CHOLERA PREVENTIVE! THE GREAT ZINGARI BITTERS. THIS WONDERFUL REMEDY was discovered and introduced about twenty years ago by Dr. S. Cheopous, an eminent Egyptian Physician.

He has long seen and felt the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of disease, and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family was then compelled to endure.

The great question was presented to his mind every day in vivid colors as he moved among the sick and dying, and observed the inefficiency of nearly all the remedies then in use. This he was led to think and experiment, and after trying just such a remedy as he presented to his fellow men the wonderful Zingari Bitters. The effect of this preparation in the prevention and cure of disease, was so marvellous and astonishing, that the most sagacious of men, and the most experienced upon whom he discovered it. His name was placed upon the Roll of Nobles, and a gold medal with the following inscription—Dr. S. Cheopous, the Public Benefactor—was presented to him by the Vicary.

The preparation has been used in several epidemics of cholera, both as a preventive and curative measure, and with such great success that it has been introduced into nearly all the general hospitals of the old world. The old saying is, "Just such a remedy as is worth a pound of cure, applies with marvellous force to cholera, and therefore any remedy that will protect us against this terrible disease should be freely and persistently used."

All pathologists now agree that the cholera poison acts on the system through the blood, and that any combination which acts on the excretory organs, and keeps them in working order, affords a sufficient accumulation of the poison to exert its terrible effects on the organism. This is true not only of cholera, but of nearly all other maladies, especially the different forms of fevers.

The Zingari Bitters is just such a remedy as the above conditions require. It acts on the organs of excretion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. This Bitters is composed entirely of roots and herbs, and is free from any poisonous or deleterious ingredients. It is acted upon and put in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

Numerous cases of the following diseases have been cured by it: Cholera, Diarrhoea, Typhoid and Typhus Fevers, Ague, Nervous Debility, Anemia, Female Irregularities, Dyspepsia, Flatulency, Colic, Scrofula, &c. Price, one dollar per quart bottle.

DRINKERS PLANTATION BITTERS, or OLD Homestead Tonic, at Dr. R. HORNBY'S Drug Store.

Selected Poetry. OCTOBER. BY LINDA A. GARDWELL.

The year grows splendid on the mountain steep. Now flowers from the warm and glorious light. Dying by slow degrees into the deep. Delicious night.

The final triumph of the perfect year, Beyond the purple magnificence of array, Beyond the woods mountain heights appear, And slope away.

The elm, with rustled, slow motion, leaves Its long, thin branches in the tender air; While from the top the gay Sordello waves Her scarlet hair.

Where Spring first hid her violets 'neath the fern, Where Summer's fingers open, full after fold, The odorless, wild, red rose's heart, now burn The leaves of gold.

The loftiest hill—the lowliest flowers herb— The fairest fruit of season and of climate— All wear alike the fruit of the aspergillum Autumnal time.

Now nature pours her lust and noblest wit Like some Bacchant to the singing vineyards. Reclines the enchanted bay, rapt in divine, Impassioned draughts.

But where the painted leaves are falling, Among the vines, beyond the garden's limit, There sits a shadow—dim, and sad, and vast— And lingers still.

And still we hear a voice among the hills— A voice that mourns among the haunted woods, And with the mystery of the seaway fills The solitudes.

For white-gay Autumn glides the fruit and leaf, And dots the forest with her golden gleam, Lo! Time, all noises, in his mighty sheaf, Flips up the year.

The mighty sheaf which never is unbound? The reaper whose soul breathes in vain? The loved, lost years that never may be found, Or loved again!

Agri-cultural & Domestic. SELECTION OF FRUIT TREES.

The Gardener's Monthly states that a great revolution has occurred in the selection of fruit trees for planting.

Bushy plants are now most in favor, as the shade made by the lateral branches is deemed favorable to the growth and health of the tree. The ground should be rich and deeply worked for a considerable distance from the roots for the purpose of allowing the laterals a chance to extend themselves with ease and freedom.

Some people, in planting an apple tree, dig a hole into the soil just large enough to receive the root by pressing it down, and fill in, and that is all. The tree, if it lives at all, is a poor, sickly thing, and the planter wonders what the matter is that his trees do not thrive.

Bad management in planting is responsible for the failure, and nothing else.

SHARP LESSONS. Under the reign of the first caliphs, there was a merchant at Bagdad equally rich and enterprising.

One day he bargained with a porter to carry home for him a large basket of porcupine quills for his pen. As they went along, he said to the man: "My friend, you are young, and I am old; you can still earn plenty. Strike off, I entreat you, a pair from your quills."

"I'll do it," replied the porter, "but you must give me a pair in return." "I'll do it," replied the merchant, "but you must give me a pair in return."

"I'll do it," replied the porter, "but you must give me a pair in return." "I'll do it," replied the merchant, "but you must give me a pair in return."

Choice Miscellany. VALUE OF ACCURACY.

It is the result of every day's experience that steady attention to matters of detail lies at the root of human progress, and that diligence, above all, is the mother of good luck.

Accuracy is also of much importance, and an invaluable mark of good training in a man—accuracy in observation, accuracy in speech, accuracy in the transaction of affairs. What is done in business must be well done; for if it is not, it is not worth doing at all.

A small amount of work than to half-dozen times as much. A wise man used to say, "I'll do a little that will make an end of the matter." Too little attention, however, is paid to this highly important quality of accuracy. As a man versed in practical science lately observed, "it is astonishing how few people I have met in the course of my experience who can define a fact accurately."

It is in the manner even in which small matters are transacted that often turn men for or against you. With virtue, capacity and good conduct in the more important respects, the person who is habitually careless in other respects, cannot be trusted; his work has to be done over again; and he thus causes endless annoyance, vexation and trouble.

PROFIT AND LOSS. A Western candidate for Congress, who had a large and well stocked farm, was annoyed at the almost nightly disappearance from his premises of a number of his chickens.

One day he was watching the fowls to detect the thief, who proved to be a neighbor, and a warm political friend of the candidate—one, in fact, upon whose assistance he greatly relied in the coming campaign.

The candidate, however, was not to be deterred, and he decided more the idea of losing his fowls; so he made up his mind to be frank with the thief, and try to save in more senses than one his bacon. He went to the neighbor and told him what he had ascertained; expressed his desire not to make a public exposure, and said: "Now, I make this proposition—if you will let my fowls alone in the future, I will not offer you anything of the kind; but if I catch you again, I'll put into your cellar five barrels of good pork as I make."

The fellow reflected a moment, and replied: "Well, 'quire, that's a fair proposition, as you see, your neighborly; I'll do it; but I don't believe I shall lose pork by the operation."
