supreme court's decision in the income have no reliable data upon which to form all accurate estimate, they express the beliaf that the net result of the decision will be a loss of at least 50 per cear in the receipts from incomes. In some cities the loss will be far greater ington, where the loss is expected to reach 75 per cent. Washington, however, is exceptionally a renting city. The proportion of rented houses in other cities of the country also is very large. In 1890 the rented houses in per cent; in Brooklyn, 81; in Cincinnati, so, and in Jersey City, St. In the other large cities the percentages range down to loat Rochester. In New York City there were 292,956 rented houses: in Philadelphia, 157,803; in Chicago, 158,566; in Brooklyn, 139,049. The total number of rented houses in the United States in 1800 was 1,120,487 which during the last five years has undoubtedly increased very materially Dwelling houses, however, represent only a small part of the capital invested in bandings of every character, which produce enormous rentals.

Comparatively little was expected from interest on state, county and municipal bands, but the total loss it is thought, will not fall short of $15,000,000, or $20,000,000, for the first year, and this loss is expected to increase rather than to diminish in succeeding years should the law remain unrepealed. The loss of this revenue however, is not the only cause of regret among the officials. The fact that the count was exouly divided on the main constitutional bynestion, it is expected, will result in almost endless litigation. thus very materially adding to the expense of collecting the tax. Neverth less, the internal revenue officials wil proceed at once to prepare supplementa resolutions to conform to the decision and from now on until next Monday when the time expires within which r turns may be made, any returns in which incomes from rents' bonds are deducted will be regarded as a full compliance with the law. Persons who have already made their returns and paid the tax will be advised of the change in the resolutions, and as soo as possible the proportionate amounts of tax paid by each on rents and bonds will be refunded to them under the general law, which authorizes the commisomer of internal revenue to refund taxes wrongfully collected.

Attorney General Olney was much surprised at that part of the decision tax. As to the section of the net relat ing to bonds, the attorney general rather expected an adverse decision but he regards the action of the court on the rent proposition as having been taken on technicalities, which he behaves will not stand the test of time and cannot remain the permanent law of the land. On all other points the government, he believes, has no serious cause for complaint. It is universail regretted that there was not a full betich to hear the case, and should Justien Jackson resign, there is very good almost certainly be favorable to the law, in which event another test casvery soon would be brought to the cours for determination.

SUPREME COURT'S DECISION.

It Decides Certain Points of the Incom-Tax Unconstitutional. Washington, April 9.—The suprem court's decision in the income tax cases after reviewing the historical and other phases, is as follows: First-That by the constitution federal faxation is divided into two great classes: Direct taxes and duties, im-

as delivered by Chief Justice Fuller

TRESTS AND CARRESTS Second—The imposition of direct taxes

is governed by the vale of apportion ment among the several states, according to numbers, and the imposition of duties, imposts, and excises by the rule of uniformity throughout the United Third-That the principle that taxa tion and representation go together was the constitution by the establishment of the rule of apportionment among the several states so that such apportionment should be according to numbers in Fourth. That the states surrendered their power to levy imposts and to regulate commerce to the general gov ernment, and gave it the concurrent power to levy direct taxes in reliance intended to be and was preserved in on the protection afforded by the rule prescribed, and tint the compromise f the constitution cannot be disturbed Fifth—That these conclusions result rom the text of the constitution, and are supported by the historical evidence furnished by the circumstances sur rounding the framing and adoption of that instrument, and the views of those who framed and adopted it. Sixth-That the understanding and expectation at the time of the adoption of the constitution was that direct taxes would not be levied by the general gos ecument except under the pressure of extraordinary expenses, and such ha been the practice down to August 15 1894. If the power in do so is to be exereised as a prelmary and usual mean of supply, that their disculshes an add tional person for a regensuestion in the Seventh - That taxes on replestate belong to the cases of direct taxes and that the taxes on the reut or income o regiestate, which is the incident of its ownership, belong to the same class.

Eighth-That by no previous decision of this court has this question been adjudicated to the contrary of the concluious now announced.

Ninth-That so much of the act of Aug. 15, 1894, as attempts to impose a tax upon the rent or income of real estate without apportionment is invalid The court is further of opinion that the act of Aug. 15, 1894, is invalid so far as it attempts to levy a tax upon the income derived from municipal bonds. As manicipal corporations is the representative of the state and one of the instrumentalities of the state government, the property and revenue of municipal corporations are not the subjects of federal taxation, nor is the income derived from state, county and mumerpal securities, since faxation on the interest therefrom operates on the power to borrow before it is exercised, and therefore such a tax is a tax on the power of the states and their instrumentalities to borrow money, and consequently repuguant to the constitu-

Upon each of the other petitions argued at the bar, to wit: First, whether the void provisions as to rents and incomes from realestate invalidates the whole act? Second, whether as to the income from personal property as such the act is unconstitutional as laying direct taxes? Third, whether any part of the tax, if not considered as a direct tax, is invalid for want of uniformity on either of the grounds suggested? the justices who heard the arguments a qually divided, and therefore no opinion is expressed. The result is that the decree of the circuit court is reversed and the case remanded with disections to enter a decree in favor of the complainant in respect only of the voluntary payment of the tax on the rents and income of its realestate and that which it holds in trust and on the income from the mnnicipal bonds owned or so held by it.

The Judge's Charge Adverse to Miss Dickinson.

HER VIOLENT, PECULIAR ACTIONS

At the Time of Her Incurregation In the Insane Asylunc Brought 9ut by Judge Acheson - Susan B. Anthony Denies She Defaulted a Note.

SCRANTON, Pa. April 10 - Judge Acheson in the United States court has completed his charge to the jury in the famous case of Anna L. Dickinson, the noted political crater and tragediene. against her sister and four others. Miss Dickinson seeks to recover $50,000 damages for being confined five weeks to the Danville insane asylum, in 1891. The trial has occupied eight days, and and wemen friends of the plaintiff and lefendents. The crowds have been s large that hundreds have daily been ienned admittance to the courtroom. Judge Acheson's charge was plainly in favor of the defense. He brought out the strong points in the evidence which showed Miss Dickurson's violent and peculiar actions at the time of her incarceration. It is the epimon of lawvers and spectators that the jury will ther disagree or find a verdict in favor of the detendants.

BUT DREAD DISEASE RILLED HIM.

He Was a Terror to Evildoers of the West In His Time - Murdered Tive Cowboys Who Slew His Brother-Killed Twenty-Eight Men.

Donge City, Kim. April 10.-Bat Masterson is dead. The man whom all the bullets of angry and drunken cov boys could not kill, succumbed at Guthrie, O. T., according to advices just of ceived, of quick consumption. He had Meisel, Mildred Folsom, Margaret Davis, been United States marshal and was city | Ralph Rodgers, Wilfred Hunt, Reardon marshal of Dodge City in its wildest days. To him was accorded the honor Ira Tibbott, Edwin Englehart, John Blair, of being the most fearless officer of the frontier, and as leader in scores of chases after Indians, cowboys and enttle herders in the west, he never flinched | Fredericks, Lloyd Evans, Russell Leech. or weakened. Masterson was born in Middletown, Ills , in 1854. His father was a well-to-do farmer, but the son did not take Owens, Gertrude Isenberg, Florence Apel, kindly to agricultural pursuits and had no delight in educational advantages He was wild, unruly and atterly uncon trolable by his peace-loving parents When the westward drift of population came. Masterson went to Kansas. He was able to take care of himself in every was credited with several killings before he came to Dodge City early in the '70s Dodge was then in the height of its cattle trade glory. The cowboys rules the town during the height of the season-from July to November-and when the hig herds began coming into town from the old Chisholm trail, that led up across the territory the better ass of citizens were compelled to retire from active business life In sheer desperation the city connect selected Masterson as the executive officer of the town and clothed him with full authority to take the law into his own hands, no matter what might comup. He appreciated the honor and exreised his power to the numost, with the result that he brought order out of chaos and made Dodge City a lawabiding community. Masterson's brother was sheriff of

Ford county and was killed by five cow boys while attempting to arrest them As soon as the younger brother heard of it he started on the warpath, seek ing the gang out one after another and killing each When the railroads opened up Colorado to the world Masterson left Dodge City and went thither, reaming from one infant town to another and always being chosen marshal and peacemake when he could be prevailed upon to take the office. His skill with the revolver made him invaluable and no one ever inquired how many toughs tumble before his never-missing muzzle. His friends claim, however, and the records seem to hear them out, that he never drew his arms except in the cause of justice and the interest of law. Of the 28 men he is said to have killed in his strange and varied career, probably not one deserved a better fate and nearly all were thus punished in Masterson' luties as an official.

Strange as it may seem, the dead marshal was not addicted to profanlanguage and liquor. Those who knew him best say he was a teetotaler in the latter respect and never used a profanor obscene expression. He was of me dinni height and his face had a clear, intellectual expression
