Grant and the Colored Men.

State of Massachusetts held a meeting in Beston for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the colored people's National Convention to be held at New Orleans on the 10th of the present month. Among the resolutions of fered was one endorsing Grant and favoring his renomination by the Philadelphia Convention. The resolution was defeated by a decided majority of the delegates.

During the discussion of the resolution an umber of pointed and decided hits were made at Grant, and Radical leaders, by the speakers. One of them ally prefer, in choice of members of Congress. He says this is the ground the Republican party has always maintained, and sees nothing in contrast with this in his letter to Mr. Grosvenor:

The Philadelphia correspondent of the N. Y. Sun, tells of w "counter" who was employed to count the five cent uickels in the U. S. Mint, and who carried away $3,760 worth of them in less than three weeks, filling all of his pockets each night. He was found out and discharged but never was arrested. The reason why he escaped was that he was a Grant man and a good worker. Another official defaulted to the amount of $20,000 while a third carried off $20,000 in mall silver coins, a pocket full at a time. All these losses are accounted for as "shortages." The extent of these "shortages." Can only be conjectured by the public. The airmentages and the curse of the conduct of the Presidential chair. He believed that the leaders of the Republican party had been merely making use of the colored voters for selfish purposes and had been the bane and the curse of the colored voters for selfish purposes and had been the bane and the curse of the colored race that they had pledged themselves to any party. "We want," said Morris, "we want some of the chestnuts now, for it is our turn to have some of the good things in the sterehouse of the nation."
