THE COUNTY TICKET.

The proceedings of the Democratic County Convention, held on Monday last, will be found in a subsequent column. Notwithstanding the large number of candidates in the field, and the naturally warm interest which many persons felt in the result, the doings of the Convention were characterized by good order and a degree of harmony extraordinary under the circumstances. Quite a number of the Radicals rushed to the Courthouse as soon as the bell commenced ringing, expecting, of course, to witness all sorts of "exciting scenes," which would be so much "water on their mill." But the Convention was in no mood to accommodate them. Delegates might differ in their preferences for candidates, but they were not virulent enough to allow such difference to reduce them into giving "comfort" to a party which, but a year or two ago, would have hung them merely because of their political opinions, and now seeks to degrade them to the level of the negro.

There was much good material before the Convention, and the duty of selecting was therefore a more than usually delicate one; but we think that all who will candidly consider the matter, must come to the conclusion that the Convention acted for the best, and that the ticket nominated deserves the active support of every Democrat in the county—and we believe it will receive such support.

For Congress, the Convention expressed a unanimous preference for Hon. WILLIAM MCSHERRY, of Littlestown. Made with acclamation, the choice is highly complimentary to Mr. McSherry, but not more so than his many virtues entitle him to. Finely educated, sternly honest, correct in his opinions and firm in their advocacy, and, withal, incapable of any but the most honorable impulses, the Democracy of Adams' present in their candidate qualities of the highest order. His popularity is as wide as his name is known, and the choice of this county is enlured by the District Conference, we should look upon his election as certain. Adams' would respond by an unprecedented majority. We earnestly hope, therefore, that the preference of the Convention will be ratified by the Conference.

For Associate Judge, ISAAC ROBINSON, Esq., of Gettysburg, was placed in nomination. He is well and favorably known throughout the county, and qualified in every respect for a proper discharge of the duties of the post. Well informed, sound in judgment, and with a disposition always to do right, he will make a worthy occupant of a seat upon the Bench.

For the Legislature, NICHOLAS HERZEL, Esq., of Mountplesant, is admirably fitted. Though a hard-working farmer, he has neglected no opportunity to inform himself, and may be classed among the most intelligent, as well as upright, of our citizens. As a debater he will be found effective, whilst his concern for the interests of the country will always be earnest and vigilant. No improper legislation will receive his favor or vote.

The nomine for Sheriff, PHILIP HANLY, of Straban, has excellent business capacities, and is prompt and correct in everything. Few men are more generally respected, and to no one could this important office be better entrusted. All who know him, concede this, and the concession is no mean point in his favor.

Sergt. WM. D. HOLZWORTH, of Gettysburg, was given the nomination for Register & Recorder. He is a good clerk, and will make an efficient and obliging officer. No one could be more deserving. He is poor, and lost the use of the left arm by a terrible bullet wound in the war. He can safely go before the public with his claims. And so can.

ADAM W. MINTER, of Franklin, the candidate for Clerk of the Courts. He too is a fine clerk, an attainment which he constantly improved during several years of school teaching. He has lately been making his living by farming, for which indifferent health hardly allows him strength. He will be found not only capable, but always prompt and accomodating.

For Commissioner, NICHOLAS WIERNER, of Mcallen, is the candidate. He has every qualification for the place. A farmer and a first class business man, the interests of the county will have entire attention at his hands.

The candidate for Directors of the pool, JOHN NUNNEMAKER, of Liberty, for 2 years, and JOHN RAHN, of Conowingo for 8 years, are also active and well-managing farmers, and will discharge their trusts faithfully and acceptably.

For Auditor, HENRY L. BREAN, of Cumberland, is well suited, being a good accountant, and correct in all he undertakes.

Dr. W. J. MCCLURE, of Oxford, was nominated by acclamation for Coroner. An accomplished physician, of large general intelligence, his fitness is beyond question.

Such is the ticket presented by the Democratic Convention. It combines respectability, honesty and capacity in an eminent degree. It is, beside, the representative of the white sentiment of the county, and if, for no other reason, should receive the votes of all who are opposed to the degradation of our race to the level of the negro. The Radicals may, from prudential motives, seek to disguise their real designs, but say what they will, they mean negro suffrage and equality, and will, after the election, claim every vote cast for their ticket as endorsing their disgusting theories.

Up, then, Democrats of Adams! The times are full of peril to the nation, and call for your most active and united efforts. Shoulder to shoulder, let us all go into this campaign determined to win—not only to win, but to carry the county by the largest Democratic majority ever before achieved.

ORGANIZATION!—EFFORT!—VIGILANCE!—These will send Negro Radicalism to an early and ignominious grave. And in the accomplishment of this great work, the gallant Democracy of Adams are expected to take a leading hand.

THE SOLDIERS' CONVENTION.

The Soldiers' Johnson-Clymer Convention at Harrisburg, on Wednesday last, was a GRAND SUCCESS. Every county in the State was fully represented by Delegates, the whole numbering probably eight hundred, whilst many more hundreds were present merely as lookers-on. It must have been inspiring to see this grand outpouring of the "Boys in Blue," who, having fought for the Union, thus came together to renew their vows to stand by it peace as they did in war.

Gen. Wm. McCandless, of Philadelphia, who commanded a brigade of Pa. Boasters at Round Top when the rebels were checked and driven back, was made President of the Convention, assisted by thirty-two Vice Presidents and thirteen Secretaries.

Able and spirited speeches were made by Gen. McCandless, Gen. Davis, Gen. Sweitzer, Gen. McCalmon, Col. Linton, Col. Malish, Col. Ent, Capt. Brockaway, and others. The Negro Radicals were handled without gloves. No quarter was given them. The resolutions adopted breathe the warmest Union spirit, and repudiate the action of the Radical Congress, as an insult to every officer, soldier and seaman."

Upon the adjournment of the Convention, the soldiers marched in a body, with several bands of music, to the Bolton House, to pay their respects to Hon. Hester Clymer. He addressed them in a very happy manner, as did Mr. Wallace and Gen. Miller. The enthusiasm was immense, cheer upon cheer greeting the speakers. Thus came to a close one of the most important demonstrations ever had in Pennsylvania—one which will tell for good at the October election.

EXTRA PAY AND BOUNTIES.

Congress, just before the adjournment, passed a bill raising the pay of members from $3,000 to $5,000 per session—but in order to sugar-coat this pill for the people, they connected a measure to give bounties to the soldiers—one hundred dollars to three-year men, and fifty dollars to two-year men. The bounty bill had been previously defeated, and would not again have been reached but for the pretext which the members wanted to raise their own pay.

Radical ideas of justice are well expressed in the figures—$2,000 extra to Congressmen for a few months' stay at Washington, and $50 to $100 extra to soldiers, who for two and three years were exposed to all the toils and dangers of a desperate and bloody war.

It is said that the bounty bill has been so tamely framed as to require further legislation before it can be effective. Was this done on purpose?

A GEARY PUZZLE.

On Thursday week a Geary meeting was held in Shippensburg, a town in the "General's" own county. So few people gathered that no speaking was had until the evening, when a small crowd was present to hear Geary "speak a little piece" of some twenty minutes in length. Our informant assures us that there was not the slightest enthusiasm, and that Geary's speech in blackguardism and want of sense was on a par with that delivered by him at York. Compare that meeting with the meeting at Mechanicsburg in the same county, if you wish to know how the masses are feeling and thinking. The rumor prevails extensively that Geary is to be withdrawn in favor of some man who can make a decent appearance before the people of Pennsylvania, and it is said that the leaders of the Republican party are convinced that his nomination was a terrible political blunder.

For the Legislature, NICHOLAS HERZEL, Esq., of Mountplesant, is admirably fitted. Though a hard-working farmer, he has neglected no opportunity to inform himself, and may be classed among the most intelligent, as well as upright, of our citizens.

The Delegates chosen by the Democrats of the several boroughs and townships of Adams county assembled in Convention, in the Court-house, in Gettysburg, on Monday, July 30, 1864, for the purpose of nominating a County Ticket. Isaac Lightner, Esq., was made chairman, Daniel Geisselman and James H. Marshall, Esq., Vice Presidents, and Lieut. Samuel H. Elcholtz and Raphael Shantz, Secretaries.

Up, then, Democrats of Adams! The times are full of peril to the nation, and call for your most active and united efforts. Shoulder to shoulder, let us all go into this campaign determined to win—not only to win, but to carry the county by the largest Democratic majority ever before achieved.

THE CONVENTION then adjourned with three rousing cheers for the ticket.

To the Delegates of the late Democratic County Convention.

GENTLEMEN:—Many of you desired my nomination, and came at my request to obtain it for me. At the eleventh hour, I disappointed you by announcing my withdrawal.

THE STATE TEACHERS' CONVENTION.—The Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association last week held its annual meeting in St. James' (Lutheran) Church, Gettysburg. The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock, A. M. on Tuesday morning. Two persons inside, Dr. Doote and John Henderson, Jr., were brought out and carried off in carts. They were supposed to be dead, but were subsequently reported to be badly wounded. The persons inside the building hung out a flag of truce, when the police rushed in to protect the members. But no sooner had they reached the ground than the mob outside opened an indiscriminate fire, and every person who was visible inside the building was shot.

A later report says that the riot originated in the tripping up of a white man by one of the negroes in the procession. The police supposed that the former had been struck, and in rushing forward to arrest the assailant were met by a volley of firearms, bricks, &c. The general alarm thus occasioned led to the bloody tragedy which was subsequently enacted. The telegrams in relation to the affair are, however, very confused, and without detail it is difficult to ascertain exactly what lives were lost, or upon whose shoulders the blame of this bloody outbreak rests.

At the last advices the riot had been suppressed. Before it broke out Mayor Monroe asked General Baird for assistance, which was promised, but the military did not make their appearance until the riot was over.

General Baird has since issued a military order declaring martial law. The city was quiet and the people had retired to their homes.

The afternoon session was mainly occupied with the discussion of the subject of "American Normal Schools," and the Inaugural Address of President Bates.

In the evening an address was delivered by Col. G. F. McFarland, of Harrisburg. His subject was "The Victory at Gettysburg, the Work of the Teacher." Dr. Brown, of this place, next delivered a very excellent verbal Report on "The Relations and Duties of the Christian Minister to the Cause of Popular Education."

At an early hour the next morning the whole party made an excursion to a portion of the battlefield, returning at 10 o'clock.

The first business of the morning session, on Wednesday, was the Co-education of the sexes in our Colleges. The subject was ably discussed on both sides.

The time for visiting the National Cemetery was next fixed at 6 o'clock. It was also arranged that the Dedication Address of Mr. Lincoln should be read.

In the afternoon a Report on "Methods of Teaching the English Language" was read by Prof. Streit, of the Tioga Normal School. After discussing the subject of the condition of affairs, Prof. Johnson telegraphed to say whether the military authorities should be used to prevent the execution of civil process. The President, in reply, at once telephoned to the Lieutenant Governor, stating explicitly that the military would be expected to sustain and not obstruct or interfere with the proceedings of the courts. Governor Wells also notified by the President to the same effect.
