-Oliver D. Schock, chie! clerk to the department of agriculture, says that 954 lifferent brands of fertilizers were licensed for sale in Pennsylvania for the year ending December 31st. This number is in excess of any previous year, and fully proves that the sales of artificial or commercial fertilizers are constantly increasing. Under the rigid laws of this commonwealth the farmers are receiving, proportionately, better value for their money than at any time since the laws were enacted.

-A farmer in an Oregon paper, says: Every year I hear of caterpillars destroying whole orchards, and there is nothing to be disposed of more easily. I bere a hole in the tree deep enough to reach the sap, fill it with sulphour and then plug it up. The result is magical. The sap takes the sulphur to every branch and twig and the caterpiller at once dies. I have never known the remedy to fall and I never knew a tree to be injured by it, and have pursued this course for years."

-A little son of John Gibson, residing between Strongstown and B-Isano, found a dynamite cartridge in the yard near the house, one day last week. While the little fellow was picking at the shell with a pin it exploded. The thumb and four fingers were torn off one hand and a piece of the flying missile struck him in the breast, inflicting an ugly wound. His little fiveyear-old sister was struck in the eye by a fragment of the cartridge, and fears are entertained that she will lose the eye.

-While Mrs. Eli Crosby and her daughter, of Hempfield township, Westmoreland county, were returning home in a buggy from Mount pleasant, one day last week. they encountered a ferocious bull belonga Eckard, the Luzerne county ing to William Byers on the highway-Ta urus at once charged the horse, striking it on the breast with the force of a battering-ram. The collision threw the horse back on the buggy, breaking the dashboard and throwing the ladies out. The borse then dashed homeward, wrecking the vehicle, but himself escaping unburt.

-An experienced housekeeper once well said: I never throw away a single potato which is left over; there is always some use for it. If even one or two only are left grate them and use them to thicken soup. If more, they can be sauteed the next morning for breakfast, or cut into dice and heated up with milk into which some salt and a place of butter has been added. By putting them is a hot oven and allowing the milk to be partly absorbed by the potatoes this makes a very good plain dish."

-Every few days the news reports contaln stories of persons killed or injured by the discharge of guns or pistols supposed to be unloaded. The occurrence is so common that "the unloaded gun" has become one of the stock jests of the comic papers, yet it seems to make no impression on that particularly foolish class of people who play with deadly weapons. It is idle to tell people to stop the idiotic practice, but why should not their prospective victims practice the art of self defense on them, if possible, before they have time to pull the trigger?

-Robert Lucas, colored, a former resi dent of Johnstown, but now of Pittsburg, went to the house of his mother-in-law, in that city, on Saturday, and after a short sand Saturday afternoon, from 3 altercation with his wife, who had not k to $20. go and buy your Sunday been living with him, pulled out a revolher in the temple, the second in the right arm and the third in the back. At the the third shot the woman fell and Lucas tried to escape, but was captured by a policeman who had heard the shooting. Strange to say the woman was not seriously injured and the doctors say will be all right in a few days.

-The disclosures attending the arrest of Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, Miss Emeline Freeman, and her father, William Freeman, and her brother, Dawson Freeman, all well-known residents of Masontown, has caused a great sensation in Favette county. Miss Freeman is in jail charged with murdering a child to which she recently ing purposes. gave birth. Rev. A year ago Tarr eloped with the daughter of a wellknown farmer named Long. They went to Cumberland, where they were married, but upon their return home the girl's father refused to allow his daughter to live with her husband. During the absence of the rest of the family Tarr visited the home of his father-in-law on Sunday evening and committed the deed. It is not known whether he quarreled with his wife or not, as no one was present but the two when the tragedy took place. Both were dead when discovered.

Beheaded by a Rolling Stone.

While hunting pheasants on the moun ain side near Cedar Run, Lycoming county, on Saturday, Joseph Champaign had his head cut off by a rolling stone in a most remarkable manner. His 10 year-old boy and two playmates were up the steep morn a a side about fifty yards, tumbling rocks down its precipitous sides, in order o see them splash into the the creek. A big stone, started by young Champaign on its downward course, struck the elder Champaign and knocked the back of his head off as clean as though it had been cut with an axe.

When found the body of Champaign had been attacked and mutilated by a hog. The day before the accident Champaign said to a friend that when death came to him he heped it would be very quickly.

Roads Must be Boads.

There appears to be a growing impres sion to the effect that a road is a place of passage from one point to another, and that if it is anything short of that, the ones accountable for its condition may be held responsible for the trouble that may be occasioned by its faultiness.

Passengers injured in a railroad accident, occasioned by a defective roadbed or an imperfect rail, are very sure to sue for damages and to recover liberally. Anyone injured by a defective sidewalk make a town or an individual pay smartly The spirit of the law seems to be that a railroad must be a railroad and in a condition to properly carry on its work in a

A sidewalk must be kept in a safe condition for people to walk over it. Now what about a road over which persons in vehicles must travel? Must it be a real road? Oh, no! Most any old thing will answer. It differs from a sidewalk and a railroad. They have to be what they pretend to be, but a wagon road may be simply a streak of mud or stones or anything else. No one appears to be responsible for the condition of the public road It is supposed to just run wild and look out for itself. If any one is injured or his vehicle broken, it is the result of his own folly in presuming to use a road for travel-

But the times change and we change with them. Folks are beginning to apply the same rules to county governments they do to city governments and private corporations. Accidents on public roads and bridges caused by defective concitions of the same have to be paid for by the county. It is just.

Good roads are cheapest in the long run The reign of King Mud should be cut

The Irish Potato Not Irish.

"The peculiarity of the Irish potato, so called is in the fact that it is not Irish,' observed one of the potato experts of the agricultural department. "The potato originally grew wild in the fields of Chili, Peru, and Mexico. Sir John Hawkins did not take it to Ireland until 1595. Sir. Francis Drake took it to England twenty years afterward. It did better, however, in Ireland than anywhere else, and got its name no doubt because of its early and extensive cultivation in Ireland. Botanically it was originally known as the Batata Virginiana, but in after years it was properly identified and classified as the Solanum Tuberorum. As the winter stock is now being laid in, it may be well for the inexperienced hand to be able to select good potatoes. "Cut the raw potato in two and rub the two halves together. If the moisture on rubbing is soft and liquid enough to drop, then the potato will be soggy and set when cooked. Rub the halves briskly around on each other. A potato that will be dry and mealy when cooked will give out a good, rich froth, while a poor one will show only a watery froth by the same action. The pieces will stick together if the potato is a good one. Of course the whole thing is to sest the amount of starch in the potato. If, however, a person intends to lay in a very large supply, for they are cheap now, the best plan, of course, is cook them and there will be no chance of mistake."-

Washington Star. Building and Loan Associations. Bank Commissioner Gilkeson has pre pared an elaborate report on the building and loan associations of Pennsylvania for the information of Governor Hastings in the preparation of his biennial message to the legislature. For the first time in the history of the state data showing the large amount of money invested in these conerns has been collected. Colonel Gilkeson, under whose direction the work was done, says the financial condition of the domestic association is sound and as a rule they are well managed at a comparative small cost. They are also productive of great good and he thinks local associations are entitled to receive at the hands of the commonwealth fostering care and liberal treatment. The commissioner recommends that all such associations be required to register in the banking department and when they expire an affidavit should be filed in the badly mangled body of a man was found department stating that fact; that they pany's tracks near Kittanning Point, annual statement; that the treasurer of way over were attacked by a mad buil. the finding of a letter which had been sociations be required to pay a license fee women escaped then had to save himself fide loan to a home builder or temporary investment of otherwise idle money.

Williamsport, Pa., November 21.-A: cho of the memorable Johnstown flood of 889 was heard here to-day when J. J. Strayer, a newspaper man, formerly of Johnstown, through his attorney presented a petition asking for the trial of his case against the South Fork Hunting and Fishing club, whose dam it was that burst and flooded the Conemaugh valley. The case was to have been tried in this county, but on September 29, 1895, it was marked "discontinued on behalf of the plaintiff." through his attorney, W. D. Moore, of Pittsburg, who is now now dead.

According to the petition presented to day Mr. Strayer, the plaintff, knew nothing of the discontinuance of the case until a long time afterward. Finally he discovered that his attorney had settled the case for $500, but the plaintiff avers that he never received any of the money and never authorized a settlement. Judge Metzgar granted the rule prayed for, and the case will be tried.
