It is always so with tubers thus vintered, as thousands have observed. Now let us look at the attendant conditions in which these tubers have been so finely preserved. They were not sunned. Some think it well to let putatoes lie under a scathing September or October sun five or six hours be fore storing them. They could hardly ndo a thing more calculated to hasten leterioration. Every moment of sunshine on potatoes, when harvested, injures them. They were not sired, or being lett in a soil compacted by he full rains, little air could circulate among them. ## NATURE AND USE OF PLANTER.

The question is often asked among farmers of what use is plaster? When where and how should it be used? And it is seldom that a satisfactory anawer ingiven them. Nearly every farmer who had made any application of planter had found it serviceable at one another. Not one in a hundred knows the reason for success or failure.

Most people found the application to clover attended generally with good results; some found it good sometimes for potatoes; but not a single one could tell what is plaster good for? Chemistry solves the question: Plaster is a sulphate of lime. To different branches of science it is known by different names. In the arts it is plaster; in mineralogy it is gy psum; in chem-lstry it is sulphate of time. It is sulphuric acid and lime. Sulphuric acid has an affinity for ammonia, and when it finds ammonia it breaks up its partnership with the lime and combine with the ammonia, forming sulphate of ammonia, and this is non-volatile. The lime finds a companion, when deserted by the acid, in carbonic acid, rming carbonate of lime.

Hence it will be seen that when the farmer has ammonia in his soil, put there himself in manure, or in any other manner, liable to waste, the plaster will fix it there, and in all such cases it can be applied to the ground with profit. The odor about stables and manure heaps is escaping ammonia, and the farmer can judiciouscases, saving ammonia for his land. Plaster saves to the soil nitrogen, one of the chief mineral agents cutering into the growth of plants; ammonia i three parts hydrogen and one part nitrogen. Ammonia escapes from decaying vegetation wherever it is found, pout of the deepest fountains of the and is suspended in the air, and when pleast; they are the life spring of a after a long dry spell and considerable quantities of it have ascended, the first rain brings it to the earth, and if there is a little plaster in the clover field the ammonia never rises again. This very study in the uses of plasbe a student, and in some degree a nan of science. He must learn tha He may need organic substances as well, and to know this is the duty of the farmer. But it is well to have explained the nature and uses of plaater. o that whoever reads may know when
