EVILA OF GOSATP.

I have known a country society which withered away all to nothing under the dry rot gossip only. Friendship once as this; love that promised as enduring as walked in and said: the heavens and as stable as truth, evaporated into a morning mist that turned to a day's long tears, only because of this; married woman, not much taken aback. a father and son were set foot to foot with the fiery breath of anger that would never cool between them, only because of this; and a husband and his young wife. each straining at the hated leash, which in the beginning had been the golden bondage of a God-blessed love, sat mournfully beside the grave where all their love and joy lay burid, and only because of this. I have seen faith transformed to mean doubt, hope give place to grim despair, and charity take to itself the if you should go back on me." features of black malevolence, all because PRUDENCE. Prudence, ladies and gentleman, prudence! But what is prudence? Not said: meanness-not to possess a niggardly wasteful; but to save everything you can for your own and others' use—a pin and a penny, a crust of bread and a potation at my house yesterday last night. He went out to hunt items, and after being away all day, returned with the following, which he said was the best he could do: 'Yesterday we saw a sight which froze our muscels with horror. A hackman, driving down Clark street at a rapid pace, came very near running over a nurse and two children. There would have been one of the most heart-rending catastrophes ever recorded had not the nurse, with wonderful forethought, left the children at home beforeshe went out, and providentially stepped into a drug store just before the hack passed. Then, too, the hackman, just before reaching the crossing, thought of something he had forgotten, and turning about drove in an opposite direction. Had it not been for this wonderful concurrence of favoring circumstances, doting father, a loving mother, and affectionate brothers and sisters would have been plunged into the deepest woe and most unutterable funeral expenses. The new reporter will be retained."

THE DEMOCRATIC ENGLES ... TE

A correspondent of the Ohio Statesman inquires why the Rooster is used by the Democracy as an emblem of victory.

That paper replies: "Because the game Rooster is the gamest bird, when encroached upon by his fellows, that ever existed, and the Democracy is the gamest party that ever voted at an election or resented onpression. Both the party and its emblem, when they go into a fight, make it a mat-ter of life and death. Both may be whipped, but not conquered, for giving up, when once in the fight, is a word unknown to the practice of the Rooster and is not found in the Democratic vocabulary." The following historical incident induced the adoption of the emblem:

During the war of 1812 the British fleet on Lake Champlain was attacked by the American fleet under Commodore Mc-Donough. The fleet of McDonough, much inferior to that of the English, suffered terribly in the first part of the battle. At the moment when it was raging flercest-the heaviest fire of the enemy was directed against the flagship of Mc-Donough-his men driven from their guns by the flerce cannonade, and disthe solicitations of the man, at the same time assuring him that if he broke the scompany the porter when he brings throaten destruction not only to the actual of the storm of iron hall, which seemed to the scompany the porter when he brings With these words she bowed reserved-by, and firstly left the store. coop and knocked it to pieces, killing all it contained but a moment before, save only a game Rooster, whose battered comb bore the marks of many a death fight. It will be remembered that, on Tuesday, the Radical papers contained a brief mention of the fact that Ed win M. Stanton, the decapitated Secretary of War, was in town and stopping at the Conti-nental. This and no more. But there was great significance in this very brief announcement. Mr. Stanton, it appears, had been telegraphed to by Mother League, and, as one of her darling boys, earnestly requested to lend the light of his filial countenance to the grand family gathering which was to come off in front of his political maternal ancestor's handsome residence in Broad Street, as soon as the returns of the election indicated the great Radical triumph, which was so sure to come.
