-Judge Simocton, in the Dauphin county court, decided against John T. Harris who began mandamus proceeedings to compel Governor Hastings to issue him a commission as alderman in Johnstown The court holds that the act of 1874 appiles to this case and that there is nothing in the law entitling each ward in Johnstown to two aldermen.

-In the Quay vs. Hastings-Magee-Porter-Martin Combine fight in the Republican party, the Johnstown Tribune is in the fore front of the battle for Quay, while the balance of our Republican contemporaries in the county are on the top rail, and don't exactly know on which side of the fence they will drop. They have not yet commenced to wobble

The dead body of an unknown man was found in a mangled condition at Mc-Garveys station west of Altoona on Friday evening. The man wore a dark coat over a blue working blouse and a dark, striped a vinctors to Ebensburg | shirt. He was about five feet ten inches high and would probably weigh 160 pounds. His face was not close shaven and he had a reddish mustache.

-At Lewisburg, Pa., James B. Forrest used the sidewalk for bieveling. A citizen sued him and the justice fined him 86, Defendant appealed and the Union county court reversed the justice. The case was then appealed to the supreme court and that tribunal has reversed the lower court and sustained the justice. The supreme court says the sidewalks are only for tray-

-On Sunday Alex Buck, accompanied by Misses Mary and Susie Little, all of Loretto, were visiting friends in Ebens-6 return home. Shortly after starting the horse became unmanageable and went down High street on a run. One of the adies jumped out while the other and Mr. Buck remained in the vehicle until it colided with an electric light pole opposite the residence of County Treasurer Barker and they were thrown out. All fortunately scaped without injury but the buggy was padly wrecked. -A disputch from New Castle, Pa., says a new danger threatens the potato crop in this section in the shape of small green usects, which collect in great numbers on he under side of the leaves, sucking the sap from the plants and causing them to blight. The blight extends downward apidly, and first manifests itself in the ubers by small white specks, causing them to have a leprous appearance. Decay soon inishes the work. The blight has caused a great deal of alarm, as farmers and gardeners, who, owing to the failure of other crops, were depending upon their potatoes as a chief source of money-making this
