GOIN' HOME TO MARY.

Birds seem singin' all the way
Goin' home to Mary;
Roses on a winter's day,
Goin' home to Mary.
I can hear my heart keep time
With the bells that sweetly chime;
Sweetest man that lives when I'm
Goin' home to Mary!

Far away her smile I see,
Goin' home to Mary;
How it lights the way for me,
Goin' home to Mary!
There, in a grove where nests the dove,
A cot with lights about the stove,
Still she lights the lamps of love—
Goin' home to Mary!

THE TRAIN CANNOT WAIT

She is just 18, with golden hair and gray eyes—large gray eyes that laugh just as well as her red lips; her figure, though a little frail, makes one think that a pretty woman she will be soon. Her hands and arms are those of a child—she is not still a child? Clara felt school but a fortnight ago. She is the beloved and only daughter of a rich miller in the neighborhood of Avoyelles.

DE MORES' DEATH.

The Famous Marquis Meets His Doom in the Soudan.

Well Known in This Country for His Courage and His Feat of Arms
as a Fighter.

Particulars of the assassination of marquis de Mores have been telegraphed from Tunis. It appears that, caused by the impossibility of passing through Tunisia Sahara, he gave a written promise to go to Gabes, Neftawa, Berzou, Birlan and El Hilla, the most important of the military posts of Algeria. He had 15 European attendants, 45 camels, and 40,000 francs' worth of merchandise. At Neftawa he turned off to the east, being apprehensive that a French officer had been sent to stop him. He escaped, and on the Tripoli frontier, at El Ouata he met Tuaregs, who persuaded him to seek back his escort and camels and take a Tuareg escort and camel. He retained three Arab horsemen.

BREAKING A BIKE.

BY FRANK H. HANSON.

When Horton said he had no trouble learning to ride a bicycle—just got on and rode right off—I believed him. Some people are too prosaically clever to ever find joy in life, and Horton belongs to this class. I do not. When I became possessed of a brand-new "bike," I knew I was going to have trouble, and I never myself thereafter. I was not mistaken. Horton said he would come over and help me learn to ride. That's the trouble with clever people. I knew how Horton would help me to learn to ride. All clever people adopt the same methods. He would lead the wheel out into the road with an air of supreme mastery, steady it for me to mount, and, having enticed me to a seat on the treacherous machine, deliver himself in this wise:

A MARYLAND SNAKE.

It is Twenty-Six Feet Long and Eats Ducks Alive.

A gentleman residing out in Maryland near Haverly, Md., has been reading snake stories. The other day he came to town and announced that stories were stories, but that Maryland was the possessor of the biggest snake in this portion of the country. The statement, made by a man of the name of... was not only proved, and then he spoke as follows:

NEW YORK'S FOOD SUPPLY.

Enough Always on Hand to Withstand a Four-Months Siege.

If the city of New York and the neighboring States had been besieged or in some other way entirely cut off from the outside world, and therefore deprived of the food supplies which in normal times come in daily in large quantities, how long would it be before the "pinch of hunger" would be felt? That is a very hard question to answer, for the reason that there are such inequalities of purchasing capacity in New York society that some go hungry at the beginning of a siege, and then they die. The public authorities would be compelled to take possession of the food supplies and distribute them among the people. With the exception of milk and some other things the supply of food would last for two or three months at the most.

During a few days after her arrival the whole household was in a state of confusion. Her hands, dainties, dancing parties, lawn tennis; the days were long enough to hold their pleasures. Then all was quiet at the mill.

My correspondent thought that I ought to give publicity to such violent and aggressive language uttered before French officials against a friendly nation. I did not do so, for I knew the marquis to be an erratic man of vague ideas and no sound sense.

At last I got the wheel to go around. A thrill of joy went through me. I saw the landscape slip by. I felt myself passing rapidly through space. The crowd which I had feared I had dismissed, I was leaving them far behind.

REBUKES FROM THE BENCH.

Lord Chief Justice Eric Gifford Sets Down on the Council.

Lord Chief Justice Eric was prone to interrupt counsel when it was found that the judges had already made up their minds against him. On one occasion Mr. Bovill, Q.C., soon afterward made a judge, was stopped with: "Here we stand, four men, and we have all firmly (emphasizing the adverb) made up our minds to give your opinion."

"WANT A WAGON?"

We have wagons, carriages, curreys. High grade, as light, as durable, as well as admirably finished at moderate prices. Built on boxes by men of literary character. Henry is our policy; prompt shipment our motto. We want to know you. Write us. Costs you nothing. We are ready to send you our catalogue. If you are ready to order, send us your order. Write to W. B. PRATT, Sec'y, ELKHART, IND.

"Well," said Clara, "I have not seen him for two years. I suppose he is changed."

"No more than you," said her mother, casting a loving glance of admiration to her daughter; "you were a little girl when you went away—you are a young lady now."

Whatsoever was out of the common pleased him. He was a Boulangerist because this signified conspiring and overturning; he was an anti-Semite, because he believed in his medical theories; he was a Nordonian, because the scoundrels by whom he, in common with M. Drouleau, who is a man somewhat of the same type, had been drawn into it had made him believe that it was combating England. He had not the slightest inkling of the miserable origin and contemptible aim of that childish affair.

At last I got the wheel to go around. A thrill of joy went through me. I saw the landscape slip by. I felt myself passing rapidly through space. The crowd which I had feared I had dismissed, I was leaving them far behind.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

The next Episcopal church congress will be held at Norfolk, Va., from November 17 to November 20.

The recent troubles in the Salvation Army have brought to light the fact that this organization's property valued at more than $4,000,000.

SOLID GOLD TOILET SET.

Property of the Khedive Inherited with Precious Stones.

It is said that he only complete gold toilet set in the world belongs to the Khedive of Egypt. Its exact value is not known, but it must be enormous, for the set is encrusted with diamonds and other precious stones. Egypt, by the way, has a debt of about $25,000,000, and besides the interest on this has to pay an annual tribute to the Sultan of Turkey amounting to nearly $3,500,000.
