Daniel W. James, of this place, while working on the saw mill of Messrs. Davis Bros. in Cambria township, on Tuesday of last week, was unfortunate enough to have his right leg caught between a log and a cross-cut and severely crushed. No bones were broken but the flesh is so severely bruised that he will be laid up for some time.

A woman named Eliza J. Spangler, with a body guard of four men and holding a loaded revolver in her hand, refused to let the Grand Army post decorate the grave of her husband in the Myerstown cemetery on Memorial Day. She was angry at the post because some of the members opposed her application for a pension.

Extraordinary stories are told of the healing properties of a new oil which is easily made from the yolk of a hen's egg. The eggs are boiled, and the yolks are then removed, crushed, and placed over a fire, when the oil separates and the oil may be poured off. One yolk will nearly yield two teaspoonfuls of oil. It is in constant demand among the colonists of South Russia as a means of curing cuts, bruises, etc.

The extensive paper mills and book bindery of the Bare Paper Company at Roaring Springs, the Portage Iron Company's rolling mills at Duncansville, and the iron works of the Hollidaysburg Iron and Nail Company are being compelled to shut down on account of the coal strike caused by the miners' strike. If the strike continues much longer all branches of manufacturing business in the state will be paralyzed.

We find this bit of advice going the rounds of our exchanges: Do not be afraid of a little funk in the morning. Don't open the house lest the sun should fade your carpets; and your hearts, lest a laugh should shake down a few musty cobwebs that are hanging there. If you want to ruin your sons, let them think that all is made of gold. If you want to ruin your daughters, let them think that the threshold without when they come home at night.

The encampment of the Sons of Veterans, Pennsylvania division met at Johnstown, on Wednesday. Over 250 delegates were present. Commander Horace Lowry, of Indiana, made the opening address, after which he submitted his annual report, which shows that the membership has decreased slightly, owing to the change of the age limit from 18 to 21 years. Allentown has been chosen as the place for holding the next annual encampment.

Have you ever tried varnishing your range? If not, you would advise your neighbors. You will be surprised at the result, and the great labor saved. You can purchase it at almost any paint store, and apply to every part of the range except the stove, where it is not used. The varnish is made of turpentine and a few minutes, and your range is brightly polished for one year, with simply rubbing with a flannel cloth to remove dust occasionally.

Father William L. McGrath, assistant pastor of St. Columba's Roman Catholic church at Johnstown, died at 2:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon at the rectory of St. Columba's church, after an illness of short duration. The deceased had been suffering from a bad cold since Monday, but was able to attend to his duties up to Thursday evening. The remains were taken to Trenton, N. J., on Monday and on Tuesday morning were interred in the Catholic cemetery in that city.

The real, genuine farmer in the United States, the man who is at home on his own land, is not constantly complaining of his lot in life. It is the opinion of J. Sterling Morton, Secretary of Agriculture, in the June Forum, Census returns show that about 70 per cent. of all the farms in the United States are unencumbered. What other calling, what other industry, what other investments for making a livelihood and for providing for the future, can make good the showing as the farmer?

T. Dallas Wilkins was found dead in bed at his home in Allegheny City on Monday. He was for several years general agent at Hollidaysburg and then special freight agent on the Pittsburg division. From December 1, 1893, to April 1, 1894, he was trainmaster of the Allegheny division. Since then he has been employed as a special agent in the freight claim department of the Pennsylvania railroad and latterly as chief clerk to the superintendent of the Pittsburg & Western railroad.

Coal operators along the Somerset & Clearfield branch of the Allegheny branch of the R. & O. railroad are reading a rich harvest on account of the great coal strike. All of the miners along the roads mentioned are getting out as many black diamonds as possible with the limited number of miners at work, who are operators are anxiously looking for additional workmen. The little people have sufficient orders on hand to give employment to at least 100 additional miners.—Somerset Herald.

On Thursday of last week the Altoona Gazette came out with an industrial and commercial edition that would have done credit to a much larger city than Altoona. It contained interesting descriptions of the various industries that cluster around the Mountain City, biographies of its prominent citizens and illustrated with portraits of business men and pictures of many of the city's industrial establishments. It is a handsome and credit to the office of the Gazette.

William Jones, of Johnstown, quarrelled with a coal man in the upper railroad yard on Saturday and in consequence now suffers from a bad rash in his right side, inflicted by a razor in the hands of his adversary, who made his escape after the cutting. The injured man is a carpenter, married and about 34 years old.—Altoona Mirror.

The contract for making the brick for the immense new convent at Crescon has finally been let to John Schwab, of Loreto, who will commence work in a short time. The building will require more than 2,000,000 bricks and the job will last about a year. The brick will be dried by artificial heat and the most improved machinery used in their manufacture.

The stupid story of "abandoned" farms in New England has been exploded, just as the story of the western farm mortgages were. Mr. William Henry Bishop has made an exhaustive exploration among the farmers, and finds that the sole foundation of the fake is that New England agricultural work has undergone an evolution. While the West has made wheat growing unprofitable, the market gardener, dairyman, stock-raiser, etc., have taken possession of the land formerly devoted to the growth of cereals. The truth is, that the aggregate value of agricultural products of New England is greater now than it ever was.

A good plan for preserving tools from rusting is the simple preparation employed by Professor Olmstead, of Yale college, for the preservation of scientific apparatus, and which he long ago published for the general good, and has since patented. It is made by dissolving together of six or eight parts of lard to one of resin, stirring till cool. This remains semi-fluid, ready for use, the resin preventing rancidity and supplying an air tight film. Rubbed on a bright surface, ever so thinly it protects and preserves the polish effectually, and it can be wiped off nearly clean, if ever desired, as from a knife blade, or it may be rubbed with coal oil or benzine.

A terrible accident occurred on Friday evening in the stone quarry in South Penn, east of Johnstown, where men are engaged in taking out stone for the new glass plant that is being erected in Jeannette. At that time Fred Olson, William Junker and William Wallace were getting a hole ready preparatory to putting off a blast, while the powder in the hole exploded and blew out in the men's faces, mutilating them in a horrible manner. The doctors think they can save one of Wallace's eyes, also one of Olson's. Junker, while used up pretty badly with the powder, was the least injured, and it is thought his eyes will both be saved.

The other day a lot of Hungarian miners at Adrian, near Pottsville, got hungry for fresh meat and one of them donated a cow. Preparations for the slaughter of the animal were completed, and a big slay procured and quietly slipped up to the animal and attempted to strike her in the head with the sharp edge of the instrument. His aim was not good and the axe struck the animal on the forehead, and she fell off at a rapid pace, the crowd of slaves following her. They finally secured the animal and, tying the poor brute to a tree so that she could not move her head, the big slay procured a saw and deliberately sawed her head off. The howlings of the animal during the operation could be heard a mile.—Indian Messenger.

High Wages.
The back of the iron under lands perfectly well that $75 in England is more highly valued than a considerably larger amount in this country, says the individual who accumulates it, because it requires so much more labor to earn it there, and that therefore the Remington typewriter which sells in this country at $100, is as easily purchased for that amount as it is in England. This is not "skinnying" the people, because the people here are given employment by the Remingtons and like concerns at high wages, while they could not pay if the price of their manufactures were to be reduced in this country.—Globe.

Some people in this country are given employment by "Remingtons and other like concerns" at just such wages as other people pay who are not protected by the tariff and who are not given the privilege of skinning the purchasers of their goods in this country out of 33 per cent. more than the same goods are sold for in other countries. Labor always has to take what it can command, tariff or no tariff. There is a duty of 75 cents per ton on coal to enable the operators to pay "protection wages" but labor doesn't get it by a long shot.

The Pennsylvania's Summer-Traveler's Guide.
The summer excursion book of the Pennsylvania Railroad for 1894 is published and presents an unusually meritorious appearance. Great care has been exercised in its compilation, the technical information being especially reliable. The great variety of routes suggested, the exhaustive schedule of rates, and the numerous illustrations, amount for four hundred pages, the explanatory maps and the illustrations, make this volume exceedingly valuable and almost indispensable to those contemplating summer touring.

A national charge of ten cents is placed on each copy, which can be obtained on application to ticket agents or the General Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents extra will be charged for mailing.
The Murder Trial.
The grand jury has returned a true bill in the case of George Arthur, alias Harry Marsh, charged with the murder of Thomas C. Cosh at Johnstown a couple of weeks ago. The prisoner having no counsel, the court has assigned F. A. Shoemaker and J. F. McKeon, Esqs., to defend him. The case is set down for Saturday when a jury will be empanelled, and as a homicide case generally takes considerable time, it will likely be continued into next week.

The secretary of the Elkhardt Carriage and Harness Co. of Elkhardt, Ind., informs us that their prices will be lower for 1894 than ever. He wishes us to ask the lowest prices for the following articles: any kind of carriages, wagons, bicycles or harness until they have sent 1 cent in stamps to pay for their 115 page catalogue. We advise the readers of this paper to remember his suggestion.
