EUGENE V. DEIS, president of the American Railway union, Friday, completed his imprisonment. At Chicago he was received by a crowd of thousands. Some of his followers hugged and kissed him when he stepped from the train.

A REMARKABLE case for damages has developed at Lancaster, Pa., and is attracting great attention. Hotel keeper, O. B. Groff has sued the estate of Abraham G. Brenner for damages, because Brenner committed suicide at his hotel by hanging. It is alleged that the hotel business was injured by reason of the

THE death sentence of Frank Berchime, of Lackawanna county, was on Wednesday commuted to imprisonment for life. The murderer killed his former sweetheart because she discarded him for another man. Evidence was submitted to the board of pardons to show that the fatal shot had been fired accidentally.

ROBERT MOSEBAY, of Washington county, the murderer of Frank Mosebay, will be hanged February 28 next, Governor Hastings having on Wednesday ordered a warrant to issue fixing that time for the execution of the prisoner. The crime was committed because the deceased was unable to pay $1 he owed the man who killed him.

SENATOR SHERMAN, while in New York a few days ago, was asked if he thought ex-President Harrison was desirous of renomination. Sherman said: "It be is he ought to come out and say so. It was always my plan to let my ambitions be known. I doubt if he can be renominated even if he desires it. I have not seen any strong current of popular sentiment running in his direction. In fact, I never saw that at any time."

An important decision has been ren dered by Judge Hindman, in the district court at Marshalltown, Iowa. The court sustains and makes perpetual the temporary injunction issued in June last, restraining the Soldiers' Home management from withholding any part of the pension money of inmates for the support of the institution. This is the outcome of a case that caused more bitter feeling in the Soldiers' Home, in grand army circles and among exsoldiers generally than any other disturbing factor.

Congress convenes on Monday next and the lower house will be called upon to decide an exceptionally large number of contests. Notices have been filed from 29 districts among 12 states, of which only two are northern. The contestors are all Republicans. The corrected figures of the house, after the committee on contested seats has passed upon the merits of the contests, will show a Republican membership of 270, and reduce the Democratic membership to 80. This figure may be reduced by three or four, as it is not impossible that two of the North Carolina and another of the Kentucky contests may be allowed

Refresentative Richardson (Demo crat,) of Tennessee, has called attention to the remarkable fact that, although the Republicans carried so many states. the official returns of votes cast showed that they had received only about 49 per cent. of the popular vote." He said that "their percentage of the popular vote at the last congress election, when they swept back into power in the house by such a large majority, was even smaller than at the recent election." The majority must rule, as Mr. Reed would say: and in the long run it does. The trouble is that there are so many short runs in American politics in which it doesn't. However, there's compensation in this instance in the thought that the triumphant minority makes up what it lacks in numbers by "superior moral-

In his annual report, Secretary Morton, makes the clever and agreeable statement that better times for the farmers are just ahead, and the value of land will increase. The farmers will be happy to learn all this and take the secretary at his word. They have been waiting for a turn in the tide for years -something that would bring wheat up to the dollar mark and their broad acres to figure outside those met with at a sheriff's sale, and the chance for improvement is evidently justified by fact. The increase of millions to the population and the demand in foreign markets are the factor in this field of promise for the farmers. Secretary Morton has also set a lesson in economy in expenditures in his department. Out of $5,102,523 appropriated during the past two fiscal years $1,126,268 have been returned to the treasury as the unexpended balance.

Nor many people realize that the United States is spending $10,000,000 a year for the diffusion of literature, yet such is the fact. The postmaster-general reports that two-thirds of all the weight of matter carried in the mails consists not of letters, but of "second class matter"books, magazines and newspapers-and that the transportation of this second class matter costs about $18,500,000 more than the government gets for it. As the annual deficit in the entire service is about $10,000.000, it is clear that the government is spending a good deal The dead bodies of five men, two of of money in giving the people cheap whom are recognized as being Amerireading matter. SECRETARY CARLISLE's speech at the Chamber of commerce banquet in New York did not satisfiy the anticipations of persons who expected he would out ine with greater detail the policy to be ecommen is I by the administration on he financial question. Very properly uch announcement was reserved for official occasion. But the structure apon which the future financial policy of the country must rest if the credit of the government is to be maintained, no matter upon what party the people shall devolve the regponsibility of power, Secretary Carlisle again pointed out with such unshakeable clearness of argument that successful reply is impossible.

So long as the legal tender green backs and treasury notes shall be in existence, and so long as the greenbacks shall be made compulsorily reissuable as fast as redeemed, there can be no assurance of safety in our system of finance. It is folly to say that if revenue should become redundant the gov ernment would have no difficulty in maintaining its gold reserve. In fact there is at this time redundant revenue in the treasury more than enough, with current receipts, to meet all ordinary ex penditures for the next twelve months If there should be added to the present treasury reserve a sum sufficient to provide a gold dollar for every out standing dollar of legal-tender liability in the shape of greenbacks and treasury notes shall take the bit between their teeth it would only suffice for a single redemption. As soon as the notes should be reissued a new gold liability would be incurred, in payment for which under existing law, the treasury is provided with no means of supply except borrow-

We remember no instance in our political history when any statesman has been able to make a stronger impression npon the minds of his fellow-citizens of all parties or to render a more notable service to his country than Secretary Carlisle has done in the three or four masterly speeches in which he has discussed the currency question. It is not too much to say that he has seized by the throat the cheap money craze, and has shaken the life out of it. His appeal to the sound money men of both the great parties to boldly face the money iissue by abandoning indirection and equivocation and declaring for a gold standard should not fail. There is no other safe way out of the finaucial bog

The Bulletin warns its party against pass ing any tariff bill that Cleveland could veto. It is afraid of the veto pen on the tariff question, and with reason. We would like to read Cleveland's veto of the proposed bill taxing the clothing, the blankets and the carpets of the American people and American homes To secure this luxury we hope the Republicans will not crawfish, but will go ahead restoring the McKinley taxes on

Four of the deputy factory inspectors engaged in the inspection of the sweat shop evil in Philadelphia have submitted a joint report to Chief inspector Campbell. They state that work was comnenced in July in the Second police district, where most of the sweaters are foreigners. They found the surroundngs of the work room foul and in every way unhealthy. Three hundred places in this district were visited and 90 per cent. were found in dwellings and tenement houses, in violation of law. About the same conditions were found in the Third district, where 220 places were visited. Inspectors deem it expedient to enforce the law before giving provisions and comply with them.

A FIRE disastrous to life and property swept through the Dry Goods and Wool en Exchange building at Chicago on last Friday morning. Five firemen in the active discharge of their duty and total ly unmindful of danger, were carried through a floor and buried under tons of wreckage from the five floors above. Four of the men lie dead, but the fifth was not seriously injured. One girl fell from a window and received injuries from which she died. A dozen other men wemen and girls were hurt or overcome by smoke, and many were rescued from imminent death. The property loss to the building and contents, is estimated at $400,000.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., Nov., 23, 1895,-Not another bond will be issued by the administration, until the Republican congress has had an opportunity to ex ricate the treasury from the embarrassnent into which it was forced by Repub ican lsgislation This can be accepted is absolutely authentic, even should the demand for gold become much greater than it has been for the past few days. It may not be true that Republicans are trying to force another bond ssue before congress meets, but it is true that they would be glad to see one-a big one-as it would at the same time relieve them of the responsibility of providing for the needs of the treasury and furnish them with a new peg upon which to hang fresh abuse of the administration. It is not a subject for smiles, but it would not be strange if President that portion of his message to congress calling attention to the needs of the treasury. If such language were permissible in so dignified a document as a president's message he might be imagned as writing: "Your party put the treasury in a hole; now the country expects you to at least lend a helping hand owards pulling it out.

Twelve Sailors Lost. London,, November 25 .- The high ortheast gale which set in on Saturday night continues and a large number of essels on the eastern and southern coasts of England and the French coast have been wrecked. Strangled to Death by Robbers.

Pottsville, Pa., November 23.-Mrs. Catharine Gorman, aged 74 years, was found dead in her room at her home in Mill Creek yesterday, having been strangled to death. The wounds about her neck and head showed plainly that she had had a severe struggle with her slayers. It is believed that the murder was committed by some persons who knew that the old lady kept considerable money about the house. Her purse was found on a table in the room without a penny in it, and the clothing from the closets was strewn about the rooms. The bureau drawers had also been ransacked. It is not known how much money the thieves secured.
