

Love's Broom.
Whirl it on a spinning wheel, Good luck, my heart, I hardly know, I have such stores of reason;
'Tis said to take me all a summer day, Nay, saying half that I could say, Wondrously the cheerless sun, Because her eyes are so very brown, To me to her have I Because her hair is soft and black, Madonna was in simple dress,
And with her hair so black, Because her lips are sweet to touch, Not dull, nor very overdone, But softly warm as roses, Dear lips that chaste when they move, Lips, that a man may kiss, Till earth be overdone close; Because her hair is soft and white,
Of touch so tender and so light, That where her slender finger Doth all the more, the man to whom She is so dear, she is so dear, Beneath its spell might linger; Because her heart is woman-sober, So true, so tender, that I oft Do marvel that a creature, So rich, so rare, to me should fall,
And that she should be so dear,
In loving past all measure; Because she has such stores of modesty, So modestly, so modestly, So that my heart may overture Of modesty, or modesty, That she, my love, possess; Ah! what I know or what I see, Or what I have to do with?
How simple is the reason!
I love her for she is my love,
And that she should be so dear,
And season follow season.

Fans, Garden and Household.
To Dry Sweet Corn.—The Shakers, who dry sweet corn is considered as good as the best, strip the corn from the cob by cutting down the rows with a knife, and then scraping the corn from the cob with a sharp knife in the sun or in common ovens. The Allen process of drying is suited to an extensive business. When the corn is dry it is packed in barrels for market.
CREAM TEA.—This requires 3 cups of milk, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoonsful of cornstarch, a pinch of salt, butter the size of walnut and a glass of cream. Heat the milk and cream to boiling, then add 1 cup of the milk with the butter and salt; beat the yolks of the eggs with the cream and the other 1 cup of milk and add to the scalded milk, with 1 teaspoonful of lemon extract. Put it in the cream and bake until done. Then beat the whites of 2 eggs making stiff froth, add the sugar and spread over the top, and brown slightly.

Renovating Strawberry Beds.— Either space under the plants and set out young plants, or remove the plants ground, after giving it a good liberal dressing of manure, or make a new bed in some other part of your garden. After a strawberry patch has been established up with weeds, it is much the best plan to plow it up and make a new one. The soil should be rich and deep, and the plants should be set in rows grows better than the old thrifty plantations, but the modern system of frequent renewals is far the best and most economical as well as profitable.
WATER WATER.—One acre of meadow that can be irrigated is worth three acres not susceptible of such treatment.
A large proportion of farms in the Eastern States might, to a great extent, be irrigated by this system.
Wherever there is a spring flowing from high ground it may be gathered into a small stream, terraced and carried down and lead back and forth across the lowlands to nourish the grass. Wherever a stream has a fall of a few feet there waters may be carried in lateral channels and made to overflow more or less of the soil along its banks. Every farmer should practice with an ordinary spring level until he is able to determine accurately well where and how he can turn water upon his fields.

Egg Eating Hens.—A writer in the Journal of Horticulture advises any one who has a large number of hens to break an egg and dust the contents with Cayenne pepper, to mix the egg around, so as to get the pepper between the shells, and to mix the egg in the offender's nest. Or, if he catches her in the act of eating an egg, let him drive her away quickly, and place pepper on the egg, and the egg, endeavoring, as stated above, to get the pepper underneath. He will never see her again. It is a good plan with distended bladders, if the bird is not sufficient another, a little stronger; but one dose has proved to be a perfect cure.
Sup-Immature Trees.—A correspondent of the Pacific Rural Press suggests the following mode of supplanting trees: When the tree or vine is to be planted, dig a hole 18 inches wide and 18 inches deep, and fill it with a wooden spade, or an open hole of any kind for getting the tree down and preventing evaporation.

Food for Dairy Cows.—Prof. Cook states that the best food for dairy cows is a mixture of clover hay and corn. He describes this as small size, varying from 60 to 80 lbs. in weight, and milking, on an average, twenty quarts per day. They are fed twice on cabbage, which is considered the best food for producing milk.
Our dairy farmers here would no doubt find equal benefit from feeding cows on cabbage, but the best food for them is no waste in the butter of the cow, if the cows are milked before feeding. Another fact stated by Professor Cook, is that the best food for dairy cows in England and Scotland is considered most profitable to give cows all they could. The soiling system is of course the best, and the most profitable. It is of cows tied up in stalls, where they are kept from year to year, no disease or other drawback resulting from confinement.
They were not only healthy, but thrifty—and never leave the stalls till they go to the butcher.

Friendship Cattle.—In Orange county, N. Y., milk commanding better prices, the cattle are fed on corn and clover, and corn feed, or corn meal, is generally given in Summer, always in Winter.
Dresser's grains and sprouts are largely used in the corn feed in some winter, when pastures are failing. In Winter fodder and hay are fed everywhere. The use of drilled corn for Winter fodder is good, and the use of for Summer food is not customary as yet, though increasing. Roots are fed in Central New York considerably, and in Massachusetts and Connecticut, preference is given to beets as better than turnips. But the vast majority of dairy farmers cook the corn feed in some and the native grass in Summer, and the corn fodder in Winter, with a little grain or roots in early Spring to "bring them in," and "put them down in a fair condition." No variety of grasses is produced. I have seen only one field of Lucerne, no Italian or rye grass or millet, or orchard grass, and the use of and the native grasses are the "standards." In a very few places some rye is grown for early green food.

Corn Cake.—Break eight eggs, of which set aside four whites. Beat separately the remaining four whites and eight yolks till very light. One pound of sugar, one and a half pounds of sugar, pulverized; half a pound of butter, milk, and a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of

A Rustan Ghost Story.
In a certain village—so the story goes —there was a girl who hated work but loved gossip. So she never spun herself, but used to invite the other girls to her house, where she feasted them on a spun for her. During one of these spinning feasts a dispute arose as to which of the party was the boldest.
"I'm not afraid of anything," said the laziest of them.
"Well, then," said the spinners, "if you're not afraid, go through the graveyard at midnight, and take down the Holy Picture from the door, and bring it here."
"Very well," said she. "I'll bring it, only each of you must spin me a distaff full."
Well, she went to the church, took down the picture, and brought it to her home. But then the picture had to be taken back again, and the midnight raid arrived. Who was to take it?
"I'll take it," said the girl who had said she was not afraid of anything.
"I'm not afraid of anything," said she.
"I'll take it back myself. I'm not afraid of anything!"
So she went back to the church, and took down the picture, and brought it to her home. But then the picture had to be taken back again, and the midnight raid arrived. Who was to take it?
"I'm not afraid of anything," said she.
not afraid of anything!"

to be taken back again, and the mid-
night raid arrived. Who was to take it?

not afraid of anything!"
So she went back to the church, and

not afraid of anything!"

Next night, at the same hour, after all the spinners had gone to their own beds, the picture was again, tapped at the window, and said:
"No! Let her carry it back to the place she took it from."
The girl's father and mother were wakened by the noise, and asked the cause thereof, but it cried:
place she took it from."

Starting in Married Life.
I will tell you a story of my own experience, starting in the world. When I was very young and very poor, I married a very young man; he worked out by the day or by the month, and I did the housework. We had a small house, and I did the housework. We did not consume the income of the fair ones, something must be done. What should I do? I had to do something.
I had to do something. I had to do something. I had to do something.
I had to do something. I had to do something. I had to do something.
I had to do something. I had to do something. I had to do something.
I had to do something. I had to do something. I had to do something.

How to Untie the Ends of Lead Pipe.—Whatever the size of the pipe may be, procure a block of lead wood, say four inches long, and four inches in diameter; bore a hole through the center, so nearly the size of the pipe that the block can be driven on the pipe, and will fit snugly. If one has a different size of pipe, it will not be difficult to select a bit of the proper size to make a water-tight fit. Let the block be of the proper size, and drive it on the pipe until it is at the middle of the joint. If the hole in the block is made of the proper size, the block will fit snugly, and will not move. If the hole is too small, the block will not fit, and if the hole is too large, the block will not fit. If the hole is too small, the block will not fit, and if the hole is too large, the block will not fit. If the hole is too small, the block will not fit, and if the hole is too large, the block will not fit.

THE MOUNTAIN MEADOWS MASSACRE.
An affidavit in full by one of the least injured parties in the affair, thus conclusively settling the terrible Mountain Meadows massacre as an act of the Mormon authorities.
It will be seen that the massacre of emigrants, on their way to California, are known to have been all killed, with the exception of the young children.
The report of the massacre, as given by the Mormons set forth the story that they had perished by the hands of the Indians; but from time to time circumstantial evidence has been brought forth, offering them protection if they would lay down their arms. The terms were complied with, the entire party was butchered by their captors.

What Was Wanted.—A Western editor who recently attacked a school education, didn't like it because he saw no indication that the girls possessed any of the essentials necessary to the making of a good wife. He said, he says, at a glance that the graduating girls are soon to be married and that they are taught the chemistry of boiling water on corned beef, as well as the philosophy of some
