POPULAR SCIENCE.

THE curvature of the earth is eight inches per mile.

MARS revolves around the sun at a mean distance of about 141,000,000 miles. IT would take 1,300,000 earths to make a globe the size of the sun. The density of the sun is only about one-fourth that of the earth. A BELL that could be heard 35,000 feet in water could be heard only 656 feet in the open air. Dogs barking on the earth can be heard by balloonist at a height of four miles. DIFFERENT points upon the surface of the earth revolve with different velocities. At the poles the speed of rotation is nothing, but at the equator it is greatest, or over 1,000,000 miles per hour.

VISITING CARDS CHECKS. NOTES,

The popular idea of a bookmaker is a singularly erroneous one. He is usual. ly looked upon as a noisy, self-assertive champagne-drinking gambler, who wears loud clothes, talks horse and affects the other stage characteristics of a bad man. It is popularly understood that he plays poker, faro and roulette until four or five o'clock in the morning, then goes down to the race track writes on a slate the odds which he h willing to give against any particular horse winning, and then passes the reat of the day in making his wagers. A writer in the Eagle wonders if any of the citizens of Brooklyn have seen the more prominent and wealthy book. makers passing through the city of churches at four o'clock in the morning Every one of the successful ones makes the trip from New York to the Brook lyn track, comes back to the city poolrooms to gather whatever news he can distributes his information to the proper sources, then returns to the truck, goes through the day's racing and comes back to town again at seven o'clock at night.

Bookmakers make their early trips to the track in order to get at the actual condition of the horses and get the gossip of the stables early in the raing day. One-half of the horses at Graver end are thoroughly discussed to the bookmakers, hauled over and examined and put through their preliminary exercises and every movement noted with shrewd and experienced eyes by the time the milkman gets around to Brook. lyn doorsteps. The bookmaker begins his work of estimating the chances of each horse winning a race at five o'clock in the morning and he never quits until the starter's flag has been dropped. Members of the talent, on the other hand, sandwich in their opinions and theories somewhere about noon, with their luncheon, and make their bets according to their convictions. It is cast to decide whether the bookmaker or the racegoer has the advantage. Carried through a season it is evident to everybody that the bookmaker must win. Another point is the manner in which bookmakers work together. Though they are at odds on some minor points. they still have brains enough to present a combined front in the matter of small odds.

AMERICAN BABIES.

They Are Claiming Much Attention and Valuable Time from Foreign Writers. It is now American bubies who are commending themselves to foreign eyes An Englishwoman visiting this country writes home for publication: "You could not imagine anything more quaintly delightful than American small children and babies. They, up to four, wear the dearest little close caps of all colors, but generally white-the queerest, prettiest clothes-all just touching the ground. It is easy to see where Kate Greenaway got her models for her quaint pictures; they are exactly here

"Then the baby carriages-nothing approaching our clumsy perambulators They are all of either bent wood or good wicker work, yellowish white, like bamboo, and openwork all around, on perfect springs, and most of them rock up and down when not being wheeled, and fixed large parasols overhead in all colors and pretty devices.

"Half lying under this bright shade is a round-faced, pale, very pretty piquant baby, with unusually dark eyes, with an expression in them as it there was nothing they didn't know; a tiny white silk cap on its tiny head; rings secured to its wrists by a ribbon on its fat fingers; the daintiest white pillows, white fancy coverlets over its little body, and an air of cushions and coziness about it. Such is the American baby."

This is very delightful, even if it sounds as if the American baby were a species newly discovered by intrepid explorers.
