Selected Poetry. BUILDING ON THE BAND. Tis well to woo, 'tis well to wed, For so the world hath done. Since myrtles grew, and roses blow, And morning brought the sun. But have a care, ye young and fair, He sure you pledge with truth; Be certain that your love will wear Beyond the days of youth ; For if ye give not heart for heart. As well as hand for hand, You'll find you've played the unwise part, And "built upon the sand,"

Compiler.

'T's well to save, 'tis well to have A goodly store of gold, And hold enough of shining stuff, For charity is cold. But place not all your hope and quast In what the deep mine brings-We cannot live on yellow dust Unmixed with purer things ; And he who piles up wealth alone Will often have to stand Beside his coffer chest, and own 'Tis "built upon the sand."

"Tis good to speak in kindly guise And soothe where'er we can; Fair speech should blind the human mind And love link man to man, But stop not at the gentle words, Let deeds with language dwell, The one who pities starving birds Should scatter crumbs as well. The mercy that is warm and true Must lend a helping hand, For those that talk, yet fail to do, But "build upon the sand."

TAXATION OF THE PLOPLE

When such journals as *Harper's Week-*ly find fault with the action of the Redi-cal-party, it is time the people basis to look at facts as they are, and not be led captives by their passions and prejudices. After declaring that "the great and par-amount question of the day will good be the debt and taxation of the people," that maper says:

We believe such persons as Kelley and his Radical associates are devilish enough for any such design and reckless enough to attempt its success. If the American people are so far in love with such apos-ties as to sustain them at the expense of the burdens they impose upon the nation, civilly and pecuniarily, then we may as well all "cry havoc, and let slip the dogs of war."
