

THE CENTRE REPORTER,
FREDERICK,
Centre Hall, Pa., June 26, 1873.

TERMS.—The Reporter is published weekly at $3 per year, in advance, or $2.50 when not paid in advance. For six months half price is given. Advertisements $1.50 per square (ten lines) for three insertions. Advertising rates for a single insertion, double the rate. Any person sending us the names of six new subscribers, with the cash will receive the Reporter one year free.

* Figures for the People.

Here are three tables of figuring, which don't lie. They are short, but intelligible. One table shows how the radical administration spent, $2,995 in one year repairing two wagons; the other the salary grab measure, and the third, shows how much more it costs to keep the white house under Grant, when prices were low, than it did under Lincoln when prices were high.

THE WAGON BUSINESS.

July 31—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	$91.00
Aug. 31—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	19.50
Oct. 2—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	87.75
Nov. 4—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	94.00
Nov. 29—J. McDermott & Bro repairing wagons.....	178.25
Dec. 16—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	83.75
1871
Feb. 1—J. McDermott & Bro repairing wagons.....	76.00
Mar. 2—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	200.00
April 1—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	22.00
April 1—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	17.00
Ap'l 1—J. McDermott & Bro repairing wagons.....	68.25
May 31—J. McDermott & Bro, repairing wagons.....	22.00
June 28—J. McDermott & Bro repairing wagons.....	88.75
June 29—A. J. Joyce & Bro repairing wagons.....	66.95
Total.....	$2,099.95

THE SALARY GRAB.

President.....	$ 25,000	$ 20,000
Vice President.....	8,000	10,000
Speaker.....	5,000	10,000
Clerk of the House.....	6,500	8,000
Associate Secy. &c.	48,000	80,000
Cabt. of Members.....	54,000	70,000
Assistant Secy. &c.	21,000	42,000
Con. 241 members.....	1,205,000
New Con. 21.....	2,182,000
Senate.....	370,000	675,000
Delegates.....	50,000	108,000
Total annual sal'r's.....	$1,784,500	$2,310,000

THE WHITE HOUSE BILL.

For Lincoln's 1873 For Secretaries, $1,500 For 20 private secrety, steward, and messenger, 4,600 For contingent expenses of the White House office.....	$1,500
For two night keepers.....	1,200
For two do- keepers.....	1,200
For one furl- anner.....	6,000
For Fuel.....	2,400
For repairs of house and for furnishing for improving grounds and purchasing plants and all conti- guous.....	6,000
For rent of summer resi- dence at "Old Sol- diers Home" 3,000
Total Grant $20,100
Besides various officers of the army, Brigadier General, etc.
In addition to the above we come home to Pennsylvania, and find a de- falcation, under our radical state ad- ministration, of 24 million dollars, as exposed and proven from the official documents, by Mr. Orvis, in the House, last winter.

Ring-tail in Philadelphia.

The State House Ring of radicals, in Philadelphia, is doing for that city what Tammany did for New York—plundering the city at a merciless rate:

SNYDER COUNTY NOMINA-TION.

The Republicans of Snyder County held their primary election on Saturday, June 7th. The following persons received the nomination: Senator B. E. W. Wagnell; Assembly, G. Alfred Scott; State Auditor, John E. Rodger; Associate Judge, B. L. Lembach; Jury Commissioner, Aaron S. Halfrich; Register and Recorder James M. Vanzandt; Prothonotary, J. Crose; District Attorney, L. N. Myers; Treasurer, G. W. Row.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

SNYDER COUNTY NOMINA-TION.

The Republicans of Snyder County held their primary election on Saturday, June 7th. The following persons received the nomination: Senator B. E. W. Wagnell; Assembly, G. Alfred Scott; State Auditor, John E. Rodger; Associate Judge, B. L. Lembach; Jury Commissioner, Aaron S. Halfrich; Register and Recorder James M. Vanzandt; Prothonotary, J. Crose; District Attorney, L. N. Myers; Treasurer, G. W. Row.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at Covington, Kentucky. The Alton Tribune says that while he was in the act of stepping into his car, after he had eaten supper at the Logan house, some one asked "How are you Jesus?" His reply was "Bully!" Somebody else inquired of him where his father, the President, was just now. He immediately answered that he was either at Long Branch, or Montana territory or West Point, or the White Mountains, down south, or in El Paso county fishing for trout, or he might be in Alaska, and if he wasn't at either of the places named he didn't know but that a telegram might reach him at Washington city.

THE LITTLE GOVERNMENT.

Among the passengers on the Cincinnati express on Tuesday night was Jesus Grant, son of the President, who had been to see his grandfather at