A Big Catch of Fish.

The Raftsman's Journal says: Alvin Holes, of Curwensville, is probably the greatest fisherman in Clearfield county. This year he presents a record that cannot be beaten along the Susquehanna anywhere. During the trout season he secured 1,500 speckled beauties; SCO he caught near Bear run, Greenwood township, and 700 in He has on exhibition 150 eel skins, the result of this year's catch, and has caught 135 bass, all of which were secured in a distance of one-fourth mile from Curwensville dam to a point below the Susquenanna house. Forty-four bass were aught while standing on one stone, and and 6 of these 44 were over 19 inches long This is no fish story, but can be verified by urwensyille citizens whom nobody dare challenge for truth and veracity.
