Simms; and don't let miss Leigh know that I am in the house." By the time he had finished his lunch his mind was made up. Selecting a hugely crested sheet of stiff note-paper, so as to give the document an official character, he sat down, squared his el-bows, and commenced to write. The following epistle was the result of his efforts: My DEAR MOSS LEMON : For the first time I address you, personally, though "So you're Tom Luttrell?"

"So you're Tom Luttrell ?" "Yes," said he, looking up. "What do you know of me?" "There is a young lady staying at Newlands who is a great friend of mine; she has told me about you." "Indeed! And what's her name." "Nellie Leich "

The Execution of Major Andre. The following sketch of the execution of Major Andre of the British army, who was hanged by the neck in obedi-near to the award of a court martini held in Westcheater Courty, New York, about 1780, was written by a "ere-witness," a man who looked on and save the terrible drama consummated. Andre was a subject of Great Britain an officer commissioned by George Hi, and an aid-de-camp to Sir Henry Olin too. As such, he was cammissioned spy by Clinton, to negotiate with Major frender of West Point, then the strong-hold of the American behalf of Major Andre unusual sympathy.
