TERRIBLE EARTHQUAKE.

YELLOW FEVER.

The Disease Yet Raging in Memphis.

On October 21st.—A great earthquake occurred in Sicily. The Propolis sulphur mine has been destroyed. Violent eruptions of Mount Etna have also taken place, causing much devastation in the provinces of Catania and Taormina. The people are greatly alarmed.

The river Tiber has overflowed its banks and laid a large tract of country under water. The Parthenon is partially submerged.

Judge Nelson, of Brooklyn, has ended the Kallidisch breach-of-promise suit by deciding that the contract was a civil contract, and a reputation of that nature, is, therefore, a breach of contract. Being personally liable and no more, the actual breaking of the contract can be made a tort only when the plaintiff has suffered some actual injury of person or property. The plaintiff, her suit cannot follow the judgment of the court.

Three colored children were burned to death at Washington, D. C., yesterday. They had been locked in a room by their mother while she carried her husband's dinner.

The mortality report for Memphis for the twenty-four hours ending at noon yesterday shows five deaths from yellow fever and one from other causes.

Peter's Magazine, for November, is on our table ahead of all others. The principal feature is the new "Graphic," which is a very interesting and valuable contribution to the magazine. It contains a full and complete history of the Civil War, and is a most interesting and valuable contribution to the magazine.

Life is often compared to a stream upon which we are gliding to Eternity. In this case it was a rapid stream, which carried our friend to his eternal home in the prime of life. Truly "the flowery path" was short, and the "bright morning" but a short one. He was a most worthy and successful citizen. He was a most worthy and successful citizen. He was a most worthy and successful citizen.

AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

New Revised Edition.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on each subject. From new sources and illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of the "New American Encyclopedia" was completed in 1862, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and history, have induced the publishers to submit it to an entire re-arrangement, and to issue a new edition, entitled "The American Cyclopaedia."

In the last ten years the progress of knowledge has made a new work of reference, embracing all the most important and useful arts, and the progress of political and industrial science, which has taken place in the last ten years, and which has been the result of the most important and useful arts, and the progress of political and industrial science, which has taken place in the last ten years.
