The following extract from "Fuller's Small Fruit Culturist," may be read with profit: "Despening the soil is not wholly for the purpose of furnishing more plant food, nor to facilitate the downward growth of roots, but it is principally for the purpose of disintegration, and making it of such a consistency that it will be capable of retaining a sufficient amount I moisture at all times to nourish and supply the plants growing therein, but ot enough to be detrimental. Rain water, as is well known, contains gases that are beneficial to plants, and if the soil is in a condition to allow it to pass through it a large portion of these gases will be rebut if the surface is hard, the water either runs off or remains until similar substance, and place it in an icehouse where it will become cold; then carry it into the open air, and in a moment it will be covered with water condensed from the atmosphere. Now, we know that this moisture did not exude from the glass, therefore it must have come from the air. By stirring the soil, and placing that which has become heated underneath to warm the roots, and bringing the cooler portions to the top to condense the moisture, two objects are obtained: besides loosening the earth that it may be the more easily penetrated by the mere roetlets, it at the same time admits the air charged with moisture for their nourishment. The benefit derived from frequent stirring of the surface soil in dry weather, especially if it be of a compact nature, is mainly derived from the admission of an containing moisture. Many cultivators appear to think that all that is required of them is, to keep the weeds from growing among their plants, and they never stir the soil except for this purpose; but our best culti-vators have learned that frequent moving of the soil is beneficial to all crops, expecially -in time of drouth. If any one doubts that soil can be made moist by frequent stirring, let them select a ple of ground under some open shed where orain has reached for a year or more break up the soil and pulverize it finely en stir it and turn it over every morn ing for a week or two, and it will become quite moist, while a similar soil in the open field, which has not been stirred. will be parched and dry. Mulching the surface with straw, leaves, or similar materials, is often very beneficial, especially to plants whose roots do not penetrate deeply. The mulch not only ssists in preventing evaporation, but insures condensation of moisture from the air which passes freely through it to

WALKING HORSES.

The best galt a horse ever had for every day use is a good walk. It is a gait that not one in ten possesses. Colts are not States. Young America wants mor speed. Kentucky has more good walking horses than any other State, for there horse back traveling has long been in fashion for men and women over a coun try where muddy roads, at some seasons rendered any other gait impossible, and so horses have been bred for the saddle and trained to a walking gait. This is also the case in all the Western States and perhaps might have been so in New England when our grandmothers rode to meeting on pillions behind our grandfathers. But one horse wagons have put horse back riding out of fashion, and now a good walking horse is more rare than one that can trot a mile in 2.40. At the Springfield (Mass.) Horse Show of 1980 the writer was one of a committee to award prizes to the best two walking horses. Out of seventeen entered, the committee found but one which was conidered a first rate walker. This was a Morrill mare, which walked five miles rio fair walkers, and the others knew no gait that could be called walking. At the New York State Fair the same state of facts was again developed. A letter from CUTTERS AN Wisconsin says: "I think horses trained to walk fast would be a greater benefit to farmers in general than fast trotters, as almost all of his work has to be done with a walk. I once knew a man in Massachusetts who, before the railroads were built, kept from two to four teams at work on the road, and never allowed them to trot at all, and made the distance in quicker time than his neighbors, who their horses trot at every convenient place. He said that when a horse commenced to walk after a trot, he walled inuch slower than his common gait if kept on a walk, and thereby lost more timet han he gained." Will furmers think of this and pay more attention to

walking horses?—Solon Robinson. HOW TO KEEP POTATOES.

A correspondent of the Scientific Ameri an says that he has tried the following method of keeping potatoes for years with complete success, though in some instances the tubers were diseased when taken out of the ground :- "Dust over the floor of the bin with lime, and put in about six or seven inches deep of potatoes and dust with lime as before. Put in six or seven inches of potatoes and lime again; repeat the operation until all are stored away. One bushel of lime will do forty bushels of potatoes, though more will not hurt them—the lime rather improving the flavor than otherwise."

TOMATO CATSUP.-Now that tomatoes are in their greatest abundance, the following recipe for making tomato catsup, communicated by Mrs. Page to the Prairie Furmer, will be found useful:

"Take ripe tomatoes (the small red ones are preferable,) wash but not skin them, and throughly boil one hour, and then put them through a hair sieve, and to one quart of juke add one table-spoonful of cinnamon, one of black pepper, half of cayenne, half of nutmeg, one of good mustard, two-thirds of tea-cupful of salt. Boil three hours, and then to one quart of lines add one pint of pure cider vinear. "Take ripe tomatoes (the small red ones of juice add one pint of pure cider vinegar. Boll half an hour longer; bottle hot and seal up. This catsup will keep for years and not require shaking before using. A porcelain kettle should be used:"

ORIGIN OF THE TERM NEWSPAPER.— In Hadyen's Dictionary of dates, it is said that news is not, as many suppose, derived from the adjective new. In former times (between the years 1795 and 1830) 4 was the prevalent practice to put oversities periodical publications of the ations of the day, the initial letters of the compass

E-J-W Importing that these papers contained intelligence from the four quariers of the "laws, and from this practice is cannot be undersated the "laws, and from this practice is cannot be surpassed. Call and examination cannot be surpassed. Call and examination.
