PRIDAY, DECEMBER 97, 1867.

TOO MUCH LINE. 3 I have been under the belief for some time that when lime can be obtained handily we use too much of it upon our land. Beveral years ago I tried an experiment on liming. Having occasion to lime a field containing six acres, I limed the first acre with exactly ten bushels the second with twenty, the third with thirty, and so on until I had limed the aixth scre, which received sixty bushels of quick lime, and nobody has since been able to detect any difference between the yield of each of the six acres. The only difference was that after the field had been mowed five years and then turned into pasture, the acre which had received the most lime was soonest set with the natural grasses.

I think that twenty-five bushels is as much as ought to be applied to an acre and is as lasting in its effects as fifty.— When I was young I applied seventyave bushels to the acre, but was led to give up the practice. For the last twenty five years I never have applied more than twenty-five bushels per acre, and in one or two instances had used even less than twenty, and could see no differ ence in the effect. My land was none the worse for the change, for it produced better crops than it did before, and I was sure my pocket was the better for it When I began to use lime I supposed that lime only acted as a manure, and was only useful as it entered into the circulation of the plant; but after reading more and observing more, together with a greater amount of experience, I was induced to believe that lime benefitted the farmer in four ways, all distinct and separate from each other.

In the first place it acted as a manure, by entering into the circulation of the plant and forming a part of its substance. Second, that it acted in a peculiar manher upon the veretable matter not in a proper state to form the food of plants and reduced it to a form proper to enter into their circulation. Third, it absorbed the acids which existed in the soil and were poisonous to plants, and formed with them new compounds, which were oither useful or harmiess. Fourth that in many cases it had the power of breaking materials forming a new one, which was useful to the plant, and liberating the reuseful to the plant, and liberating the remainder of the old compound in a form proper to support vegetable life.

I recommend to your readers the use of a reduced quantity of lime-per acre as a trial, and trust they will report as soon as they can the result of the experiment. I should also be glad to be favored with the views of farmers on the use of lime upon their own farms. - Germantown Tel

MAKING GOOD COFFEE.

The making of good coffee is a rare thing in this country; most persons boil it, thus making a decoction instead of an infusion, this effectually gets rid of the delicate and agreeable aromatic flavor and leaves a comparatively tasteless beverage. The following particulars will be found worth attention : Never buy your coffee ground, but grind it yourself, immediately before using it; keep your coffee-pot, whatever kind you may use, whiped clean and dry inside: a damp tea or coffee-pot acquires a musty flavor that spoils the best ten or coffee The cheapest and perhaps the best coffee pots are those made on the French plan, called cafetieres. If you have not one of these, adopt the following: Put your freshly ground coffee into the coffee-pol previously made warm, and pour upor it water actually boiling; set the po the side of the fire for a few seconds, but do not let it boil up, then pour a cupfull out and return it back again to the pot in order to clear it; having done this let it stand on the hob or centre to settle and in less than five minutes a transparent, strong, aromatic cup of coffee may be pouted out. The proportions of coffee (which should not be too finely ground) recommended, are an ounce to a pint or pint and a half of water.

The milk used with coffee should a ways be boiled and used as hot as possible; the boiling of the milk imparts a peculiar and exceedingly pleasant flavor to the coffee. White sugar is recommended, as the molarses-like flavor of moist augar quite overpowers the delicate

FLAXSLED SYRUP. - This excellent remedy for cough is made thus: boil one ounce of flaxeeed in a quart of water for halfan hour; strain and add to the liquid the juice of two lemons, and half a pound of rock candy. If the cough is accompanied by weakness and loss of appe tite, add half an once of powdered gum arabic. Set this to simmer for half an hour, stirring it occasionally. Take a wine-glassful when the cough is trouble

COURT PLASTER.-Never having seen in print an excellent substitute for court plaster, for cuts and bruises upon the bands in cold weather, I give you the ofollowing:

Take half a dozen pigs' feet, well clean ed for cooking, and boil to a jelly of say about half a pint or less—then spread with a brush on any waste scraps of silk and we find it equal to any achesive plaster we have ever used/ Any fatty substance in the boiling of the feet rises to the surface, and when cold can easily

These Planos have not only stood the continual mee and heavy practice of one year, but have been used the last fifteen years to the utmost astichation of those using them.
They have taken PREMIUMS AND MEDALS WHEREVER EXHIBITED. Such has been the demand for these Planos, that MESSICS. MAINES BROS, have been compelled to enlarge their works to the extent of 3 to 30 Planos A WEEK.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS! THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY
TOR IRREGULARITIES!
I have tested these Drops in my own practice, over ten years, and do not besitate to say, that nothing has yet been developed by medical research, that acts so powerfully, positively and harmlessly, in cases of female irregularity, as does this medicine. In all recent cases it never saits, while thousands who have been long aufferers, are indebted to it for the boon of health to-day. are indepted to it for the book of neath oday.

Although so powerful and positive, they are perfectly harmless, and may be used at all times, except when specially forbidden in the directions. They have been extensively employed by eminant in physicians in France and England, as well as the property of the first instance of failure. I could give you testimonials of their efficiely from all over the morthern and western States, were they not in their nature private. Over 100,000 bottles have been sold the past year, and I hope and trust as many sufferers have been benefitted. I am well aware that a remedy so potent to remove not in their nature part year, and I hope and trust as many sufferers have been benefitted. I am well aware that a remedy so potent to remove all obstructions, may be used for a bad purpose, but trust that where one bottle is thus used, ten.

To all who suffer from any irregularity: painful, difficult, excessive, offensize or obstructed Menstrustiou. Lucorrhea, or the train of diseases that follow. I would say, try a bottle of DR Lyov's FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS. Beinga fluid preparation, their action is more direct and positive than any p'lls or powders. Explicit directions, bearing my fac simile, accompany each bottle. They may be obtained of nearly every druggist in the country or by enclosing the price to C. G. CLARK & Co., New Haven. Coun.
