

Cameron Freeman

Published Weekly at
EBENSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1897.
JAS. C. HASSON, Editor and Proprietor.
Subscription Rates:
One Year, $1.00
Six Months, .60
Three Months, .35
Single Copies, 10c
Business Items, first insertion, 10c per line
Second insertion, 7c per line
Third insertion, 5c per line
Advertiser's Notice, 2.00
Special Advertising, 5.00
For full particulars of advertising rates, send for our circular to the Editor.

Advertising Rates.

1 inch, 1 month	1.00
1 inch, 3 months	2.50
1 inch, 6 months	4.00
1 inch, 1 year	6.00
1/2 inch, 1 month	.60
1/2 inch, 3 months	1.50
1/2 inch, 6 months	2.50
1/2 inch, 1 year	4.00
1/4 inch, 1 month	.35
1/4 inch, 3 months	.85
1/4 inch, 6 months	1.40
1/4 inch, 1 year	2.20

Business Items, first insertion, 10c per line
Second insertion, 7c per line
Third insertion, 5c per line
Advertiser's Notice, 2.00
Special Advertising, 5.00
For full particulars of advertising rates, send for our circular to the Editor.

SAPOLIO

IS THE PROPER THING FOR HOUSE-CLEANING.

The White Sewing Machine

THE KING OF WHEELS

REQUISITE OF HIGH GRADE CONSTRUCTION

THE WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

NEW YORK - BOSTON - SAN FRANCISCO - LONDON - PARIS

OLD SHENKLE MILL

are now prepared to turn out FIRST-CLASS WORK on Short Notice. Soliciting a portion of your patronage, I remain

J. D. LUDWIG, PROPRIETOR.

WINKELMAN & BROWN DRUG CO.

Violin Strings

John F. Stratton, Wholesale Dealer

WANTED AGENTS

THE GREAT MUSICAL CRITIC.

Once on a time, the Nightingale, whose singing had with her praises set the forest ringing. Consented at a concert to appear. Of course her friends all flocked to hear. And with them many a critic, wide-awake To pick a flaw, or carp at a mistake. She sang as only nightingales can sing. And when she ended, "Brava! Brava! Sing!"

TWO WEDDINGS.

When Drosel Harris heard the clergy, mustered laugh of his wife in the parlor as he sat in the library, he laid aside his book, tossed his cigar from the window and went to the scene of merriment. Though they had two little tots that presided at the possibility of matrimony in the household, the father was in such a mood as to be in the days of courtship and would have been irresistibly attracted by that laugh even though his business in hand had been much more serious.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

A GENERAL WAR.

Probable Result of a European Uprising.

Attitude of the Different Nations Toward Each Other - The Effect It Would Have on America.

If the alliance of the three emperors, of Austria, Russia and Germany, holds out, what can the rest of Europe do? The Balkan and other eastern and southern provinces have been led into the combination, giving three emperors, it is estimated, a fighting force of little short of 12,000,000 men. It seems to be a combination of eastern Europe against western Europe and western Europe has the weakest end of the continent. France, Italy and England together have a fighting force of hardly 8,000,000 men and France has not been on the best of terms, historically at least, with either Italy or England. The disposition of Spain and Portugal and Holland and Belgium and Norway and Sweden and Denmark is in event of an outbreak of a general European war would be problematical. They would try to remain neutral, probably, if that should be possible.

HARD GREEK NAMES.

Not Pronounced Quite as the Average Reader Would Suppose.

Greek proper names have been the source of considerable study to the reading public of the United States since the Greek tragedy, and the pronunciation of the names of some of the officials who are prominent in Athens at the present time has been the subject of controversy.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

NEW OPERA GLASSES.

What Science and Art Have Done to Improve Their Binoculars.

The theater-going young man and his taller-made sister, to all appearances, carry no glass at all, but when the act begins they pull from their pockets flat little envelopes of leather, not larger than would be needed to hold a folded sheet of medium-sized note paper. Here is of brown, elegant and edged with gold, and her initials set out at the point of the flap, her address across the front side.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.

THE TURK AS A FIGHTER.

Col. Francis V. Greene, U. S. A., retired, who was sent by this government to Russia during the last Turkish war to represent the war department at Washington, lately told of his observations of the Turkish army while in battle. "The Turks are individually good fighters," said Col. Greene. "They are fine soldiers, very obedient, fanatic in their religion and fatalists. The Turks fight up to a certain point and when he thinks matters are going against him, he will run. Not for any other reason, but because he has no life against him. The Turkish soldiers are well armed. During the Russo-Turkish war, the Turks were better armed than the Russians. They are well clothed, but the commissary and transportation systems were fatally defective.