Big Coal Plant Sale. Buffalo, N. Y., May 11.-The Bell. Lewis & Yates Coal company has sold its plant, worth about $3,000,000, to a syndicate composed of New York capitalists and some stockholders of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg railroad. The syndicate is headed by the New York Guaranty Trust company. The sale includes all the mines in the Reynoldsville, Pa., region, and they are thought to be the best coal producing mines in this country. Included in the sale are 47 miles of railroad, the Falls Creek and the Reynoldsville. These lines feed all the railroads leading out of the coal country.

The property will be transferred to the new buyers about June 1st. It is understood that Adrian Iselin, of New York, is at the head of the syndicate purchasing the property.

.... Argyle Coal Company Wins.

A telegram from Washington says th bituminous coal dealers there are worried over competition from Western Pennsylvania. For years the Cumberland, Md., and the Georges Creek, Va., output has monopolized that territory because the mines were so near at hand. About three years ago the Argyle mines of Cambria county, Pa., commenced to fight for an entrance there and succeeded in forcing the price down from $3.25 to $2.65 per ton. But the Maryland and Virginia products had a monopoly of the tradé of the government, as bids were only asked for furnishing their coal. The representative of the Argyle company protested against this discrimination and made a fight to furnish the coal for the ordnance shops. Capt. Sampson, the chief of ordnance. protested, but Secretary Herbert directed that a test should be made of the Argyle coal and the Georges Creek coal. It was made, and the analysis revealed that the Pennsylvania product excelled the other on nearly every point. Secretary Herbert immediately ordered 2.000 tons of the Argyle coal and requested the officers of the company to compete for the annual contract for furnishing coal to the navy.

Important to Agriculturists.

A forthcoming bulletin of the State Experiment station gives the results of a number of experiments with various grades of fertilizers on a farm in Bucks county. The results show how a fertilizer that is entirely adepted to the soil's needs will yield an increased profit per acre of anywhere from $40 and $50, while one that is not adapted has been used at a loss of $7 per acre, and in no test yielded an increase of over $4 to $5 per acre.
