

Shank is going up—the rich trust is gaining millions of dollars by the increased price, while the consumer is paying a cent or two more on a single pound. This is the kind of prosperity which the Republican party brings the poorer classes.

SENATOR GORMAN seldom talks for publication, but it may be safely stated that he is preparing to make the fight of his life to restore Maryland to the Democratic column, and that he is absolutely confident that he will succeed and be re-elected to the senate.

On Wednesday at Philadelphia Charles Dietz, aged 42 years, a foreman in the candy factory of Philip Wunderle, at 115 Fegg street, shot and fatally wounded Kate Sothen, aged 38 years, and then committed suicide. The woman was also an employe of the place, and unrequited love is said to have prompted the shooting.

How badly off the protectionists are for evidence of the beneficent effects of their darling tariff bill is evident from the undisguised glee with which they point to an upward fluctuation in the price of wheat. There is no more relation of cause and effect between the tariff bill and the price of wheat than there is between this year's apples and last year's horse races. Yet the protectionists catch at upward wheat prices as drowning men catch at straws.

The potters of New Jersey and East Liverpool are asking a restoration of the old wage scale. It is not unreasonable. As tariff rates were advanced on the pretense that it would be done, why not keep faith? The duties on common yellow and brown earthenware are advanced 25 per cent above the Wilson rates, while plain white china is advanced 50 per cent. Earthenware not decorated is advanced 33 per cent. Lat wages go up correspondingly. The advance was secured on the plea that they would.

A DEBATE from Ardmore, Indian territory says: Horace Gibbons, a stockman just in from near the Indian reservation, reports the Kiowa and Comanche Indians putting on war paint, and says an uprising of the Indians is feared. Gibbons says they are greatly stirred over the death of their chief, Quannah Parker, and will not be pacified. It is unsafe, he says, for whites to enter the reservation. There are between 8,000 and 10,000 Indians on this reservation, but they are poorly armed, so far as is known.

It was unkind almost to the point of malice, the act of those lad off workmen at Findlay, Ohio, who pasted up an old "advance agent" poster, supplemented with the word "closed," upon the door of the factory from which they had just been discharged for lack of orders. And they did it within a week after the signing of the tariff bill, too. Worse, even, than that; they did it the day after Mark Hanna announced the actual appearance of universal prosperity. It shows how ungrateful working men can be.

Gov. HASTINGS disposed of the last of the bills Friday, left on his table when the general assembly adjourned. The mercantile tax bill, the Simon electric light measure, and Representative Hammond's bill for a bird day in the schools were disapproved, as were also a number of items in the general appropriation bill. The governor knocked $9,450 off the item of $45,926 for employes of the senate and $15,434 off the item of $75,404 for the employes of the house. The big bill of $66,000 for furnishing Grace church was approved.

The state board of fish commissioners and the Pennsylvania fish protective association have issued a circular calling upon all similar bodies throughout the state to elect delegates to the state convention to be held in Harrisburg on the 15th of next month. The objects of the convention are: For the purpose of raising funds to assist in carrying on the work of the state board of the fish commissioners during the next two years; to suggest some plan of co-operative work by which laws in the interest of the protection and increase of fish may be more surely enacted by future legislatures.

A PORTLAND, Ore., company is doing a thriving business in horse meat. Not long ago the company received an order from France for 5,000 barrels of this meat and since then work at the factory has been brisk. Horses are killed at the rate of about fifty a day and the meat is carefully inspected by an inspector sent from Paris before it is packed for shipment. The horses used are the half wild animals of Oregon, known as cayuses, and are bought for about $25 a head. The Parisians were the first people to adopt horse flesh as an article of food and the demand for it in the French capital is constantly increasing.

CHICAGO boot and shoe manufacturers say that the tariff on hides means millions to the beef trust, and the fact points to the conclusion that it was that interest which crowded the item into the bill. Ostensibly the duty was imposed in behalf of the poor Western farmer and stock raiser; but as one manufacturer puts it: "The farmer has no hides to sell; neither has the stock man, because he sells his cattle on foot, and he will not get a penny more for the cattle because of the duty." Again the g. o. p. has got to close to the farmer—close enough to sell a gold brick which will turn out to be anything but a Klondike nugget in the sharp assay of actual experience.

The Pittsburg Leader, (Republican) Editor, Senator Hastings has completed the work of reviewing legislation. As usual, the veto prerogative was used only to members of the legislature and hangers on while those in which the governor takes a special interest were approved without reference to their propriety. The general appropriation bill, for example, is cut to the extent of $152,000 by disallowing superfluous salaries and other items covering unlawful perquisites; but, at the same time, the appropriation for Jefferson Medical college is approved, thus giving to Philadelphia $100,000 more for the use of institutions which ought to be self supporting. No wealthy private institution of learning, however richly endowed and how ever amply sustained by tuition fees, has been sent away with its hunger unappeased. The bond between the chief executive of the state and rich men's schools seems to be a potent one. The earmarks of honest economy and of genuine reform principles are conspicuous by their absence, and the conclusion is inevitable that the governor has simply been playing to the gallery, with the evident hope that his policy of favoritism and self-interested discrimination would be so offset by the pretense of wise retrenchment as to insure him the approval of the people and to put him in line for the Republican leadership in Pennsylvania. It is a bold game that Hastings has been playing, but he has played it awkwardly, and he need not flatter himself that he holds a winning hand.

The rise of 1-16 to 1/4 of a cent per pound in the price of refined sugars which took place last week was a prompt reminder to consumers of the effect of higher duties and of the power of the sugar trust to manipulate prices at will. These advances were not the first, and probably not to be the last, to result from the new tariff law. Prices have steadily crept upward ever since the sugar schedule in the tariff bill was first made public, and they are now half a cent per pound above the early May level. Shrewd buyers have been anticipating the rise, and to the extent of their financial capacity and confidence in the market they have loaded their warehouses with stocks for future distribution.

The enormous advance buying may conduce to a quiet condition of the refining trade until some of the accumulated supply shall have been absorbed by consumers. The latter must pay whatever difference in cost shall result from the increased duties, and as much more as the tariff discrimination in favor of the trust shall enable it to extort. But a little time will be required to develop the price-lifting possibilities of the complicated sugar schedule of the new law.

This Republican paper, says the Pittsburg Post, are just now engaged in figuring up imaginary statements showing what the revenue receipts might have been had not the threat of the Dingley tariff been thrust upon the country. It is an advance movement to break the force of the assured failure of the new law as a revenue getter. This one fact stands out, and cannot be controverted. With the advent of the Dingley law revenue receipts from customs have been falling off, and the deficit for the coming fiscal year will be larger than under the Wilson tariff. There is no getting away from these facts. But what does it matter, if the sugar trust got all it demanded, and the millionaires of that great conspiracy have added more millions to their illegitimate gains? Mark Hanna's campaign committee appears to be handling statistics from Washington for the purpose of further bamboozling the people. Why increased taxes for the purpose of keeping up imports should increase the imports and the revenues is a conundrum worthy of a lunatic asylum.

The owner of the Rawhide mine Captain W. A. Neville, who has had much experience of life in the Arctic, paints a gloomy picture of what is before adventurers now rushing to the Klondike. He goes to the length of predicting that half of them will never come back, declaring that the climate is such that only the most vigorous constitutions will be able to stand its rigors, to say nothing of the chances of starvation and perils of flood and fire.

The clothing outfit with which many are providing themselves, consisting largely of woollen goods, he declares, will prove wholly unsuitable, only skins and furs being fitted for the climate. He also says that the plan of taking burros from this latitude to the cold regions to the north, to be employed in packing, will prove a failure, as the animals will die as soon as the cold weather sets in. He does not doubt the richness of the mines, but he strongly advises people to wait until spring before going north, and to prepare themselves thoroughly when they do go.

JUDGE SMITH of the Superior court, has handed down an opinion for the majority of the court in the appeal of Jeremiah G. Donoghue, of Philadelphia, wherein all the rules fixed by the lower courts in reference to the conduct of the liquor dealer to whom they grant licenses is swept away. In the opinion of the Superior court judges in granting licenses cannot make rules to govern hotel keepers, there being nothing in the license laws clothing them with such powers. In this connection the upper court says: As to the nature and scope of the discretion committed to the license court, it is not an arbitrary, but a judicial discretion. The court must decide whether, under the conditions imposed by law, the applicant is entitled to a license, but may not further impose any conditions of his own.

TURKEY refuses to evacuate Thessaly unless indemnity is paid by Greece or guaranteed.

A Lake of Petroleum.
San Francisco, August 2.—While the whole world is excited over the gold discoveries in the north, sight has been lost of another discovery that promises to be of great value in the development of this section. It is a lake of petroleum, and a most pure petroleum was discovered and samples were sent to Seattle for analysis. The report on these has just been made public, and the find is reported to be of most marvellous richness. A company has been formed in Seattle to handle the product, and the company intends to put it on the Alaskan market at once. The lake is of unknown depth, several miles wide and five or six miles in length, and the quality of the petroleum is said to be of the finest. The lake is only two miles from the ocean. The hills surrounding are said to be rich in coal and asphalt. It is the expectation of the owners of the lake to take its products into the mining camps of northern Alaska whenever the waters will permit.

Sensational Shooting at Ray.
Pittsburg, August 2.—Stringtown, an oil town near Sistersville, W. Va., was the scene of a sensational shooting on Friday, in which two men received probably mortal wounds. The shooting was the result of a feud between Charles Fox, a resident of Stringtown, and William Mackey, a colored gambler. Fox, who was intoxicated, entered a gambling room last evening and upon seeing Mackey at once commenced to shoot. Mackey was unarmed, but secured a hatchet and closed in with his assailant, inflicting some serious wounds. Fox, who was loaded a second time and commenced shooting. By this time some one handed Mackey a gun and a general fusillade followed. Fox received only one bullet, but it struck him over the heart, inflicting a fatal wound. Mackey was shot once in the groin and another bullet shattered his left arm. He is in a precarious condition.

Accused Clerk Shot.
Lancaster, August 2.—Henry Etnier, the clerk in the postoffice who was arrested a few days ago on charges of stealing from the mails, and who was to have been given a hearing before United States Commissioner Montgomery this morning shot himself in the abdomen this morning with a thirty two caliber pistol. It was reported that Etnier attempted suicide, but Etnier denies that he intended to take his life. He says he was trying to take out the cartridge when the weapon was accidentally discharged. The physicians have made no effort to find the bullet and think he will recover unless internal hemorrhage follows.

Bishop O'Hara in a Runaway.
Scranton, Pa., August 2.—Rev. Bishop O'Hara, of the Scranton Catholic diocese, narrowly escaped death in a runaway accident early this evening. The bishop, who is 82 years old, accompanied by Rev. Michael Loftus, of the St. Peter's cathedral parish, was en route to visit a sick priest when the horses became unmanageable and ran three blocks. A collision with a trolley car on an intersecting street seemed inevitable and the driver jumped. The carriage grazed the car, but collided with a telegraph pole and was demolished. Bishop O'Hara escaped with a slight scalp wound. Father Loftus was uninjured.

Dog Saves Runaway Victims.
Callicoon, N. Y., August 2.—A dog's remarkable rescue of Mrs. Amos Lawler and her two little children from a disaster in a runaway near here yesterday is the topic uppermost among the people. The Lawrences were out driving when their horse, frightened by a dog, broke into a furious run. The father's dog, seeing the danger, sprang at its head, without effect. Then the persistent dog made a bolder leap, secured a grip on the horse's nose and got all it demanded, and the millionaires of that great conspiracy have added more millions to their illegitimate gains? Mark Hanna's campaign committee appears to be handling statistics from Washington for the purpose of further bamboozling the people. Why increased taxes for the purpose of keeping up imports should increase the imports and the revenues is a conundrum worthy of a lunatic asylum.

Her Husband Arrested.
New York, August 2.—Mrs. Augusta Mahler, 45 years of age, wife of August Mahler, was shot and killed in her bedroom this morning. Her husband was arrested, charged with the murder. Mahler says his wife committed suicide after having first tried to murder him. The husband had just been released from prison for a previous statement. The coroner is inclined to believe Mahler's statement. Mahler, who is 40 years of age, is a bartender in Cove's billiard rooms. He married Mrs. Mahler, then a widow, thirteen years ago, and, it is said, squandered a large portion of her fortune.

Big Mosquito's Bite.
Wilmington, Del., August 2.—Samuel Barnes, of this city, returned from Ocean City, Md., to-day suffering from a painful wound caused by a mosquito bite. While sitting on a hotel porch he was bitten on the jugular vein by a mosquito. Blood spurted from the wound in such quantities that several handkerchiefs were saturated and his shirt was covered with blood. While Barnes' companions rushed for a doctor the hotel man applied a big poultice to the wound, which finally stopped the flow of blood.

Beat the Summer girl.
Jersey City, N. J., August 2.—Samuel Woolf, a confectioner, this afternoon offered a dish of cream to a boy who would hold his arm the longest time in an ice cream freezer. A number of boys contended for the prize, but Willis Lockwood outdid them all. Although suffering excruciating pain he held his arm in the freezer for four minutes. When he withdrew it, his arm was frozen stiff. The boy was taken to the city hospital, where it was said that it would be necessary to amputate the arm.

Coated Into a Creek.
Philadelphia, July 30.—Daniel Meehan, aged 39 years, met death in a strange manner while coasting on his bicycle down a steep hill to-night. At the foot of the hill a stone fence marks the boundary of Wissahickon creek, which at that spot is about 10 feet deep. Meehan lost control of his wheel, crashed against the wall, plunged headlong over it into the creek and was drowned. It is thought that his head struck against the wall, rendering him unconscious before he reached the water.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
Washington Letter.
Washington, July 30, 1897.—It would be difficult to find a more disappointed and disgruntled gang than those Republicans who hoped for some grand appointment up to the hour of Mr. McKinley's departure on an extended vacation. They had expected that a large number of appointments would be made as soon as congress was out of the way. But only few were made and some of them were those whose nominations had failed to be acted upon by the senate. He added to their disgruntlement by amending the civil service rules so that no office holder in tele classified service can be removed except for cause and upon written charges, and then only after failure to make satisfactory defense. He pleased some of the Republican congressmen by exempting from the civil service rules some of the confidential employes in each of the internal revenue and customs districts, but offended others by extending those rules to the smaller custom houses that were left out by Mr. Cleveland.

It is Hanna and Mr. McKinley are said to be in a hot quarrel, and the big s. s. left Washington without saying good bye to the man he made president and whom he has been bossing. There are different stories as to the cause of the strained relations, but it is safe to say that they will be patched up by the time Mr. McKinley gets to Ohio, where he expects to be during the latter part of August. As soon as he takes time to think, Boss Hanna will realize that he will need Mr. McKinley in his business before that Ohio campaign is ended, and if necessary will pocket a snub or two to get his active assistance. Mr. McKinley appointed F. V. Powderly to be commissioner general of Immigration before he left on his vacation. This appointment was made in violation of the terms of the act which act upon Powderly's nomination for this position, and a bargain made before Mr. McKinley's election. It has been hinted by personal friends of Mr. McKinley that he will be rather glad that otherwise should the senate reject Powderly's nomination next winter. In giving him the recess appointment the bargain that put Powderly on the stump for McKinley has been lived up to. If the senate declines to let him stay there, Mr. McKinley will have another good appointment at his disposal.

Representative Prince, of Ill., may find it difficult to square himself with the editor of the Republican organ at St. Louis. He had endorsed the editor for the postmaster of the town, and, according to the rule of the senate, the post office department, that endorsement should have been equivalent to an appointment. But this week Mr. Prince changed his endorsement from the Republican editor to George H. McKinley, the nephew of Mr. McKinley. It is said he was virtually compelled to change his endorsement, and gives the following as the conversation that took place at the White House between himself and Mr. McKinley: "Mr. McK—'I wish, you understand, that you should be placed in Mr. Prince's shoes.' 'But, Mr. President, I have already endorsed Eastman (the editor), and if I go back on him now I will be held responsible politically.' 'Mr. McK—'Well, say to them that you endorsed him at my request. They will not care to know the reason for it, but to endorse Mr. McKinley's nephew, but he may find that the editor thinks differently, and if he cannot satisfy him in some way he may also find that he has to pay a big price for the endorsement.' 'A study of Carl Reed's committee of the house, announced just before adjournment, shows that Pennsylvania and New York, with nine chairmanships each, got one-third of the fifty-one endorsements in the committee. While twenty-three states got one man at all. The Eastern states got twenty-eight chairmanships. When it is remembered that the legislation of the house is practically in the hands of the chairman of committees this division is significant of the controlling power.

If proof were needed that Mr. McKinley was virtually compelled by campaign promises to send that currency commission special message to congress it is easily furnished by a positive statement of a prominent Republican senator. It is attempted to be made to push the currency commission bill, which was jammed through the house, to a vote in the senate. It is further being known that Speaker Reed would not have allowed the bill to get through the house had he not been certain that it was to be allowed to die in the senate. When Mr. McKinley has paid all his campaign debts he may possibly do something to help the currency bill, but it seems that there are still a lot of these debts unpaid.

Moonshine Leader Killed.
Huntsville, Ala., August 2.—A band of moonshiners attempted to enter the house of Frank Simmons at Conrad, 20 miles north of this city, early Sunday morning, and the leader, Dudley Johnson, was killed. The desperado broke the door of the fastenings, and when Johnson appeared in the doorway, the leader stepped backward, and falling several shots into the house the party retired. This morning Simmons's young son found Johnson dead in the woods a short distance from the house. Simmons learned that a mob of moonshiners were forming and went to the woods until he can secure the protection of the law. The coroner's jury has just held Simmons justifiable. The moonshiners, who were afraid Simmons would testify against them, dressed in white-cappers' uniforms and went to kill him. When found Johnson still wore a trunk. Sheriff Fulgham has gone to the scene of the trouble, and will accord Simmons the protection of the law.

Tortured Him for Money.
Eston, Pa., Aug 4.—John Kennedy, a well-known citizen of Warren county, N. J., just across the Delaware river from here, was last night gagged and robbed in his home by six masked men. Kennedy is regarded as eccentric, and related to be well-to-do, lives alone. He was tied to a chair and his hands were applied to the coils of his feet to compel him to tell where his money was kept. The robbers secured $25 in money and a lot of silverware.

Belleville, Pa., August 2.—Early this morning Hugh McAllister Beaver, second son of Judge James A. Beaver, died from appendicitis at the age of 18 years. He graduated from State college in 1895, and has served since last January as an intercollegiate secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in New York city and county.

THE SCALE IS SIGNED.
Amalgamated and Manufacturers Now at Peace.
WAGES OF MEN CAN GO NO LOWER.
When the Selling Price of Bar Iron Increases the Wages of the Employees Go Up Too—One Mill Started This Morning and Others Will Next Week.
YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 4.—The new Amalgamated association wage scale has been signed by President Garland of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers and Secretary James H. Noyes of the Iron Manufacturers' association. The scale finally agreed upon was in the main as follows:
Guide mills, rolling and heating, 15 per cent reduction on straight wages. Roughers, 7 1/2 per cent reduction. Bar mill, heating and rolling, 10 per cent reduction for iron and 15 per cent for steel.
Sheet bar work, no reduction except for heating, and it is the same as on the flat mill rolling and heating, same as before.
Skepp mill rolling and heating, 10 per cent reduction on straight wages. Puddle mill rollers, no reduction. Puddling, $4 a ton on a 1-cent card rate.
The whole scale is governed by a 1-cent rate card, which means 1 cent per pound selling price for bar iron. When the selling price of bar iron goes up everybody's wages go up, but wages cannot go any lower than they are now, no matter how low the selling price of iron goes. Altogether the new men affected do not consider the new scale as p. or for them as it might be, as the 1-cent card rate gives them some protection.
The Mahoning Valley Iron company put one of its puddle mills into operation this morning and some of the finishing mills will start next Monday. The Brown-Bonell Iron company's plant will start next week. It was announced that the iron manufacturers there will not be much delay before they start up their plants.
Although the Union Iron and Steel company has several plants, was not represented in the conference, it is understood on good authority that they will sign the scale and at least put the local plant in operation soon.

Incendiary Fire at Town.
ROCKEFELLER, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Fire which broke out in H. B. Hester's store, at Lewisburg, has destroyed Stratton's hotel, two banks, two drug stores and ten other buildings. The Rockefeller fire broke out in the town. Loss also $75,000; insurance, $25,000. The fire was incendiary and this is the second attempt within a week.

Confederates to Be Invited.
