Too Many Celebrations. A considerable portion—by far too large of the miners employed at the Sterling mines are Slavs and Hungarians. During recent weeks they have been laying off very frequently for the alleged purpose of observing religious holidays, thereby causing a shutdown of the mines, to the loss of the American miners employed. These holidays became so numerous re cently that the superintendent, Mr. Mc vinced him that the holiday the Huns insisted on observing on Thursday was a bogus one, and that they simply wanted a day to loaf. He therefore suspended about seventy of them until Monday morning, when they were taken back because n other men could be got to fill their places The superintendent says that if they do not work more and celebrate less, they will all be discharged, as the miners cannot stand idle while they spend the day in loafing and drinking. They never attend church on these holidyas, so it is said,
