Louisiana is still far from being quiet. The usurping, bastard Kellogg government, upheld by Grant's bayonets, is trying to enforce its mandates against an unwilling people. The citizens of that state are unanimously resolved to pay no taxes levied by a bogus government. They are rightthat government is not the one they voted for, and why not resist the payment of taxes which it levies to uphold itself? That is what our revolutionary fathers did. To resist such an injustice is the sacred, God-given right of any people. The people of Louisiana want nothing to do with the Kellogg government-it is there in direct

Mr. Hancock's "little rooster" does not like what we said on the senator question-that part of it which advises against the danger of selecting any one but a sound and incorruptible democrat. Of course we did not, nei ther does any one else, expect that to suit Mr. Hancock's "little rooster." We only reminded the party of the fact that democrats have shown, even in our own county inside the last five years, that they will not vote solidly for a bad man, hence we think it a matter of the highest importance that in this clese district the democracy be warned against making a weak no mination. During the conflicts which took place twelve persons were killed and forty wounded.
