

The House Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures has voted to begin in January the consideration of the bill, reacting the free silver coinage law of 1877.

The contract for furnishing the first smokeless powder to be used by the United States Army has been awarded to the Leonard Powder Company and the California Powder Works, each to furnish 5000 pounds.

Now let the Calumet Hovlers howl. Ebersburg's water works closed down on Thursday. Another reason why tariff reform should be halted. Nothing closes down these days that is not caused by tinkering with the tariff.

Governor Pattison has issued a proclamation, announcing the payment, during the fiscal year, of $106,401 of the state debt. The governor has also issued a writ fixing February 20, 1894, the date of the next municipal elections, for the election of a congressman-at-large to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of General Lilly.

Chairman Wright has called a meeting of the Democratic executive committee at Philadelphia Thursday afternoon next, at four o'clock to decide whether to issue a call for a state convention to nominate a candidate for congressman at large or to have the nomination made by the state committee.

A Washington dispatch of Wednesday says: The ways and means committee, just before adjourning this evening, ordered the new tariff bill to be reported to the House next Tuesday. The postponement of a Democratic caucus on the ground that the internal revenue bill was not completed indicates that the customs bill will not be taken up until the internal revenue bill is reported to the House.

Over 75 property owners, whose possessions, valued at $275,000, comprise half the borough of Olyphant, Lackawanna county, Pa., were on Wednesday made defendants in a suit brought by Mrs. Laura Weertz, of New Haven, Conn., who claims the right to ownership over all their property. Mrs. Weertz claims that when her husband sold the land in question in 1862 she did not join in the deed nor release her interest in the estate.

The Philadelphia Record Almanac for 1894 is on our table and like all that emanates from the Record stands in the front in point of usefulness and information. Besides the usual features of an almanac, its pages are adorned with handsome illustrations, contain postage rates and regulations, a review of the sporting events for the year, election tables, a number of useful household receipts etc. It is a book that should always be within reach.

Judge Yerkes on Tuesday clipped the wings of the county commissioners, of Berks county and set an example for all the other counties in the state. It has been customary there, as in other counties, for the commissioners to appoint a janitor and fireman to look after the court house. Judge Yerkes delivered an opinion to the effect that the act of 1834 vested the power to make the appointments in the Court and not in the commissioners. This was a bombshell. The judge followed up his opinion by appointing the fireman and janitor for a term of three years, beginning January 1, 1894.

Every good citizen should pay his just portion of taxes for the support of the state and government. He should also pay without complaint a portion for the support of the poor and needy. But to be taxed for protection, to help his wealthy neighbor, who probably has more of this world's goods than he has, to make money, is stretching the functions of the government to a point where every free citizen should object. In a government for the people there is no class that should be protected but all should contribute alike. In monarchical governments, where the nobility are supposed to be better than common people, it is right for those who accept the belief to allow themselves to be taxed for the support of their superiors. In this country where farmers, printers, laborers and others are taxed for the benefit of a class of manufacturers, the levying of the tax, in the shape of a tariff protection is an imposition that smacks of the trade of the highwayman.

The consideration of the bill for the admission of Utah into the sisterhood of states was begun in the House on Tuesday. The principal point at issue was whether the enabling act should contain a provision imposing pains and penalties for polygamous marriages, the contention on the one hand being that the state should come in on an equal footing with other states unhandicapped by such provisions; on the other that polygamy had been stamped out by the federal statute, on the admission of the territory would repeal that statute, congress should make it practically part of the enabling act, too, to make a vicious assault on Utah and Mormonism and recalling all the outrages of the Meadow massacre, the crimes of Danites, and the revelations of the endowment house. Mr. Rawlins, the Utah delegate, in the course of a brilliant speech championing the bill replied to Mr. Morse and worsted the representative from the Bay state very badly. Mr. Harter (O) opposed the bill on the ground that it gave a sparsely settled western territory too much influence in the senate.

Remon has it that some Democrats contemplate forming a log rolling combination to prevent tariff reform. Their scheme is reported to be to prevent any decrease of the tariff in respect of industries in which they or their constituents are interested.

Any partial and unequal reform will be worse than none. It will run the Democratic party, and ought to. The Democrats who join any such conspiracy to defeat the performance of their duty to the people are traitors.

It is the misfortune of the Democratic party that it has so many men in public life who are Democrats for revenue only and not in principle. They cannot be depended upon in an exigency. A lot of this sort prevented the prompt repeal of the Silver Purchase act. They were finally beaten, but they did all the mischief they could before they yielded.

We know there are men in both branches of congress who were elected as Democrats, but who are at heart Republican protectionists. Some of them are the same men who were determined to compromise on the silver question. These are men who can be depended upon in no issue of principle, but they never surrender partisan claims on offices and salaries.

What we desire to say distinctly now when the lines are being drawn is that the man who is in favor of taxing the many for the benefit of the few had better go over openly to the Republican protectionist party, where he properly belongs. The Democratic party does not stand for that idea. The Republican party does.

If anybody has supposed that tariff reform can be accomplished without hurting temporarily some of the plutocrats who have been pampered by tariff bounties, he has not sense enough to pose as a statesman. It is a time when Democrats must closely watch their representatives. Those who are allies of the Republican protectionists must be marked. We do not believe that there are enough of them to prevent reform, but whoever they are they must be forced to show their true colors.

Another of the free trade bogies of protectionists is that if the Wilson bill becomes a law American workmen will be deprived of work. They say that the country will be so "flooded" with foreign made goods that it will be impossible to manufacture here and that consequently American workmen will be unable to obtain employment.

This is the silliest of nonsense. As the New York Recorder, a Republican newspaper said the other day, and as it reiterates whenever it is seized with a spirit of fairness, the United States has had within the past hundred years all kinds of tariffs and has prospered under all. And as it further says no tariff can injure the Union. It has advanced under all tariffs and will continue to advance, no matter what may be done. The prosperity of this country depends upon the employment of its people. They are not all bankers. They do not all work hard at cutting off coupons with which to purchase what foreign menials may make for them. They exchange their labor for money and that money keeps the wheels of trade moving and insures prosperity. As the Recorder so clearly shows, American workmen have found employment under all sorts of tariffs and can continue to do so.

As to American workmen being thrown out of employment by the encroachment of foreign goods, that is the most nonsensical thing that can be said. Who must buy those "floods" of foreign goods? Necessarily, American workmen. With what will goods be bought? Money, of course. How will they obtain this money? By working for it. But if the "floods" of foreign goods deprive them of work and consequently of money how can they purchase foreign stuffs, and if they don't buy them how will these destroy the American market and throw Americans out of work? Where there are no purchasers there is no market. Where there is no market there are no encroachments. Where there are no encroachments there is no deprivation of work.

This is a condition that no tariff bill can change. The Wilson bill will not and cannot deprive of work those Americans who are working in such industries as do not owe their existence to tariff subsidies.

A CUTLERY company of Meriden, Conn., says the Pittsburg Post, posted a notice in their works few days ago, stating that the Wilson bill made reductions of about 80 per cent on cutlery, and that if it passed their employers must look for a reduction of their wages of from 40 to 50 per cent. This is pure humbug. The Wilson bill puts the rates on cutlery substantially back where they were under the law of 1883. The Meriden firm did not increase wages when the McKinley bill added 40 or 50 per cent to their profits. Not a bit of it. They pocketed the additional protection they have been having these years, but they propose to cut labor when the duties go back to what they were when the present scale was arranged. This is a pretty good sample of protectionist dishonesty.

Word comes from the state of Chihuahua Mexico, of a battle last Friday between General Hernandez and 1,000 rebels under command of Santa Ana Perez. Fighting began at once and continued for several hours, when the federal troops were compelled to retreat in disorder. The rebels had the advantage of position, being in a mountainous region, and fought from ambush. The rebels lost 25 and the government over 100, according to conservative estimates; others place the government losses at 300. Both sides had many wounded. The government officials at Las Palomas admit the reports of a battle to be correct, but are exerting every means in their power to suppress information.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Dec. 9, 1892.—Secretary Carlisle has not completed his annual report and does not expect to before next week. It will probably be one of the longest and most comprehensive of his kind ever submitted to congress, owing to the bad condition in which the Republican left the finances of the country. The absence of this report, although not the only cause, was partly in getting the new tariff bill before the House. It would have been sufficient of itself, as it is necessary for that report to be in the hands of members before they take up the tariff.

Chairman Wilson's present intention is to report the tariff bill to the House next Wednesday, and he hopes to be able to make public the details of the internal revenue bill, at about the same time. The last named bill would have been ready before this had not the revised estimates of the office of the treasury department shown that the deficiency in revenue caused by the reductions in duties and extension of the free list made by the new tariff bill would be in the neighborhood of $25,000,000 which was some $25,000,000 more than had been estimated by members of the ways and means committee. This of course, necessitated a revision of the internal revenue bill, which is being considered by the committee this week to supply the deficiency caused by the tariff bill. Among the new propositions submitted to the committee this week was one from Representative Hatch, Missouri, to tax the transactions of the stock and produce exchanges, instead of the earnings of corporations, which had been previously agreed upon by the committee. Mr. Hatch thinks such a tax would be felt less than any other.

As there is no estimate for the expenses of the Bureau of American Republics in the figures submitted by Secretary Gresham, for the next fiscal year, it is safe to say that there will not be no Bureau of American Republics. It is a full-of-paper-blaine reciprocity programme. Its cost has been estimated at $20,000,000, principally for salaries, and the benefit it has been to the country has been undecipherable. Secretary Morton regards the money spent at the forty-eight agricultural experimental stations—one in each state and territory—as largely wasted, and having recommended in his annual report that they be abolished he left the $720,000 which would be required to run them out of his estimates for next year.

The probability of a change in the senate rules is very slight, although there are several proposed amendments now before the committee on rules. The chief Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, is chairman. The other Democrats on the committee are Senators Harris, of Tennessee, and Gorman, of Maryland. The chief of the Republican opposition is Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, who is chairman. The other Democrats on the committee are Senators Harris, of Tennessee, and Gorman, of Maryland. The chief of the Republican opposition is Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, who is chairman.

Senator-elect O'Connell, of Virginia, will retain his seat in the House until the Christmas recess, as his resignation will not take effect until the 28th inst. He will be inaugurated governor on the first day of January and will, according to custom, deliver an inaugural address, something that has been done by only one other governor of that state since the war. He has been warmly congratulated by his colleagues with whom he is deservingly popular.

Congress got down to work very smoothly. The regular business in the House is the bill of appropriation, which will be disposed of later in the week or early in the coming week. The senate has listened to some stump speeches on the Hawaiian question, and taken up its routine work in its usual legislative manner. A concurrent resolution was unanimously adopted by congress accepting the bronze statue of General James Shields, which was unveiled by a daughter of General Shields in the Statuary Hall of the Capitol, Wednesday afternoon, and thanking Illinois for having presented the statue. The ceremonies attending the unveiling were imposing and interesting and participated in by a large number of prominent people, including Governor Altgeld, whose oration in honor of the "warrior, jurist and statesman" made a splendid impression upon those who heard it. It is not probable that any of the regular appropriation bills will be reported until it can be seen from the tariff and internal revenue bills just how much revenue there will be to draw against. Although Chairman Sayers of the appropriations committee has several of them in a condition to be reported at an hour's notice.

A Ten-Year-Old Girl Kidnaped.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Dec. 12.—Sadie Stocker, aged 10 years, who was brought here from Bluefield, W. Va., to attend her father's funeral, was kidnapped on Saturday night, December 10, by a man formerly residing here, but moved south ten years ago. His housekeeper, Mrs. E. A. Carper, who had charge of Sadie, asked the street police to take the children return south. This was refused. After the funeral Mrs. Carper and the child disappeared. It is presumed that the child has been taken to West Virginia in order to lessen the father's income money due, because of the death of her father.

Train Robbery in Texas.

ARTIST, Tex., December 12.—Seven men switched the north bound International and Great Northern express into a side track at midnight. The headlights were shot out and several of the men began firing their revolvers. The others took all the money in the express car. One robber went through the coaches. He secured a stack of watches, jewelry and money. He left an $800 package behind him in his haste. The amount of the booty secured is variously estimated at from $10,000 to $50,000. It is suspected that the gang is the same that made the big haul at Plano, Tex.

Arise in Her Coffin.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—An extraordinary case of suspended animation is reported from Milbich, a town of Prussia Silesia. The wife of a major of the army had, apparently, died, and preparations were made for the funeral. Owing to some delay in getting the grave ready the funeral was postponed until the fourth day after the supposed death. At that day, shortly before the time set for the removal of the body to the cemetery, the woman arose in her coffin, greatly to the horror of those around her. She had been in a trance.

Is Going Around the World.

PHILADELPHIA, December 11.—While a quantity of freight was being unloaded from an Adams express car here this morning cries of "help" were heard emanating from a box that had been shipped from Chicago. The box was securely nailed and after it had been opened and Herman Zeitung, an Austrian, aged 20 years, was found there in a bruised and battered condition. He claimed that he was making a tip of this kind around the world on a wagger. The adventurer was arrested on a charge of trespassing and was remanded for further hearing.

The P. R. R.'s Big Order.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just ordered a $1,000,000 order for steel rails among the Pennsylvania Steel Company, the Cambria Iron Company and Carnegie and Cambria Iron Company at $25 per ton. It is customary for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to contract in December for the steel rails of the coming year. Last December the contracts exceeded 100,000 tons; but the times were then much more prosperous than they now are. Viewed from a comparative standpoint, the present order is even more important than the larger one of 12 months ago, indicating as it does, that the Pennsylvania's policy of progress and improvement will be continued in the coming year. This example is likely to stimulate similar enterprises on the part of other corporations. It is a welcome sign to the steel manufacturers.

Went to the Bottom.

LONDON, December 8.—The steamer Magara, of Glasgow, upon her arrival at South Shields today from Lisbon, reported that she had lost the iceberg Ushant, off the coast of Brittany her lookout reported that he saw a flash light being displayed about two miles off the course of the Magara. She bore down in the direction of the vessel where the light had been seen and a large steamer was seen foundering. Several persons were clinging in the rigging. A tremendous sea was running, and it would require to run them out of the boat to have lived even if one could have been lowered from the davits with- out being smashed against the side of the vessel. The sinking steamer scuttled her bows and her stern and she went down, her stern lying out of the water and went down bow first. The Magara stood by for some time hoping to save her, but she was unable to do so, and everybody on board went down with her.

Particulars of a Mysterious Murder.

HARRISBURG, Pa., December 11.—A special to the Morning Call to-night gives some particulars of the mysterious murder of a prominent citizen of Port Royal, Juniata county, last night James Carpenter, a dealer in eggs and produce, was shot by his son about 10 o'clock at about 10 o'clock in the morning. He has not since been seen. There are evidences of a murder, and it is thought his body will be found before morning. His absence did not attract much notice, as he was out in the morning when a search was instituted. His shoes and stockings were found on the banks of Tuscarora creek and there was a trail of blood from a rocky bluff down to the creek. The body of the man was also found where the body had been dragged to the creek. There had been no disturbance of the office furniture and it is generally believed that the murder took place between the office and the neighbor's house.

New Men Preferred to Ex-Strikers.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 12.—John H. Rice returned home late to-night from a business trip. He reported that the Lehigh Valley Railroad company is taking on new men at Hazleton and Sayre in preference to the ex-strikers. The old strikers are asked to quit the new crew over the various branches, and much bitter feeling is being developed in consequence. The old men can be seen in the yards at several places in the Lehigh Valley. They are waiting for reinstatement, and as they are after their old positions, they grow fond in the denunciation of the company and the new crew. The latter are not as much to be looked upon with suspicion as a serious one and refuses to reply to any question except as an individual.

Died in Misery Amid Much Money.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 7.—Joseph Deteh, an aged Hebrew, died in miserable quarters on South Alabama street on Monday. To-day his room was searched and his will found. It was with surprise that the searchers found great bags of gold coin and fat packages of paper money, and while the real amount discovered by them is kept private, it is said to have amounted to $214,000. The money was taken out and counted, and then removed to a safe deposit vault, where it now is. The dead man switched the north bound International and Great Northern express into a side track at midnight. The headlights were shot out and several of the men began firing their revolvers. The others took all the money in the express car. One robber went through the coaches. He secured a stack of watches, jewelry and money. He left an $800 package behind him in his haste. The amount of the booty secured is variously estimated at from $10,000 to $50,000. It is suspected that the gang is the same that made the big haul at Plano, Tex.

Mysteriously Missing.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—The mysterious disappearance of Miss Emma Thompson, a young school teacher of Staples station, on the Pittsburg & Western railroad, is attracting much attention. The young lady, who is 18 years old and quite pretty, has been strangely missing since November 29, when she left the home of her sister, with whom she resided, to visit the office of County Superintendent Hamilton in Pittsburg to secure an endorsement for her certificate. She has not visited Superintendent Hamilton's office, nor can she be located elsewhere. It is not believed that she is absent of her own volition.
