THE SKEIN.
 BY ROBERT STEINMAN.

Skip, yes, skip your skein, my Kith,
 Or my hands, and wind and wind.
 All the while, with little ply,
 Thine anxious heart and mind;
 Kith's eyes upon the wool,
 Not on me, my beautiful!

Now you drop your eye completely,
 Winking, winking, drearily;
 Whither, whither, mope away,
 On an object that cannot be!
 If you stop, smile, smile this way:
 I will be as I may!

And the robed fingers sitting
 Sew the web that grows and
 How my heart beats time whilst sitting:
 Still I try to bear it all!
 Kith, do you know or care?
 This my heart's truest wedding there?
 Kith, I am in a vision!
 All the world to me is dead;
 Only, in an airy trance,
 Little finger fingers fly:
 Surely, O my Kith, how true
 I shall catch and kiss them, dear!
 Tangled! poor, poor, brown not, Kith!
 Though I gladly bear the pain;
 For your eyes are so pretty;
 Surely, O my Kith, how true
 There's a lady's love, wind and wind,
 Tangled! tangled, my Kith!
 Kiss, kiss, kiss them, free again!

ADVICE TO SKATERS.
 1. Never try to skate in two directions at once. This feat has been attempted by beginners, but never successfully. It always ends in sorrow.

2. Eat a few apples for refreshment while skating, and be sure to throw the cores on the ice, for fast skaters break their shins over. Fast skaters use their natural enemies and should not be allowed to enjoy themselves peacefully.

3. Sit down occasionally, no matter where—right in the way of the rest of the party, if you want to. There is no law to prevent a new beginner from sitting down whenever he has an inclination to do so.

4. When you meet a particularly handsome young lady, try to skate on both sides of her at once. This is very pretty and sure to create a sensation. If the lady's big brother is in sight it is well to omit this.

5. Skate over all the small boys at once. Knock 'em down. It makes fun, and they like it.

6. If you skate into a hole, take it coolly. Think how you would feel if the water was boiling hot.

7. If your skates are too slippery, buy a new pair. Keep buying new pairs till you find a pair that is not slippery.

8. In sitting down, do it gradually. Don't be too sudden, you may break the ice.

9. When you fall headlong, examine the straps of your skates very carefully before you get up. This will make everybody think you fell because your skates were loose. Beginners always do.

10. Wear a heavy overcoat or cloak till you get thoroughly warmed up, and then throw it off and let the wind cool you. This will insure a fine cold that will last you as long as you live.

QUER EMPLOYMENT.
 We heard a pretty good story the other day, from a honest-faced Hoosier vent into a fancy store in Cincinnati, in his situation. The proprietor was sitting in the counting room, with his feet elevated, contemplating life through the soothing influence of cigar-smoke.

Our Hoosier friend addressed him as follows:
 "Do you want to hire any man about your establishment?"
 The clerk looked indifferently, but seeing his customer, concluded to have a little fun out of him, so he answered very briskly, at the same time pulling out a large and costly handkerchief, and wiping his nose on it.
 "Yes, sir; what sort of a situation do you want?"
 "Well, I'm not particular. I'm out of work and almost anything will do for me for a while."
 "What is it? What's to be done, and what do you give?"
 "Well, I want a hand to chop cigars into paper, and if you are willing to set, you may begin at once."
 "Good as what? Hand over your rags."
 "Here, take this handkerchief and commence with it."
 The Hoosier saw the "sell," and quietly putting the handkerchief into his pocket, walked out, remarking:
 "When I get it, I'm hatched, I'll fetch it back."
 "What is it? What's to be done, and what do you give?"

SHOCKING OUTRAGE BY NEGROES IN SOUTH CAROLINA.—About 11 o'clock on Friday night, five negroes came to the store of Mr. M. A. Muldrow, in Darlington district, and rapping up the clerk, Mr. R. Bug, asked admittance. Mr. Bug enquired who they were, and receiving the response that they were friends come to trade with him, he opened the door of the store. Four negroes armed with double-barreled shot-guns, entered, and placing their weapons in the corner of the room, commenced examining goods, remarking that they were in the employ of the railroad, had just been paid off, and desired to make purchases to the amount of ten dollars each.—About fifty dollars worth of goods were selected, when one of the number asked Mr. Bug if he could change a treasury note of the denomination of one hundred dollars. The wife of Mr. Bug, who was in an adjoining room, heard the remark, and her suspicions being excited by it, she went out of the back door to the house of a gentleman named Wyndham, and requested him to come to the store, and in case any trouble should occur, to render Mr. Bug what assistance he could. Mr. Wyndham complied, taking a gun with him, and as he reached the store he heard the report of a shot. The three open doors, and was immediately fired upon five times by the negroes. He returned the fire, when they rushed upon him and seized his gun, and a scuffle ensued, during which he managed to effect his escape, and, repairing to Mr. Muldrow's house, reported the condition of affairs. As soon as the latter could dress and arm himself, he ran to the store, accompanied by Mr. Wyndham. There all was quiet, and as the store had the report of a shot.
