A lot of reapers which a manufacturer who was going out of the business had on hand were offered to the Grangers for $75 each, provided they would take the whole of them. They were carefully examined and tested by the State Agent and others, who reported that they would be cheap at $150. A circular conveying this information was sent to the Granges of the States, and the whole lot was disposed of at once. They have given universal satisfaction. I might go on at great length quoting prices, but those I have given are sufficient to show that by intelligent co-operation the farmers of the West can save a great amount of money. Gen. Wilson, Secretary of the State Grange, thinks that $2,000,000 has already been saved in this way. Mr. Whitman, the State Agent, thinks this figure too high, though he has no data from which to make an estimate. The Grange has not only benefited its own members by its co-operative purchases, but has caused reduction in the prices of all kinds of farming implements, sewing machines, &c., in the stores and when sold by agents. A single example will illustrate this fact. A year ago, when the agents for the sale of a certain cultivaor supposed that they had the entire control of the market, they charged $35, and threatened to raise the price.
