Pittsburg Letter

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.) The time aptly designated the Fall Festivities Season, was inaugurated by the opening of the Fifth Annual Exhibition of the Great Pittsburgh Exposition, on the evening of September 6th.

This pre-eminently successful institution, is very popular with the people of Pittsburgh and vicinity, its attractions are always of the highest order, and never fail to please the hundreds of thousands of visitors who patronize it each season. Its average yearly attendance is five hundred thousand persons during the forty days it is open. These figures are abundant evidence of its popularity.

The opening this season was even a more pronounced success than ever before. The announcement was made, that the public would be admitted at 8 p. m., but long before that hour, thousands of anxous visitors were clamoring for admission. Everything being in readiness, the management anticipated the time set for the opening by nearly one hour. A stream of jolly, jubilant patrons, poured in the great buildings, and those who felt musically inclined, quickly occupied the seats in the vicinity of the band stand, in anticipation of the appearance of the famous Brooks band, and the ever popular Black Patti. When they appeared, these public favorites were greeted with tumultous applause by the immense audience, who clearly showed their appreciation, as the concert progressed, of both the band and Orders have been received by the superintendent of the mines at Patton, Cam-Cambria county, to put all the mines in full operation at once. This is cheering news, as for several months past the mines have only been running part time, and some of them have been shut down altogetner, Superintendent E. C. Brown says that within two weeks they will be putting out 2,000 tons of coal a day and before the 1st of November the output will amount to 2,500 tons a day. This will mean the distribution of over $10,000 in cash each week among the workmen of the place. The starting up of the mines at Patton will aiso be felt throughout the mining regions Spangler, and other places where business has been somewhat slack it is expected that a revival will also take place and everything start up lively .- Altoona Times.
