Others Also Attack the Measure.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The house session was spent in general debate on the currency bill and the opponents of the measure had their innings. All the speakers except Representative Cox (Tenn.) antagonized it. The feature of the day was the speech of Mr. Sibley (Dem., Pa.), who made an attack on the the president and arraigned the Democratic party generally for drifting away from its traditional moorings. His speech created much confusion and a good deal of a sensation.

Mr. Tom Johnson (O.) also created a stir by affirming the proposition that the bill either created a monopoly to issue the legal tender money of the country, or was a failure which would give dishonest bankers under the law to defraud the government. Mr. Bland (Mo.) made an earnest against the bill from the standpoint of free stiver The other speakers were Messrs. Beltzhoover (Dem., Pa.), W. A. Stone (Rep., Pa.), Morse (Rep., Mass.) and Coffeen

Mr. Sibley during the course of his speech said: "If ever a rebuke was needed to one who has attempted to trample down the prerogatives of the people, it is needed for him who has attempted to usurp this entire government to himself. The time has come when there should be something more than brains, belly and brass to this govern-

He referred to George III, and said it had been given out that anyone who voted against this bill would incur the displeasure of the king. Four days after the repeal of the Sherman act members had told him that they had been promised revenue collectorships if they would vote for repeal.

"The gentleman makes a very broad assertion," interrupted Mr. Coombs, (Dem., N. Y.) and asked Mr. Sibley to "Every man is the guardian of his own conscience," declared Mr. Sibley.

"Already the padlocks have been on my lips too long, and I intend to throw "When were the padlocks put on your lips?" interrupted Mr. Outhwaite (Dem., O.)

There was great confusion and excitement following the question. "I have not thrown them off before." continued Mr. Sibley, "because I hoped to see the administration redeem its promises and I did not wish to utter rebuke when there was hope of honest per-

Mr. Outhwaite had pushed forward and again uttered his question: "Who put the padlock on your lips?" Mr. Sibley hesitated for a moment and then with intense earnestness, said: "Let me tell the gentleman that I am not talking today to men who believe in heaven supported by truth. Let me tell him also that I am not addressing men who believe more in a bobtail flush than a contrite heart."

A shout of applause and laughter greated the statement. Mr. Sibley proceeded to relate the experience of Dyonisius when he was again interrupted by Mr. Outhwaite, "Was it Dyonisius who put the padlock on your

Mr. Sibley made no reply but continued at length in the same strain. Mr. Johnson (O.) explained why he believed the bill, if it could be enacted into law, would prove a monstrous failure. He denied that this bill was designed to take the government out of the banking business and asserted that no bill could be devised for sound currency issues which would not place them under government supervision and in effect make them alternately redeemable by the government. It was the office of the government to furnish money. This bill proposed to confer on banks without limit a right that could only be conferred on a monopoly. It gave them a monopoly or it was a fail-He attempted to demonstrate that the bill would confer the same monopoly on the banks that the Bank of England and the Bank of France had. This was true because the greenbacks and treasury notes on which circulation could be taken out were limited in number. There were but $475,000,000 of these notes. When they were deposited for circulation the monopoly would be com-

Mr. Johnson sketched a scheme by which a dishonest man, entirely within the terms of this bill, could make $52,-500 in two weeks by starting a bank. "Could that not be done under the present law?" asked Mr. Springer.
"No, sir," replied Mr. Johnson, "because he must deposit $114,000 worth of

"Could not the Canadian banks perpetrate the same frauds?" asked Mr. Springer, returning to the assault.
"No," replied Mr. Johnson, "because the Canadian system is a government

COLUMBUS, Jan. 9.—The prosecuting attorney of Jefferson county has addressed a letter to Attorney General Richards, in which he complains that the West Virginia authorities send their paupers across the river into Jefferson county, paying in advance a month's rent for them, and then leaving the in-digent persons to be cared for by the

THE WATERS RECEDING. The Flood on the Ohio About at an

PITTSBURG, Jan. 9.—The flood has reached its limit and the worst is over. The maximum height, 25 feet 9 inches, was reached in the harbor, and an hour later the water began to diminish, While most of the danger is past, careful watching will be required until the rivers get back into their banks which will be about tomorrow morning. The fall will necessarily be slow, as there is still much surface water draining into

Notwithstanding the rapid rise, which was the quickest on record, the damage has been small as compared with other floods. This was due almost entirely to the precautions taken by rivermen, who have profited by past experiences. Captain W. W. O'Neill approximates the general loss at $500,000. This estimate includes wreckage, flooded mills, and mines, expenses for protection and help and the loss to private corporations adjacent to but not connected with the Locally the loss has been comparatively light, notwithstanding the suddenness of the rise. The annoyance and inconvenience, however, has been considerable. Among families and private individuals, Allegheny has suffered most. The lower part of the city was submerged, and people went about the streets in skiffs. There was much bustle and hurry to get damageable goods to places of safety. The Pittsburg and Western passenger station was abandoned, and trains were run in and out of the West Penn station. Along River avenue cellars were badly flooded. On the Pittsburg side, the section fronting on the Allegheny river suffered from flooded cellars. A depth of our feet reached in several places on Sixth street and Duquesne way.

News from above Pittsburg shows that streams are falling. Below the water has about reached its heighth.

SENATOR LODGE RESOLUTION It Causes Further Debate-Palmer Defends the Administration. Washington, Jan. 9.—Further debate on Mr Lodge's resolution asking for information why the American ships had been withdrawn from Hawaiian waters took place in the senate:

Mr. Palmer (Dem., Ills.) in accordance with previous notice delivered a speech against the resolution regarding it as an invasion by the senate of the powers of the president. He defended the acts of the present administration in Hawaiian affairs. His remarks provoked a number of interruptions by Republican senators, including Messrs. Lodge, Teller and Aldrich. Mr. Gray (Dem., Del.) also opposed its adoption.

Then the resolution again took its place on the calendar and during the remainder of the day the senate listened to sulogies on the late Alfred H. Colquitt of Georgia at the close of which the senate adjourned.

WILSON THE GUEST OF HONOR.

He Assails the Protective Tariff System, Not Despondent Over Democracy's Reverses Senator White Coursessman Me-Millen and Others Talk.

Philadelphia, Jan. 9,-Jackson day was celebrated by the Young Meu's

Democratic association of this city for the fifteenth consecutive time by an elaborate banquet in St. George's hall. Vice President Stevenson, who had been expected to be the chief guest, was unable to attend on account of his dangliter's i lness. He sent a telegram from North Carolina regretting his inability to be present. Congressman William L. Wilson of West Virginia was the guest of honor and the principal speaker. The participants drank to "the memory of Jacks n' s and ng, after which James A. Stranahan spoke for "The commonwealth of Pennsylvania." The next toast "As party organization is the controlling force in national legislation, the preservation of great parties thoroughly organized is the best security for national liberty" was responded to by Senator Stephen M. White of Cali-

"Moderate and just taxation is the best achievement of legislative action" was the subject assigned Congressman Wilson. Congressman Benton McMillan of Tennessee followed Mr. Wilson, responding to the toast, "Economy and fidelity to public interests in adminis-tration should be the paramount obligation of party. The concluding toast, "The Young Democracy," was responded to by Dwight M. Lowrey of this city. Congressman Isador Strauss of New York was present, but did not speak, as were also Assistant Secretary of War Doe and United States Treasurer

During the course of his speech Mr. Wilson said: "Protection in its real working is nothing but the old device by which the rich throw upon the poor, by which those who labor in the legislative lobbies throw upon those who labor in the shop and in the field, the chief surden of supporting the common government and, in addition thereto, exact from them one or more days in every week of unrequitting labor for their benefit and enrichment. Against wrong and injustice the party of Jefferson and Jackson-the party of free institutions—is pledged to wage a war of extermination.

"Moderate and just taxation is indeed the highest achievement of legislative action. If we have failed as a party, in our recent effort, to reach this high achievement, as we must admit that we have followed, let us searchingly and in the spirit of the most honest inquiry, ascertain how far that failure has been due to faithlessness in our own efforts or in our own ranks, and how far it was due to the intreachment of privileges so strong and so inveterate that no first assault could hope fully to dislodge it. partial failure has been due to both causes and, so believing, I find in our present reverses no cause for despondency or for party disorganization and apathy, but a higher call to duty, to a advanced party policy, a more steadfast and loyal adherence to it."
