the President intended—about September 15. The financial condition of the country is all right, if the people will only let it alone. The Secretary of the Treasury has the confidence of the public, which believes that he will be able to meet any contingency that may arise. Congressman John D. Warriner, of New York, isn't one of those who think it will require six months or more to get the new tariff bill through Congress. He said, "No reason why a tariff bill should not be put through in a month or six weeks after the organization of Congress. The people put the Democracy in power with a definite purpose, and that purpose should be carried out. If you hired a contractor to build a house within a specified time, and he failed to keep his agreement, would you not look around to get somebody else to finish it? Of course a reasonable time should be allowed for delay, but that measure, but all efforts at obstruction should be, and I believe will be promptly squelched."

There are yet some very desirable places in both the diplomatic and consular service to be filled by Democrats, and it is expected that most of these appointments will be made by President Cleveland within the next few weeks. The diplomatic appointments have one of the following conditions: Tennessee, New Jersey, Delaware, Missouri, Vermont, New Hampshire, California, Massachusetts, Arkansas, Texas, South Dakota, and Illinois, one each; Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, and Maine, two each; North Carolina four and Minnesota five. The consular appointments have one each to North Carolina, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Mississippi, Ohio and Indiana, and four to New York. While that will probably have little to do with the Presidential selection, the positions in those states not mentioned above appear to be more confident than those from the states that have already secured some of these appointments.

The Chinese Minister continues to have information which leads him to fear that a conspiracy exists in the Pacific states to do violence to the Chinese residing in those states, in connection with the enforcement of the Geary exclusion law, which goes into effect to-morrow, and in accordance with his request Secretary Gresham has wired the Governors of those states, asking them to take precautionary steps for the protection of their Chinese residents. No steps will be taken by the Treasury Department to prosecute those Chinamen who have failed to comply with the Geary law, by registering, until the case involving the constitutionality of that law shall have been decided by the Supreme court, which has designated the 10th inst. to hear the arguments.

President Cleveland has made a few general appointments and will soon have a large number of postmasters this week, and it is believed that he is now considering the claims and qualifications of the very long list of candidates for the very important position of Public Printer. How lucky man who gets it will have about three thousand places, outside of Civil Service rules, at his disposal.

Blount Made Minister.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Officials of the state department to-night confirm the prediction made that ex-Representative Blount would be appointed minister resident to Hawaii. It is believed that Minister Stevens would remain in charge of the legation until May 24, at which time he had announced his intention of sailing for San Francisco. It is now known that Mr. Stevens has accepted to go to Hawaii, and he is expected to go forth with the legation to Commissioner Blount, who has been appointed his successor. There is reason to believe that Stevens was not allowed to remain in charge of the legation until May 24 because of his activity in behalf of annexation.

It is further stated at the department that Secretary Gresham is expected to go to Honolulu shortly after Commissioner Blount's arrival, having been active in their efforts to stimulate sentiment on the islands in favor of annexation, and there is reason to believe that they have sought to create the impression that in so doing they were representing the President. Secretary Gresham has informed Mr. Blount that the President respects the opinion of the commission, and that Mr. Sewall was an applicant for the position of third assistant secretary of state under the present administration, but failed to secure the appointment.

A Bait for Huns.

IRVING, May 9.—An outlying district of this place, known as the "Southside," was the scene of a killing last night. The trouble started over the stealing of some beer. A number of Hungarians employed at the glass works live on the South side. On Saturday the inmates of No. 19 bought three kegs of beer for the purpose of having a spree on Sunday. Early Sunday morning a gang of Hungarians living in No. 16 stole the beer. On Monday the inmates went before Justice F. C. Frederick and made information for John Rasch, John Stoumeny, John Krull, John Favalco, John Persek, John Iko and Joseph Persek.

Yesterday afternoon Constable Schade went to the glass works with warrants for the arrest of the above named persons. The manager asked the constable not to make the arrests until the men were working, all promising to appear for trial on Monday. Constable Schade failed to do so, and the inmates broke down the door of the house and entered the house, and when they broke the door the Huns opened fire on the constable, one of the bullets striking Constable Schade in the arm, inflicting a slight flesh wound. The officers retreated. They gathered a posse and again went to the house. There they found that the Huns had broken down the door of the house and entered the house, and when they broke the door the Huns opened fire on the constable, one of the bullets striking Constable Schade in the arm, inflicting a slight flesh wound.
