DEBILITY.
 Debility is a common ailment, and one that is often the result of a long and painful illness. It is a condition of the system in which the energy of the body is exhausted, and the organs are weakened. The symptoms are a general feeling of weakness, loss of appetite, and a tendency to be overcome by fatigue.
NOTE.
 It is a well-established fact that fully one-half of the female population are afflicted with some form of debility. The cause of this is often a long and painful illness, or a general feeling of weakness.
TESTIMONIALS.
 Hon. Geo. W. Woodward, Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia, Pa.
 Hon. James Thompson, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.
 From Rev. E. D. Fendall, American Bible Society, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE BIRD SOCIETY.
 Millions of birds are being killed every day. They are being killed for sport, and for the sake of their feathers. The birds are being killed by the use of shot, traps, and other devices.
BOTH AND GIRLS—A CONFIDENCE.
 Through brothers and sisters, we have a striking difference in the nature and dispositions of boys and girls. How like a tender flower, depending upon some unobtrusive support it is the one—how bold, headstrong and independent the other. Boys tend naturally to fun in their play. They like to be outdoors. They like to be in the open air. They like to be in the open air. They like to be in the open air.
THE ALABAMA BILL.
 RICHMOND, SHAWNEE AND UNLAWFUL PROVISIONS.—Both branches of the Rump have passed a bill for the establishment of a "provisional government" for Alabama, which is, to say the least, a specimen of legislation which never had a precedent since the days of the Goths and Vandals. It provides that the Radical candidates who were defeated at the late election for State officers shall take possession of the State government, and that the defeated Radicals shall assemble as a Legislature. This Legislature is then to submit to the people, for ratification or rejection, the "constitution" which was rejected by the people at the time the Radical candidates (in their own membership) were defeated. After the adoption of the "constitution," it is to be submitted to the Rump for approval, but not until the ratification of the proposed State organization (the defeated Radicals) shall have ratified the Fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution—the amendment which proposes to enforce an equality of civil and political rights for the negroes in every State in the Union. This done, the negro State government can go on its way rejoicing.
LEARNING A TRADE.
 Stephen Girard had a favorite clerk, and he intended to do well by Ben. Lippincott. So when Ben. got to be twenty-one he expected to have the Governor say something of his future prospects, and perhaps lead a helping hand in the world. But the old clerk being avoided the subject, Ben. muttered courage. "I suppose I am now free, sir," said he. "and I thought I would say something to you as to my course. What do you think I had better do?" "Yes, yes, I know you had better," said the millionaire, "and my advice is that you go and learn the cooper's trade. This application of ice nearly froze Ben. but, recovering his equilibrium, he said; "Mr. Girard, in earnest he would do so. 'I am in earnest,' and Ben. forthwith sought the best cooper in Spring Garden, became an apprentice, and in due time could make as good a barrel as the best. He announced to old Stephen that he had graduated, and was ready to set up in business. The old man seemed gratified, and immediately ordered three of the best barrels he could turn out. Ben. did his prettiest, and wheeled them up to his counting room. Mr. Girard pronounced them first rate, and demanded the price. "One dollar," said Ben. "as low as I can live by." "Cheap enough; make out your bill." The bill was made out, and old Stephen accompanied with this little moral to send him to set up in business, and invest it in the best possible manner; and if you are unfortunate and lose it, you have a good trade to fall back upon, which will afford you a good living."
