About Public Highway.

One of the mistakes made by a majority of persons is that certain things belong to the public, such as the fruit of trees by the roadside and berries on bushes not closed by fences. There is also a vague idea of what the rights of the public are as to the occupancy of the streets or roads. In a case before the Butler courts recently Judge Greer's charge to the jury contains some information which makes interesting reading.

The case before him was the obstruction of public roads and streets. The defendant was indicted for maintaining a nuisance by the obstruction of a public road, a part of which he used for the purpose of hauling timber. The defendant defended that so long as there was any room left for a team to pass, the use of a portion of the highway by an unauthorized person for his own private purpose, did not amount to a nuisance. The court ruled otherwise. His honor, in his charge to the jury, said the public has the right to the free and unobstructed passage over the road, and if impeded, the township is liable for any damages that may result. For all other purposes the land to the middle of the road belongs to the owners of the abutting property on each side. No other person can lawfully possess the street for any purpose or appropriate to his own use any grass, fruit or other crop that grows thereon. But in case of accident, as the breaking of a wagon, a man may pile his load by the wayside and leave it there for a reasonable time, until he can remove it. Incidentally his honor referred to the use and obstruction of the streets in town, by fakirs, vendors of medicines or other goods. The rights of the property owner, he said, are the same in town as in the country. The public has a right to free passage, but the title of the owner of abutting property extends to the middle of the road. A license from the burgess or town council to occupy this property for business purposes, is of legal effect and any person occupying it may be arrested and indicted for trespass or nuisance. His license will afford him no protection against prosecution and punishment for such an act. A property owner has not only the right of possession in his land, but the public to his premises. Corner lots are the most valuable for business purposes, because they give the public better access, and the owner of such lots owns a larger extent of street, to the full benefit of which he is entitled, and of which he may not lawfully be dispossessed by intruders.

On Wednesday night of last week the house of Mr. Davis, of this place, was broken into by a party of unknown parties, who, after a short search, opened the trunk belonging to the doctor, which was standing in his room, taking therefrom the sum of $3,300 belonging to the school board, of which the doctor was treasurer; also some private funds which had been placed there for safe keeping. A queer complication arises, in as much as Dr. Davis' bond had never been accepted by the school board. Therefore the directors are equally responsible for the sum which included an appropriation received from the state a few days ago of $2,200, which Mr. Davis, his bond unapproved, was not authorized to receive and which the school board are at fault for allowing to be placed in his hands.
