An Immense Crowd Turned Out At Philadelphia.

BOUND TO SEE BRYAN

MANY WERE HURT IN THE CRUSH. the Candidate Had an Exciting Experience Getting into the Academy of Music, Where He Spoke to About 6,000 People-What He Said.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23 .- Mr. Bryan was greeted in Philadelphia by a crowd which, according to the police and other authorities, exceeded any outpouring of the people on a similar occasion in the history of the city. He spoke at the Academy of Music which has a seating capacity of about 3,000. Every available inch of space in the house [Applause.] The Republican party admits that bimetallism is better than mono-metallism, that a double standard is bet-t than a single stan a d, or if you want and on the stage was occupied two hours before Mr. Bryan arrived and experts estimated the audience at fully 6,000. Gathered in the street outside of the academny were fully 35,000 They want what's international bimetal-ilis . Will not international bimetal-lis . help the mine owner just as much as international bimetallism? Will not international bimetallism help the debtor just as much as independent bimetallism? Therefore, my friends, the Republican party is estopped from making any argu-ment against the double standard and it puts itself in this unfortunate position, that having declared that bimetallism is a good thing, that the American people ought to have it, the Republican party will not undertake the bringing about of that desirable thing until foreign nations bring it to us. That is the position of the Republican party. people hoping to see or hear the candidate. The crush was something awful Many of those who succeeded in getting inside the academy had their clothing almost torn from them. Many cases of more or less severe injury were reported to the police, one man with a broken arm being taken to the hospital.

Hundreds of policemen were power less to keep the crowds in check. Mr. Bryan made his headquarters at the Lafayette hotel, two blocks above the Academy, on Broad street. In front of this over 8,000 people gathered desirons of getting at least a glimpse of the distinguished visitor. Since it was not possible for Mr. Bryan to make his way down Broad street to the Academy in his carriage he was conducted through the basement and kitchen of the hotel and out of the rear to a side street through which he walked to the Acad emy. He managed to make his way to the stage entrance and got inside after an experience with the crowd that he will long remember. When he appeard on the stage his reception was tremendons, the cheering lasting several min-

Mr. Bryan said in part :

The gold standard papers ask why I come to Pennsylvania. I have nothing to conceal. I will tell you why I come. I e me first to secure, if possible the elec-t ral vote of the state of Pennsylvania. [Applause and cheers.] If you deny that, if you will not give me that vote, if we are defeated in this campaign, then I come upon another mission, and that is to tell the people of Pennsylvania that the teil the people of Pennsylvania that is to agitation for free coinage will never ccase in this country until the gold standard is driven back to England.

They say that the craze is dying out. I care not what they call the silver cause, you may apply to it such epithets as you will, but I know that the silver cause will not die, because truth never dies. [Applause.] You ask me why I know that this cause is true. I can give you many reasons, but one reason is sufficient that every enemy to good government is against free silver. You can know a cause against free silver. For can know a cause as you can know an individual, by the company that it keeps. [Applause.] Our cause appeals to the masses of the people, because the masses are interested in equal laws. Our cause is opposed by those who want to use our government for profit, be cause we are opposed to government insti tuted for any such purposes. [Applause.] Your city is called Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love. I come to proclaim to you the gospel that is described by the name of your own city, and y 1 you say you will give 100,000 majority against that doctrine. [Cries of no, no, never.] I come to proclaim finan-cial independence in a city which saw the declaration of independence signed more than 100 years ago. [Great applause.] You say that this city, in which the forefathers gathered when they were willing to defy the foreign powers and declare their inde pendence, you say this city is afraid to have financial independence? I shall not declare that the descendants of our fore fathers of 100 years ago have sunk so low unless you write it so at the ballot in unless you write it so at the ballot in November. [Great applause.] The issue which is raised now was raised before. There were-people then who said that we could not obtain independence unless some foreign nation would help us. There are those who say it today and those who say it today stand in the same position as those who said it then. [Applause.] The people who loo years are declared in The people who 100 years ago declared in favor of foreign supremacy were the peo-ple who had business dealings and acted as the agents of the people who employ them over there. You have no banks in this city today which are not controlled by the influence of London, and I have not more respect for the American who takes his patriotism from Lombard street than I have for the Tory who took his patriot ism 100 years ago from England (Great applause.) One of the papers said that I lacked digother of the papers and that I needed ag-nity. (A voice: "You're all right." An-other voice: "How about Singerly?" hisses and groans.) My friends, I have been looking into the matter, and do you know that I would rather have it said that I lacked dignity than to have it said that I lacked backbone to meet the enemies of this government who conspire against this nation's welfare in Wall street. (Great applause.) What other president did they applause.) What other president did they ever charge with lack of dignity? (Cries of "Lincoln" and great applause.) Yes, my friends, they said it of Lincoln and Jackson, too. (Applause and cheers for Jackson.) Then Jefferson lacked dignity also. (A volce: "How about Singerly?" greans and hisses.) Now, my friends, 1 will tell you how dignified I think a man ought to be. Of course you know avery ought to be. Of course, you know every body has his own idea of those things. I believe that a man ought to be dignified enough, not too dignified and not lacking in dignity. Now, it might be more dignified if i would stay at home and have people come to see me. [Long applause and cheers.] But you know that I said I was not going to promise to give anybody an office and therefore a great many people who might come to see a candidate under some circumstances would not come to see me at runstances would not come to see me at Jil. [Great applause.] And then all our people don't have money to throw at the birds. [Applause and laughter.] Why, our people want more money and if they could come all the way to Nebraska to see me it would show that they had money enough now. [Applause.] Now, my friends, I don't like to be lacking in any of the essentials, but do you know l can't see that there's any lack of dignity shown if I go before the people and tall to them and say what I stand for and what I am opposed to. [Applause.] They say I am begging for votes. Not at all say I am begging for votes. Not at an I never asked a man to vote for me. [Ap-plause.] In fact, I have told some people to vote against me, that is more than most candidates do. [Applause.] I have said that If there was anybody who believed in the maintenance of the cold standard until forder matter gold standard until foreign nations cam to us and graciously permitted us to abandon it, I said if anybody should be lieve that the gold standard was absolute ly essential to the welfare of this country he ought not to vote for me at all. I do not want any man to vote for me then ob ject to my doing what I expect to do if you elect me. [Applause.] And if I can prevent the maintenance of the gold standard you can rely upon my doing it the very first possible opportunity given me [Great applause.] Now, my position on public questions is known, and I don't use the word sound money when I mean gold, either. [Applause] And I don't use the word honest money when I talk about a dollar that is the most dishonest dollar this country ever saw, a gold dollar which keeps growing greater all the time. [Great applause.] My platform sets forth certain policies and it states that the money question is the paramount issue, and then two other parties, to neither of which I belong, two other parties in national conventions, declared that the money question is para-mount and they nominated me, and every man who is supporting me is willing to say so, and to say why he does it. In that respect I have the advantage over some. [Laughter and applause.] There is one [Laughter and applause.]

bugs use the word lunatic when they speak of me. [La ghter and applause.] The gold bugs to use that gold is the money of civilize ion. Isn't it strange that the Republic party did not find that out in St Loons? It does not say so, The gold bugs tell us that this mation has outgrown the gold standard. Isn't it strange that the Republican party did not find that out? The gold bugs tell us that you cannot have two yardsticks. Isn't it strange that the Republican party did not find that out? The gold bugs tell us that you cannot have two yardsticks. Isn't it strange that the Republican party did not find that out? They tell us that the free coinage of sliver is shaply in the interests of the mine-owners. Isn't it strange that the Republi ans didn't find that out? How do you know that the Republicans it neap dollars. Isn't it strange that the Republican party didn't find that out? How do you know that the Republicans did not find that out? Why, because their platform pledges the Republican. The Republican party pledges to sub-stitute a double standard for the single thing would the Republican party they to probably they would not admit it. czar and czarina entered an open state carriage, escorted by the Scotch Grays, and drove to Balmoral. - As the imperial personages started on their drive the first bonfire was lighted on the mountain peak. Arrived at the entrance of the castle, grounds of Bal-moral, the servants of the castle and the Ballater and Crathie volunteers led the procession of carriages with flaming torches. Three other bonfires on the adjoining peaks illumined the mountain-side with a glare of light. Balmoral castle was reached thus without any incident. The queen and Princess Beatrice received their imperial guests at the door of the castle, and the warmest greetings were exchanged, the bagpipes meantime sounding a shrill welcome and the torche carried by the servants being thrust high in the air, accompanied with loud cheering by all the attendants. Before the Russian party disappeared within doors the torchbearers marched past them in single file. The party, on their arrival at Leith,
