The most important recommendation made by Secretary Herbert in his annual report is that congress authorize the construction of three great battleships of about 10,000 tons displacement each. to cost, exclusive of armament, not exceeding $4,000,000 each and twelve torpedo boats of from 100 to 380 tons each. at the discretion of the secretary, to cost not exceeding an average of $170,000.

It is officially announced that Japan recognizes that the United States Min ister at Tokio, Mr. Dun, is a suitable channel through which China can open up negotiations for peace. The powers will not take any part in the negotiations. They will simply remain spectators. It is considered that China is in a position to pay the Japanese demands if the war ceases now, Japan to hold Port Arthur until her demands are satisfied.

A NEW treaty between Japan and the United States has been signed by the secretary of state and Minister Kurin, and will be sent to the senate for ratification on the reassembling December 3 The chief changes from the treaty of 1858 make an American law-breaker in Japan amenable to the Japanese authorities, instead of the American consul In return, the existing limits of travel for Americans in Japan are abolished and the citizens of the United States have liberty to travel or reside where they will, enjoying full protection for their persons or property.

A VERY interesting analysis of the vote in the late election, and comparison with the vote in 1892, has been made by Mr. Frederick C. Waite, of Washington City, a statistician who was a special agent in the eleventh census. Mr. Waite's conclusion is that the stay-athome vote caused the political revolutions in both years named. This vote on the 6th inst., he places at the enormous total of 5,000,000. Mr. Waite

This year the Republicans have not cast as large a per cent, of the full vote as in 1889 in a single state. Hence, the only reasonable conclusion is that in 1892 the dissatisfied Republican farmers, and this year the discontented Democratic labor-made such phenomenal gains. The immense Republican pluralities this year are not the result of an extraordinary Republican vote, but of an exceedingly small Democratic vote. Wisconsin has not polled for the Democratic candidates such a small percentage of her full vote for 25 years. In Pennsylvania the Democratic party has not cast as small a vote for half a cen

Is an article entitled, "An Essential Condition of Prosperity," contributed to the December number of the North American Review, the Hon. James H Eckels, comptroller of the United States currency, contends that there can be no hope of undisturbed and substantial prosperity to all classes of the American people unless and until the whole cur rency and banking system of the country is formulated into one harmonious plan in which each part shall be absolutely sound in principle and the enbodiment of monetary science. American financial legislation has been of the most pernicious character, and bad legislation in the field of finance must always exert a destructive influence on business. the brief ceremony of laving the stone began. It was swung from a derrick above its companion stone, in which was cut the niche for the traditional box of old coins and records. On its front was simply carved the state coat of arms. JOHN HUBER, of Mechanicsburg, was recently convicted of selling liquor on Sunday and selling without license. His counsel questioned the constitutionality of the Brooks High License law, and held that, inasmuch as the title does not correspond to the body of the act, it is unconstitutional. They asked for a new trial on that ground alone. In deciding the matter to-day Judge Sadler said he had no doubt that, as far as selling on Sunday is concerned, the Brooks law is unconstitutional, and for that reason he would not sentence Huber on that count; but as the verdict on the second count, selling without license, was not contested, he would overrule the motion for a new trial and sentence him on that count. Huber was sentenced to $500 fine and three months in jail.
